France Chops a Head.
40 Well-Spent Millions.
Sharp-Shooting, New Style.
Opium, Pipes and Gold.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WHEN THAT which calls itself civilization imitates the murderer by murdering him, the process is never pleasant. But, in Paris, it is at least dramatic. Yesterday France killed the half crazy Russian Gorguloff, who killed President Doumer.

The slanting blade of the guillotine chopped off the Russian's head just as the dawn broke a little after five yesterday morning.

The writer, who saw and reported guillotinings in Paris for Charles A. Dana, long ago, can assure you that the spectacle is not pleasant. But France is efficient.

The prisoner appears hobbled, walks to his death, a priest beside him, in this case, a priest of the Orthodox Greek Church, who kissed the murderer just before the blade fell. The head was off forty seconds after the man appeared.

WHEN THE murderer is unpopular, as in the case of one Prado, who had killed several women, the excitable crowd rushes forward to dip a handkerchief in the blood "for luck."

GORGULOFF'S LAST words were:

"Russia! Russia! My fatherland."

He had drunk two glasses of rum, supplied by the French government, but declined the cigaret also politely supplied at public expense. He hoped his child would not be a Communist and that it would be a boy. It is not yet born.

GORGULOFF SEEMED to appreciate the salute with sabres which the Garde Republicaine honored him from the back of their horses in accordance with custom. France is always polite to the dead or dying. Hats are all removed at sight of a hearse.

As you read this, Gorguloff, if he knows anything, knows many things that he did not suspect here on earth. He knows that what happens on the half-developed little grain of sand, called the earth, recently abandoned by him, makes little difference in the cosmic scheme.

FROM LOS ANGELES, Mr. John G. Bullock telegraphs to New York this excellent news:

"The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California has just closed with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to take forty million Metropolitan Water District bonds. This enables the city to start work on our two hundred and twenty million dollar aqueduct to bring Colorado River water over desert through the mountain tunnels, a distance of three hundred miles, to the metropolitan area of Southern California, including Los Angeles and twelve other member cities.

"The work will employ an average of ten thousand men over the six-year period of construction. In addition materials used will result in employment of labor throughout the nation."

THAT IS good news in these times. It means work for ten thousand, and in addition these forty millions of government money will be paid back easily from earnings. Mr. Bullock, with other citizens of Los Angeles, who have devoted time and energy to the aqueduct work, deserves highest praise.

A NEW KIND of sharp shooting is developed, more important to this country's safety than anything else, not excepting sentimental peace talk.

Lieut. E. W. O'Connor, Army Air Corps, established a world's record for consecutive hits with bombs from a height of 5,000 feet. He aimed eight bombs at a small circle on the ground. Seven reached the mark, the eighth fell just outside the circle.

ONE FLIER, with one helper, in a bombing plane costing less than a hundred thousand dollars, shooting as well as that, could have destroyed seven battleships, costing fifty million dollars each, destroying also their crews.

She will find that more useful than the old floating armada sent against England and Elizabeth.

THE PROCESS of drawing conclusions is interesting.

When shipwrecked men in ancient Greece found on the sand geometrical tracings showing that the sum of two right angles is equal to one triangle, they knew they had reached "civilization" and thanked Zeus.

Later in the dark ages others shipwrecked saw a gibbet with human skeletons hanging in chains. They knew that they had reached "civilization," and thanked God.

NOW IN FAR Japan the army says it is absolutely certain that China's General Ma Chan-Shan was killed near Harbin, in spite of Chinese denials.

To prove that the great Chinese general is dead, Japan shows a collection of articles that include three opium pipes, a package of opium, more than twenty bars of gold, Japanese and Chinese bank notes and Gen. Ma's military decorations.

ITALY HUNTS 3 LOST ON SEA HOP

Land and Sea Searched For Woman, 2 Men In 'Flying Nurse'

ROME, Sept. 15. — (AP.) —Every searching agency under the control of the Italian government was set to work today to find the missing monoplane "American Nurse" which had disappeared on a non-stop flight from New York to Rome.

The plane left New York Tuesday morning and was due here last midnight with her crew of two men and a woman, but there was no report of it after 11:50 a. m. yesterday when a steamer reported sighting it 400 miles off the southern coast of Ireland. Those aboard were William Ulbrich, pilot; Dr. Leon M. Pisculli, owner, and Edna Newcomer, a nurse.

BALBO ORDERS SEARCH

As soon as he was certain that the fuel must be exhausted even if there had been no accident, Gen. Italo Balbo, the Minister for Air, ordered all pilots, military and civil, on land and sea, to search for signs of the plane or for wreckage. Forestry workers, lighthouse keepers, warships and merchantmen, as well as the entire national police force were instructed to be vigilant.

Aviation authorities doubted that the plane had reached Italy, but the government notified the American military attache that everything possible was being done.

NIGHT-LONG VIGIL

When darkness approached last night the huge military airport at Ciampino turned on its ground lights, and from dusk to dawn the finger of a great searchlight swept the sky. A large ground crew was kept ready all night.

It was expected that the thorough search already under way would quickly eliminate the possibility that the plane might have landed or crashed somewhere in Italy.

If the American Nurse is down or lost, it would be the third failure of an attempt to fly from New York to Rome. In 1927 the Old Glory was lost with three victims at sea. In 1929 Roger Williams and Lewis Yancey started for Rome, but landed in Spain.

The last report of the plane was when she was sighted 400 miles off Ireland. Subsequently there was an erroneous report that it had been seen over Sardinia. This was later denied.

Three Convicts Flee From Rockview Farm

Three convicts took leave of the prison farm at Rockview early today, according to a report to the Pittsburgh police.

Harry Harding, 42, one of the trio, was sentenced from Allegheny County in June, 1926, in connection with a $5,000 robbery of a jewelry store in the Fulton Building. The others were William Meyers, sentenced from Beaver County, and John Griffen, sentenced from Fayette County, both on breaking and entering charges.

Foreign Legion Toll In Wreck Reaches 55

PARIS, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Advices to the War Ministry today placed the number of dead in the wreck of a train carrying 508 members of the French Foreign Legion in Algeria yesterday at 55. A total of 223 were injured, these advices said.

Ministry officials said they believed heavy rains had washed out the roadbed, causing the tracks to give way.

Feed Needy Hoover's Plea

By STUART GODWIN
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Declaring that no man, woman or child shall go hungry this winter, President Hoover marshaled the nation's welfare and relief organizations here today to map plans for the coming cold months.

Mr. Hoover opened the conference of delegates from the relief agencies with an appeal for wholehearted national support of the winter drive, and expressed the opinion this would be the last of the succession of winters when nation-wide help must be given to millions of destitute.

The President's address opened a crowded day, with leaders of many fields of national endeavor threshing out between them ways and means of keeping up the organized fight against cold and hunger.

BAKER'S RESPONSE

Newton D. Baker, war-time Secretary of War and associate of Herbert Hoover, responded to the President's charge, and declared that as the scale of civilization has ascended, "it has become increasingly and more imperatively true that life is more than meat and body more than raiment."

Mr. Hoover set forth four definite aims of today's conference. They were:

"That no man, woman or child shall go hungry or unsheltered during the approaching winter.

MONACA PUPILS END STRIKE

MONACA, Pa., Sept. 15.—The two-day strike of students at Monaca High School was over today.

Following a conference last night between eight football players suspended for hazing, and Dr. I. H. Todd, president of the school board, the 250 students who walked out in the protest, returned to their classes this morning.

The suspended youths were to meet tonight with the school board. It was reported they were to make apology, agree to cease cropping freshmen's hair, and be reinstated so the school team may play Ambridge, Saturday.

Peace terms followed circulation of a petition at the instance of alumni and signed by parents of the striking students, asking the board for a conference to talk over the situation.

Mrs. Tunney Rests After Operation

PARIS, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gene Tunney, wife of the former heavyweight champion, who was operated on yesterday for a mastoid infection, passed a good night last night. Her physicians said no complications had resulted and she was resting well.

LEGION RAPS U. S. WAR BUREAU

Censures Department Over Hurley Speech On Bonus Riots

International News Service.

AUDITORIUM, PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 15.—The War Department was formally censured by a viva voce vote of the American Legion convention here today for franking a speech of Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley on the subject of the Washington bonus riots.

Meanwhile, after offering the nation a powerful "America first" program, the Legion stood ready to demand repeal of prohibition and immediate payment of the World War bonus.

The war-born organization will ask repeal of the national prohibition laws, including the Volstead act, as well as submission of the necessary legislation to the states to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. It will go on record overwhelmingly for the cash bonus. This was forecast exclusively by International News Service earlier in the week.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

The legion's platform on foreign affairs would gratify even the staunchest Senate irreconcilable. The veterans declared against adherence to the World Court "on any terms" and announced they were "unalterably opposed" to either the League of Nations or cancellation of any part of the war debts. They "vigorously opposed" recognition of Russia, demanded that aliens be

Watson Improved Following Collapse

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Apparently recovered from an attack which forced him to stop speaking in the middle of a political address at Madison, Ind., yesterday, United States Senator James E. Watson today said he planned to continue his week's program without change.

Watson, 68 years old, spoke for an hour and five minutes before quitting suddenly. He revealed he had collapsed a few days ago after a speech at Peru, Ind.

His Honor's Broad Smile of Victory

EXULTANT, EXONERATED MAYOR CHARLES H. KLINE . . 'EVERYTHING WAS SATISFACTORY'

PARK SET TO FIGHT RULING

Prosecutor to Appeal Jurist's Decision For Executive

By WILLIAM PFARR
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 15.—Mayor Charles H. Kline walked out of the courtroom here a free man today when Judge Thomas D. Finletter threw out "as contradictory and senseless" the Mayor's conviction by a Butler County jury on one malfeasance charge in the purchase of city supplies.

At the same time the court upheld conviction of Bertram L. Succop, former supplies director, on all except one of 29 counts, refused him a new trial and sentenced him to serve one year in jail.

Counsel for Succop, described by his personal attorney at the trial as "the goat of Pittsburgh," were granted a supersedeas. This will act as a stay of sentence and keep Succop out of jail pending final outcome of an appeal to Superior Court.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park also plans an appeal from the court's ruling in Kline's case, under an act that permits such a move by the commonwealth in rare instances.

Meanwhile Kline will continue as Mayor of Pittsburgh.

A few friends surrounded the Mayor as his victory became apparent, but to all who offered congratulations, he said:

"Let's wait till this case is over."

'SAY THE MAYOR SMILED'

A reporter said to him:

"Is there anything you want to say?"

The Mayor exhibited one of his broadest smiles and dictated:

"You may say that the Mayor smiled and said everything was satisfactory."

He made no mention of Succop.

Succop said this:

"Well, what the hell, a fel-

Wharf Improvement Favored in Council

Improvement of the Allegheny River front at an early date was indicated today as a result of City Council's action on a wharf improvement plan submitted by George Vang, sand and gravel operator, and Norman Brown, former public works engineer for Allegheny County.

Vang, according to his plan, would spend more than $750,000 on construction of parking stations and docking facilities, provided the city would spend $350,000 for construction of a new one-way street paralleling Duquesne way from Ninth street to Stanwix street and grant him a 15-year lease.

Council unanimously passed a motion of Councilman Robert Garland directing Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert to prepare legislation for the early submission of Vang's project to Council and to submit the plans to the United States War Department.

Director Lang, who previously had submitted his own plan for wharf improvements, stated after Council's hearing today, he favored the Vang plan. As outlined to Council, the entire project would revert to the city after the elapse of 15 years.

Waldschmidt advised Council the city had the right to invest in a private undertaking of this nature, provided it did not pay the money down in a lump sum but made regular monthly payments. He also ruled that such a corporation could be exonerated from city taxes, but not from county taxes.

The only dissention at today's meeting resulted when William B. Fisher, president of the Fourth Avenue Garage, offered Council an annual rental of $17,000 for use of the wharf from Fifth avenue to Ninth street. The argument ensued when Fisher failed to say how much he intended to charge for parking.

Vatican's Railroad Ready for Operation

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—The Vatican Railroad, which is only 600 feet long, was officially completed today when the last workman left and the janitor swept out the station.

Henceforth the Pontiff may use it to take him to the edge of Vatican City, but first he will set a day for the ceremony of official delivery by the Italian government which built it under the Lateran Treaty.

Chambersburg Judge To Cut Own Salary

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Judge Watson R. Davison, Franklin County Court, today announced a 10 per cent salary cut for himself. He receives $10,000 and the $1,000 realized by the slash will go to various charities in the county.

Houston Not Surprised, Kline Friends Joyous

Exoneration of Mayor Charles H. Kline, John D. Houston said, came as no surprise to him. Houston, Pittsburgh wholesale grocer, instigated the investigation which resulted in Kline and his former supplies director, B. L. Succop, being indicted.

Asserting the decision was to be expected by the public on the basis of previous attempts to remove public officials holding important positions, Houston said:

"The only hope for our citizens is the ballot."

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt said:

"A heavy load has been lifted off the shoulders of the city administration in the setting aside of the verdict at Butler. I was very happy to hear the news, and I am sure every other city official feels happy, too, in learning that the Mayor has been vindicated."

President of Council John S. Herron said:

"The news meets with wonderful response at the City-County Building. I am very happy to learn that the Mayor has been given a clean slate."

Exchange Bank's Checks Now Ready

Dividend checks were ready today for depositors in the closed Exchange National Bank. The first batch of notices to depositors was in the mails. The first dividend is for 33⅓ per cent.

HOOVER RENEWS ATTACK ON DEMAND FOR BONUS CASH

TELLS NATION HUGE SUM NOT AVAILABLE

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—President Hoover was at sharp issue with the American Legion today on the subject of immediate cash payment of the bonus.

In a public statement, the President challenged the right of the World War veterans' organization now meeting in Portland, Ore., to expect special treatment from the government in a time of stress that could be underwritten only "by adding to the crushing burden of taxes which drain every family budget in our country today and weigh heavily on business struggling in the midst of depression."

LEGION TO VOTE

The legion was expected today to go on record by an overwhelming vote in favor of cashing its compensation for war service at once rather than waiting until 1945, as the law provides. Mr. Hoover, who has vetoed one bonus bill, anticipating the action, declared himself in no uncertain terms.

As a result of his statement, Republican leaders were looking to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, for an announcement of his position. Thus far, the New York Governor has remained studiously silent on the subject, ignoring direct inquiries concerning his views.

Mr. Hoover, appealing to the people as a whole, said two and a quarter billion dollars would be added to the amount the government originally had contracted to pay if the bonus certificates became due immediately. Further, he assailed the proposal for prompt payment that passed the House in the last session "under the leadership of the Democratic vice presidential candidate (Speaker John N. Garner)" in no uncertain terms.

DENOUNCES PROPOSAL

The President declared:

"No such sum is available.... It is unthinkable that the government of the United States should resort to the printing press and the issuance of fiat currency. . . .

"Such an act of moral bankruptcy would depreciate and might ultimately destroy the value of every dollar in the United States. It would cause the collapse of all confidence in our government and would bring widespread ruin to the entire country and to every one of our citizens. . . .

"Let us not forget that while we have lost much in this depression, we still have much more to lose. And our whole future may be said to depend upon early recovery. . . .

"In my judgment the enactment of any such proposal into legislation would be a deadly blow at the welfare of the nation. I was elected to protect and promote the interests of all the people. As long as I am President I shall continue to do so and to oppose with all of the strength and influence at my command any demand that runs counter to the common welfare."

RECOVERY SEEN BY GIFFORD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Speaking hopefully of indications of business recovery, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, today told the welfare and relief mobilization conference:

"If I entertained for a moment the thought that our present unemployment and economic situation had any of the elements of permanence, I, for one, would wish to evolve other plans rather than to again mobilize the private welfare and relief resources.

"The problem which particularly concerns this conference, as I see it, is to alleviate so far as humanly possibly distress among the unemployed while the battle against the depression is being won and, at the same time, to carry on the essential, long-established private social welfare activities of the country."

The dramatic fight to consure President Hoover for using federal troops to evict bonus marchers from Washington ended rather tamely. The Pennsylvania department's drastic censuring resolution was tabled by the resolutions committee, making it impossible for the veterans to take a vote on the issue. This outcome was generally ascribed to the fear of older leaders that the issue would plunge the Legion publicly into presidential politics if acted on by the convention.

DEFEAT EXPLAINED

Paul H. Griffith, state commander of the Pennsylvania department, explained his defeat in this way:

"We agreed in the resolutions committee to accept a substitute amendment, with the principles embodied that were approved by the Pennsylvania convention. When that resolution was prepared, it didn't meet with our approval. We offered an amendment. In the parliamentary procedure that followed, the amendment censuring the President's action was defeated. Then the resolution was defeated. Now if we brought in a minority report, we would have to bring in a resolution which we did not approve."

The prohibition issue was settled peacefully, with the convention's resolutions committee voting unanimously for a dripping wet declaration. The plank, almost paralleling the Democratic national platforms declaration on prohibition, would put the Legion on record as favoring "immediate repeal of the national prohibition act" and "immediate action by Congress" to submit to the states the question of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment.

BONUS PAYMENT

The demand for immediate payment of the bonus in cash was approved by the convention's legislative committee after a sharp fight. The committee vote was 21 to 9. On a convention ballot, this vote represented a majority of 750 to 129 for the bonus—as it was supported by nearly all the large states.

The Nebraska delegation announced it would fight adoption of the bonus plank by the convention. This opposition was kept alive, its leaders said, merely to "preserve the record," as an International News Service poll has shown about 1,100 out of the 1,280 delegates favor the cash bonus.

With the prohibition and bonus issues settled, the convention must elect a new national commander for the legion. Then its program will be completed and it will adjourn to meet next year in Chicago.

AUDITORIUM, PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Louis A. Johnson, Clarksburg, W. Va., attorney, was declared by his supporters to be assured of the post of national commander.

George Malone, Nevada, and Frank N. Belgrano, California, were still in the running, however.

Strikers Close Mines, Sheriff Fired Upon

COAL CITY, Ind., Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Illinois' mine war broke out anwe today when 1,400 picketers forced coal diggers in this northern sector to stop work as a protest against the new $5 basic wage scale.

A score of miners on their way to work were attacked by the strikers. One automobile was overturned and others damaged. Sheriff John Perucca, of Grundy County, was fired upon, but escaped injury.

agencies for character building, hospitalization, care of children and all their vast number of agencies of voluntary solicitude for the less fortunate are maintained in full strength.

"To maintain the bedrock principle of our liberties by the full mobilization of individual and local resources and responsibilities.

"That we may maintain the spiritual impulses in our people for generous giving and generous service—in the spirit that each is his brother's keeper."

PERSONAL DUTY

Pleading for a personal responsibility of men to their neighbors as the soul of genuine goodwill and the essential foundation of modern society, the President added:

"A cold and distant charity which puts out its sympathy only through the tax collector yields a very meager dole of unloving and perfunctory relief."

Predicting that "in a little while" the material maladjustments of today will disappear, Baker said:

"By one process or another we shall find a way to feed and clothe ourselves, and the strength of a strong people will restore general material prosperity."

President Hoover addressed the group of relief workers on the White House lawn. When he finished the group went to the Hotel Mayflower to execute the mission Mr. Hoover assigned to them.

INQUIRY HINTS EXTRADITION OF INSULLS

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—State's Attorney John A. Swanson today ordered his extradition expert to ascertain what steps would be necessary to return Samuel Insull, deposed utilities king, from Paris, and his brother, Martin Insull, from Ortillia, Ont.

The prosecutor then held a conference with three assistants who have dealt extensively in receivership cases. He indicated he would launch an investigation to learn whether there is any ground for criminal action in the tangled transactions which led up to the collapse of the vast Insull utility empire.

TO ASK FEDERAL ATTITUDE

Swanson disclosed he would confer with Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, before whom the Insull receiverships are being heard, "to determine the attitude of the government." Meantime, further reports were expected to be filed in Federal Court, showing more details of the $2,000,000,000 loss incurred in the Insull crash.

It was learned today that Samuel Insull's retirement as receiver for his companies resulted from the withdrawal of $100,000 from company funds to provide stock margin for his brother, Martin. Loans to company officials were said to total $261,104.

Resignation of Samuel as receiver was demanded by Federal Judge Walter J. Lindley when told of the deal with Martin.

The possibility of a grand jury inquisition also loomed. W. W. O'Brien, an attorney for stockholders in the Insull Utility Investments Corporation and the Middle West Utilities, made known his intention of laying before Swanson today a demand for a grand jury investigation of the acts of former officials of both companies.

A deficit of $28,392,665, including the capital stock of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment Company, an Insull holding company, was reported to Federal Court today by Receiver Eugene V. R. Thayer.

Publishers Rivals For Congress Seat

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Republican conferees of the Eighteenth, or Shoestring District, yesterday nominated Joseph F. Biddle, Huntingdon newspaper publisher, as their candidate for Congress to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman Edward M. Beers, of Mt. Union.

He will oppose Meredith Meyers, Lewistown publisher and Democratic candidate, at the November polling.

Dr. Cohen, Hospital Staff Member, Dies

Dr. Joseph Cohen, 26, staff member of the Montefiore Hospital, of 2506 Center avenue, died early today. He was a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, and was a member of the Phi Delta Epsilom fraternity and the Alpha Omega Alpha, medical fraternity. He was also a member of the Medical Forum of the Montefiore Hospital. He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cohen, and two brothers, Attorney Samuel S. Cohen and Morris Cohen.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

Hearst Presidential Race Poll Impartial

Facts Presented as Revealed in Daily Tabulation

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States, is as unbiased and impartial as it has been humanly possible to devise.

The facts as developed from day to day in the ballot returns of voters are presented to the readers of these newspapers just as they come to light in the daily tabulation of the thousands of postcards pouring in from all sections of the country.

There is no attempt at any time to distort these facts in the interest of any party or candidate. They speak for themselves as a voluntary expression of opinion by the individual voters, assembled through the medium of these newspapers.

NOT POLL OF READERS

This is not a poll of readers of the Hearst newspapers. It is a poll of a list of more than 3,500,000 voters distributed in every county in the United States, regardless of the individual's political or newspaper affiliation.

To obtain an absolutely nonpartisan and unbiased mailing list the Hearst newspapers set up a special staff in Washington last January to compile an original mailing list under the most rigid supervision.

As a preliminary step, the vote for President in 1928 of each of the 48 states and each of the more than 3,000 individual counties therein was ascertained. A quota of 10 per cent of these states and county vote totals was set aside for canvass.

WOMEN REPRESENTED

These quotas in every instance were apportioned two-thirds to men and one-third to women to give representation to the sexes in relative proportion to their participation in national elections.

The best authorities available agree that the participation of women in politics ranges somewhere between 30 and 40 per cent of the total number of voters, the percentage varying to some extent in different localities. The 33 per cent mark therefore, was regarded as a reasonable and safe average.

Seeking an impartial and nonpartisan name source that would reach as nearly as available to every class of the social and economic scale, the telephone subscriber list was accepted as meeting that condition.

PHONE DIRECTORIES USED

The co-operation of the Bell Telephone system and its widely flung operating units, together with scores of independent telephone companies, was obtained in assembling telephone directories covering the whole range of phone users from the large metropolitan exchanges to the rural farmer lines. Several thousand directories representing telephone exchanges in upwards of 15,000 communities were gathered.

From these directories the mailing list was built, county by county and state by state, until the entire country had been covered. Throughout the operation, which consumed a full six months of a staff of 25 persons, the 10 per cent apportionment to the individual county and the two and one between the sexes was rigidly adhered to.

The names selected from these directories for canvass were taken without any knowledge of the political party affiliation or views of that individual voter.

FARM DOLLAR'S GAIN AIM OF ROOSEVELT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO DENVER, Sept. 15.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt sped through the sun-baked plains of Western Kansas today with the promise that if he is elected to the presidency he will endeavor to put the farm dollar on a parity with the industrial dollar.

Rising early, despite his strenuour day yesterday, the Democratic nominee was on the back platform of his special train when it reached Colby, Kan., at 8:25 a. m., mountain time. Although the population of Colby is only about 2,500, there were almost 3,000 people at the station with a band.

AID FARM DOLLAR

"We want to bring the purchasing value of the farm dollar up to that of the industrial dollar. If we all pull togther for the next four years I think we can do it."

At Goodland, Kan., an hour later Gov. Roosevelt reiterated his pledge that if elected it would be his ambition to increase the purchasing power of the farm dollar. He reminded the Kansans that "the last time I came through here (as a candidate for the vice presidency in 1920) the farmer was getting a good deal more for his produce than now. We are trying, he said, to restore that condition, and with your help we can accomplish it."

PLEDGES KANSAS

message to Gov. Roosevelt as he left Topeka was:

"Ninety per cent of the farmers of Kansas will vote for you in November. You will carry Kansas by a vote of from 60,000 to 70,000."

The normal Republican majority in Kansas elections is around 200,000.

The Democrats may be overly enthusiastic; nevertheless they are sincere. They are confidently predicting that districts will be carried this year which no Democrat has carried since 1912.

Gov. Roosevelt will cross the Colorado border shortly before noon and reach Denver at 2 p. m.

GARNER MOVES EAST

Gov. Roosevelt and his running mate, Speaker John N. Garner, parted company at Topeka. Roosevelt went West; Garner East.

Before he left, Garner made a characteristically succinct comment anent President Hoover's telegram to Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National Committee, observing that the voters did not understand the issues. The Speaker chuckled:

"Mr. Hoover says that the Maine result can be explained on the ground the people do not understand the issues. I think the people understand them only too well."

U. S., Germany Shun Arms Budget Meet

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Neither the United States nor Germany was represented at the meeting of the budgetary committee of the disarmament conference when the committee resumed its sessions today.

It is reported that the American delegation absented itself due to the exhaustion of funds appropriated by Congress for participation in the disarmament conference. There have been rumors that the United States intended to withdraw entirely.

Gov. Russell Beats Crisp in Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Gov. Richard D. Russell, Jr., 35-year-old chief executive of Georgia, has been selected for the junior United States Senate post over the veteran Congressman Charles R. Crisp, representative returns from yesterday's Democratic primary revealed today.

Hurley Aide Says Army Fired Huts of Vets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(Universal.)—"We are making no apologies for anything that happened. The huts were fired by troops in reserve. They were under orders."

Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Mosley, acting chief of staff of the Army, today was authority for this statement. He explained:

"Troops were in waves. The last wave was ordered to burn down the huddles when they had been evacuated and there was no danger to anyone."

Gen. Mosley made this explanation when shown affidavits from Private Thomas E. Davis, Company M, stationed at Fort Washington, now famous in a photograph showing him applying the torch, which has been used in refuting a statement from Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley before the American Legion Monday night in which he said:

"I say to you upon my honor that those billets were set on fire by the people who occupied them. Imagine the United States Army walking in and burning billets."

Gen. Mosley said that he had seen a statement from Lieut. George M. Kernan, commander of Davis' outfit, saying that he had orders to fire shacks to save the police the trouble of knocking them down. He did not comment.

Davis' affidavit declared he had orders to fire the shacks.

Legion Stands Against League, Debt Cuts

Universal Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 15.—Texts of resolutions adopted by the American Legion convention, opposing entry of the United States in either the World Court or the League of Nations, and declaring against cancellation of war debts, follows:

"Be it resolved by the American Legion, that they are opposed to the adherence of the United States to the World Court on any terms, and also that they are unalterably opposed to the United States joining the League of Nations in any form, both being entangling alliances of the worst sort, against which George Washington, whose two-hundredth birthday we honor this year, so strongly advised the nation in his farewell address."

"Whereas, the government of the United States during the World War loaned to the entente allied nations billions of dollars for the purpose of carrying on the war against Germany and her allies and this money was secured by the sale of government bonds to the citizens of the United States, and

"Whereas, The cancellation of the war debts would remove the source from which the monies to redeem the bonds sold the citizens of the United States would come and the burden of the loans would be placed on the taxpayers of our nation; therefore,

"Be it resolved by the American Legion, That they are unalterably opposed to the cancellation of the whole or any part of the debts owed the United States by foreign governments generally known as war debts."

FOLLOWED BERN IN SUICIDE, POLICE SAY

Romance Recounted By Film Man's Sister

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Search for the woman of the past in the life of Paul Bern, motion picture director who killed himself, was believed ended today with the finding of the body of a woman in a Sacramento slough identified as that of Miss Dorothy Millette.

Both Coroner James Garlick and Ed J. Sullivan, clerk at a San Francisco hotel where the young woman had lived, said there was no doubt the body was that of Miss Millette, once known as "Mrs. Paul Bern."

LEAP FROM STEAMER

Garlick said she apparently jumped to her death from a river steamer early September 7, less than 48 hours after Bern shot himself on the Beverly Hills home he had given as a wedding gift to his bride of two months, the blonde Jean Harlow of the films.

The body was discovered floating in the slough by two Japanese fishermen only a few hours after the film executive's will was produced in Los Angeles by his secretary, Irene Harrison.

No mention was made in the will of Miss Mallette, though his relatives said Bern had contributed to her support for several years. The entire estate was bequeathed to Miss Harlow, who was named sole executrix.

Authorities said the will, dated July 29, 1932, a few weeks after Bern's marriage to the actress, supplanted what they described as two "wills of a sort" found in the film director's bank safety deposit box. The latter document each provided an annuity of $2,500 for Miss Millette.

TELLS OF ROMANCE

Mrs. Friederike Marcus, Bern's sister, said in Los Angeles her brother and Miss Millette met in Toronto, Canada, when they were both on the stage. They became sweethearts, Mrs. Marcus said, and later lived together in New York.

Miss Millette, Mrs. Marcus said, became mentally deranged and confined for a time in a sanitarium. Bern continued to provide for her. After she was released and he had gone into the motion picture field he still sent her monthly sums of approximately $350.

Last spring, Miss Millette moved from New York to San Francisco and lived quietly at a hotel there.

In reconstructing the story of her death, authorities presumed that upon learning the film executive had committed suicide, Miss Millette decided to follow him in death.

DATA REFUSED MURDER JURY

A jury today, struggling with the fate of seven Moon Run men, charged with the murder of two mine strikebreakers, was refused a review of part of the testimony. After wrestling with the case 20 hours, the jury at noon asked Visiting Judge H. W. Hughes, of Washington County, for a review of testimony dealing with the identification of the defendants at a standup. The court said such a review would emphasize certain phases of the testimony.

The defendants are Thomas Drexler, Moon Run constable; Henry Drexler, Basil Petrolina, Newell Cumming, Nick Nosick, Stuart Obernauer and Paul Dugas.

They are alleged to have shot Joe Vargo and James Toth, September 7, 1927.

The state contended all seven had attended a drinking party and at 5 a. m. forced the strikebreakers into a car, drove down the road a short distance, and then returned. The men were found shot, by the roadside, two hours later.

Robins' Wife Meets Prohibition Leader

KENNEBUNK BEACH, Me., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret Dreier Robins, wife of Col. Raymond Robins, prominent prohibitionist, who disappeared 12 days ago, said today she was "utterly in the dark" after a conference with Dr. Daniel A. Poling, prohibition leader.

Dr. Poling, who met Mrs. Robins at the summer home at Salmon O. Levinson, Chicago attorney, here today, added that "A comparison of our notes and ideas has developed nothing new."

Suspend Policeman Accused as Slayer

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Patrolman John Cochran, held on a manslaughter charge for killing C. E. Bittner, store manager, stands suspended without pay from the police force today pending the outcome of his trial.

Cochran is expected to go on trial in November, although reports are he will seek a change of venue.

Hutchinsons Sail For Scotland Today

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Gerge R. Hutchinson and his "flying family" will leave Angmagsalik, Greenland, today for England on the trawler Lord Talbot, the Danish administrator there informed the government.

The Hutchinsons, attempting a flight from New York to London, wrecked their plane near Angmagsalik and were rescued by the Lord Talbot on Tuesday.

GEN. BLANCHE RULES CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Gen. Bartolome Blanche, who was commander-in-chief of the Chilean army before Provisional President Carlos Davila was overthrown, won undisputed right to rule the country today when his troops captured Gen. Merino Benitez, rebellious head of the army's aviation unit.

Gen. Blanche appointed a cabinet which was sworn into office immediately. The press censorship was lifted, and the new government announced it was in complete control of the situation, ostensibly ending the political chaos which followed the ousting of Davila when the rebels were unable to agree among themselves.

Invalid Found Dead In Bathroom of Home

Charles Schade, 58, for years an invalid, died today in the bathroom of his home, 2415 Mount Troy road, according to a report to the coroner.

Train Wreck Kills 50 Sheep, Delays Commuters

Fifty sheep were killed when five cars of an eastbound stock train were derailed at Kiskiminetas Junction early today. Traffic over the West Penn branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad was delayed for an hour and a half, due to the derailment, and commuters en route to Pittsburgh were late reporting for work. Four of the derailed cars remained upright, but the fifth, containing about 200 sheep toppled over and was badly damaged.

DISCUSS CANAL ON RIVER TRIP

A meeting of the Allegheny River Improvement Association was held today aboard a barge of the Carnegie Steel Company while the barge proceeded up the Allegheny River. Members of the Upper Allegheny Improvement Association and prominent rivermen were guests.

Leaving Freeport, the barge, which was towed by the Wacouta, owned by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, passed through the river's new locks, as far as Templeton, Pa. A stop was made at Kittanning.

J. Frank Tilley, of the Coal Exchange, was in charge of the meeting. The proposed Allegheny River-French Creek route for a Pittsburgh-Lake Erie canal was the topic of the meeting.

HUNT TREASURE IN BREWERY

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 15.—A renewed treasure hunt was under way today through the abandoned Bentleyville brewery for a cache of $400 and six diamond rings hidden there by two convicted bandits two months ago.

Frank McMelis, 35, of Wilkes-Barre, former cellmate of Robert Chisholm, of Homestead, and Raymond Alberts, of Dravosburg, serving sentences for highway robbery in Washington County, was arrested in the brewery early today.

Questioned by Justice of the Peace L. W. Carson, when arraigned on a charge of malicious mischief, McMelis said Chisholm and Alberts told him of the hoard which they cached in the brewery before they were captured by police July 13, after three chain store holdups. McMelis was sentenced to 30 days in jail, and police resumed their search for the money and diamonds.

Family Evicted, Crowd Wrecks Home

DETROIT, Sept. 15—(AP.)—The house from which Mike Dedoski, his wife and three children were evicted yesterday afternoon was in ruins today, wrecked by a crowd of 500 persons.

Yesterday afternoon, police dispersed several hundred persons who threatened violence to a constable during the eviction. Last night, police arrived too late to save the dwelling.

GUNMEN CHASE PERILS 50,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Fifty thousand persons, homeward bound, were thrown into a panic as three police cars with screaming sirens roared through Loop streets exchanging machine gun fire with six youthful hoodlums, who abandoned their car and escaped after it was rammed by a truck.

Of the thousands imperiled by the gunfire, which occurred in the midst of last evening's rush hour, four bystanders were hit by bullets. One of the injured, shot in the left lung, was in a critical condition today.

The cars raced through the streets until the gunmen's auto collided with a truck. The police cars, intercepted by the truck, which stood across the street, lost enough time to permit the gunmen to abandon the car and flee.

Blood stains in the abandoned car caused police to believe one or more of the hoodlums had been shot.

Balloon to Make Stratosphere Tests

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 15—(AP.)—Another polar year experiment was under way today as a balloon, 4 feet 6 inches in diameter was believed soaring into the stratosphere over western Canada.

The balloon was released last night by D. C. Archibald, western superintendent of the meteorological service of Canada.

Bullet Perils Pupils In Sharpsburg High

Sharpsburg police today sought the person who fired a revolver shot through a window of the Sharpsburg High School yesterday, narrowly missing several students.

STRAND OF HAIR CLUE IN DUBOIS DEATH PROBE

Prosecutor Confident Body of 'Lost' Wife Will Be Found

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 15.—The human hair fished out of Plymouth Harbor this week was declared this afternoon "consistent with that of Mrs. Edith Dubois" according to a chemist's report, it was announced by Assistant District Attorney John V. Sullivan, in charge of the investigation of the so-called "corpseless murder."

After careful analysis Dr. George E. Bolling, city chemist of Brockton, declared that a comparison of the dark strands that have clung to the mooring line of a pleasure boat were similar in texture, length, weight and diameter, and showed signs of having been dyed, Sullivan said.

The missing wife of Charles E. Dubois, Tuckahoe (N. Y.) diamond expert, was known to have had her graying hair touched up at the roots by a Boston hairdresser. She made frequent trips from Tuckahoe for this purpose, it was learned.

The chemists' report, made possible by the discovery of combings in the Dubois bungalow on the shore of Great Herring Pond with which to compare to the water-soaked hair, spurred the search for the body in the watery depths.

Sullivan, in conference with District Attorney Frank Coyne, of Westchester County, N. Y., reiterated his opinion that a corpse would be found somewhere in that vicinity.

NEW FIGHT SET FOR CHAPLINS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—A second hearing in which Lita Grey Chaplin will seek approval of the appearance of the two minor sons of herself and Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, in motion pictures will be held here next Thursday. It will be on a petition filed by Mrs. Chaplin, as guardian, in Probate Court.

The first attempt of Mrs. Chaplin to obtain court permission for the employment of her sons in films was unsuccessful. On September 2, Chaplin succeeded in having the original divorce decree amended so the children might not be employed except with the consent of both parents or with the consent of the court.

Police in 3d Degree Probe Reinstated

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—All but three of the Nassau County policemen against whom charges were made in connection with the death of Hyman Stark, a prisoner, were reinstated today.

The three who remained under suspension were Deputy Chief Frank Tappen, and Detectives Leslie Pearsall and Harry Zander. They were recently acquitted of first-degree manslaughter.

WIFE OF FLIER DESCRIBES RESCUE

Mother Happy Over Safety of Children, Periled in Arctic

Mrs. Blanche Hutchinson, of the "flying family," radioed to Universal Service exclusively the story of her two days and nights on the icy coast of Greenland, facing death with her two little girls, her husband and their crew, following the wreck of the plane in the ice-jammed seas.

By MRS. BLANCHE HUTCHINSON.

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Sept. 15.—The children are safe. That's all I can think of.

During that awful hour when we were flying blind through the terrifying snow storm off the Greenland coast, in danger of crashing into an iceberg any minute, I could only sit hugging Kathryn and Janet Lee tight, trying not to show them the fear that was clutching my heart, trying to distract their minds from our plight.

COMPELLED TO LAND

It didn't dawn on either of the children that we were in real trouble until George, his face white and drawn, turned to me and said:

"I've got to take a chance on landing. We can't stay up any longer."

The windows of the ship were so caked with snow that we couldn't see out. But we could feel the sluggishness of the plane, weighted down by the snow. I said:

"Do what you think best, George."

It was so rough we were almost thrown from our seats time and again as the plane rode the rough sea.

It seemed hours we were drifting in the plane, unable to see where we were going, expecting to strike an iceberg any minute.

Then George decided to taxi the ship toward shore. It was so waterlogged we knew it wouldn't float long.

Peter and Norman jumped out onto the rocks and held the anchor lines as we climbed out. The other men got out, clambering onto the rocks, and I handed the children out to them.

They carried the children and me through the water, which was almost waist deep, to the shore.

CLIMB TO SHELTER

We clambered up the mountain to a half shelter in the rocks, and the men helped to arrange our camp. We had saved the leather cushions from the plane, and I made a bed of them for the children, piling sweaters and coats on top of them to try and keep them warm.

I knew we grown-ups could stand it for a while, but I was worried sick about the children. Both of them had severe colds.

We had saved the emergency provisions I had packed in New York, and I made hot soup from condensed tablets, made hot chocolate with powdered milk, and we heated up the cured lamb we were taking to the Governor.

We had hardly any shelter from the snow, which was still falling thick and fast.

After we had eaten the warm food we huddled together and tried to sleep. But it wasn't much sleeping any of us did through that long, bitter night. We tried to shield the children from the cold, but when daylight came, Kathryn's cold was much worse, and she seemed to have a fever.

I set about getting breakfast, with the help of Norman Alley.

It was a slim breakfast, consisting of hot chocolate for the children and coffee for the rest of us, but we knew we had to save our slender supply of provisions.

When nightfall came again, I confess that my nerve was gone. I cried on George's shoulder for a while.

I'll never be able to express the joy I felt when we sighted the signal lights of the Lord Talbot. The rest of that night was pure happiness.

DOOMED SHIP'S RAFT KILLS 2

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Another tragedy had grown out today of the explosion of the steamer Observation which took a toll of 70 lives.

Two boys found some of the ship's wreckage floating in the East River and constructed a raft from it on which they paddled out to the middle of the river.

Suddenly the frail craft was whirled about by an undertow, and the boys attempted to swim back. Both were drowned.

They were Vincent Callendo, 5, and Michael Menne, both of Queens.

Trial of Girl Murder Defendant Near End

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—The trial of Arleigh Tennant, charged with the murder of Miss Mary Temple, fatally shot by her sweetheart, James Barnhart last April, probably will go to the jury late today. The defense today presented its side after the state had concluded late yesterday.

Mrs. Fern Rice, sister of the dead woman, testified that Tennant was a bootlegger and was to "take the rap" for Barnhart if the latter was arrested for bootlegging. An objection by defense counsel to admission of her testimony was overruled.

Weather Conditions.

A low pressure center is located off the South Carolina coast this morning, apparently moving northeastward. It produced additional rainfall over Florida and heavy rain along the South Carolina coast. The heaviest reported is 3.08 inches at Charleston. A low is centered north of the Great Lakes and extends southwestward over the Mississippi Valley to the Far Southwest. It is producing only light showers north of the Great Lakes. The skies are clear this morning over most of the country as a result of relatively high pressure over the interior. Temperature changes were towards warmer over the Mississippi Valley, while over the Far Northwest there was a marked drop in temperature to below freezing in Southern Alberta. Maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred over a belt extending from Oklahoma northward to South Dakota.

Spider Picked to Kill Snake in Death Duel

ST. CHARLES, Ill., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Science is predicting victory for the common black spider in its long fight with the 10-inch garter snake around which it spun its web 24 days ago.

Suspended in the air, with its head enmeshed in a strong silken rope, the snake began its twenty-fifth day of struggle to disengage itself. But, in the opinion of Walter Necker, of the Field Museum of Natural History, there is no chance to escape.

Under a magnifying glass the reptile was seen to be as securely bound as though it were held in chains of iron.

After looking at the life and death struggle nature is staging in a city pump house, Necker said:

"I know of one case in which a rattlesnake lived for months without food or water, but I wouldn't give this small fellow more than a month to live under the same conditions."

But the snake was not without its partisans. Two fashionably dressed women, among the many attracted to the scene of the fight, screamed yesterday as they watched the spider toss additional silken loops around the head of its victim. At the same time an investigator for the Illinois Humane Society asked Mayor I. G. Langum to put an end to the struggle.

Mayor Langum, who is betting on the spider, refused to interfere.

There appears to be but one chance, in the belief of the experts, that the Mayor may lose, in which case the credit won't go to the snake, but to another spider. They agree that the spider is a male belonging to that species which sometimes is killed by the female of its own kind.

KLINE CLEARED, SUCCOP GETS YEAR IN JAIL

Prosecutor Park said:

"I don't want to say anything; anyhow you probably couldn't print it."

Succop's face lost its color as he heard Judge Finletter prescribe a cell for him. A few minutes before he was sentenced he had said he expected the worst, but the shock of it, nevertheless, upset his composure.

LIGHTEST SENTENCE

Judge Finletter said:

"I am giving you the lightest possible sentence in view of the jury's recommendation for mercy."

Col. E. L. Kearns pleaded for a suspended sentence for Succop. He said:

"I feel that all the blame in this case was placed on him."

The court did not heed.

In other words, Succop was "the goat," that he himself announced he would not be a year or so ago when the Mayor fired him.

Today he finds himself without a job, none too well fixed financially and a year in jail facing him.

Awaiting the Mayor is his luxuriously furnished office in Pittsburgh.

On the 1-cent bids entered by the A. L. Brahm Company for meats never bought by Succop before he was fired by the Mayor as Supplies Director, Judge Finletter said:

"The bid on its face was absurd. The conclusion of fraudulent collusion was amply justified."

SCORES PARKE DEALS

On the contracts which were split into $500 groups to enable Succop to buy canned goods from the L. H. Parke Company without advertising for bids, the court said:

"No honest purpose could have been served by this scheme. Its only effect was to give a false appearance of validity to the transaction, to avoid the publicity and counter bidding that would result from advertisement, and to take advantage of the lack of attention that would be paid to a small purchase of $500.

"Other evidence showing the intimate relations of this bidder's sales agent (Jerry Cronin) with the director, secret markings of samples so that this company's goods could be known, was given."

DISCUSSES PURCHASES

On that count in which Succop was convicted of buying tires from the Glick Auto Supply Company, not the low bidder, Finletter said:

"No doubt the director is not held criminally liable for an honest, if mistaken exercise of judgment. But his reasons alleged may be examined, and if not true and sincere he is open to the charge of abuse of discretion. The defendant gave his reasons for accepting Glick. One was that Hires, the lower bidder, had no established standing in the community; the other that the tires that would be most wanted were not upon the rejected bidder's list. There was evidence that both of these statements were untrue."

The court had this to say about the contract given the Puffinburg Company to supply the new hospital at Mayview with furniture:

"The bidding firm was composed of Puffinburg and a man named Samson, who was a county employe, never engaged in the business involved in this contract. The firm had no place of business, no stock of goods, and never had any other contract except a small one, to supply $500 worth of gods to the Plaza restaurant, of which the defendant was an officer. It had evidently been hurriedly formed for the purpose of putting in this bid, for it had not yet been authorized to do business under it fictitious name."

CRITICIZES INDICTMENT

In his opinion granting the Mayor's motion, Finletter seemed to find fault with the indictment as drawn by District Attorney Park's office.

He criticized that the fourth and fifth counts were virtually the same—that the fifth count repeated part of the fourth count.

The fifth count, the only one on which the Mayor was convicted, accused him of advancing $5,000 to one Henry Braun, in payment for trucks bought by the city before these trucks were delivered. And this was the one count which represented Succop's minor triumph today; it was thrown out.

Judge Finletter said:

"It is plain that the verdicts in the two counts are contradictory. The two findings cannot be reconciled. In the fourth count the jury found the defendant (Kline) innocent of entering into an illegal contract (the contract for the purchase of the trucks). In the fifth they found he had entered into such a contract. The two findings cannot be reconciled."

HOLDS MEANING VAGUE

"It is no answer that the fifth count contains additional charges. It would have been an answer if these additional charges had been averred without reference to the illegality of the contract but they are averred in such a way as to be interwoven with illegality of the contract.

"It is a general principle that an insensible verdict cannot support a judgment.

"We cannot tell what they (the jury) mean or what their judgment in the subject was."

Judge Finletter's voice was grave and low as he pronounced sentence on Succop, in contrast to the usual jovial attitude he wears on the bench. Before taking the bench he seemed in a touchy humor.

The courtroom was comfortably crowded with about 100 persons. Only one Pittsburgh ward chairman—Harry Feldman—was noted among the spectators.

All the attorneys were on hand—Park, Earl F. Reed and W. L. Stewart, his special assistants; Charles B. Prichard, Edward G. Coll and Col. E. L. Kearns for the Mayor.

The story of the Mayor's indictment goes back 20 months.

GROCER'S CHARGES

John D. Houston, wholesale grocer, created much consternation when he charged before Council that the law was being ignored in the distribution of city business by Succop. Houston, whose firm had lost many contracts to the L. H. Parke Company, accused Succop's department of favoritism.

This precipitated an investigation—in fact, two investigations, one by the city, another by a citizens committee. These audits brought out that thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money had been paid to other than low bidders.

Mayor Kline fired Succop. Succop was quoted as saying he would refuse to be "the goat."

Then, on June 24, 1931, the Mayor and Succop were indicted on charges of misdemeanor in office in connection with the letting of these contracts.

CHANGE OF VENUE

In January, 1932, the Mayor created a precedent when he asked for a change of venue. His plea was a confession that he didn't think he could get a fair trial from a jury selected from the people who had helped to elect him. Succop was opposed to this move, but went along, silent.

The change of venue was granted, the trial was moved to Butler County, and the Pennsylvania Supreme Court assigned an outside jurist, Judge Finletter, of Philadelphia, to preside.

Weeks before the trial started a jury-fixing plot was uncovered. Eight were indicted, four of them Pittsburghers.

On the day the trial did start, last May, a second jury-fixing plot was revealed. Two real estate men, one from Bakerstown, the other from Butler, were arrested.

The trial required two weeks. The Mayor was convicted on one count, acquitted on 12. Succop was found guilty on 29 counts, acquitted on 10.

BIDDING SYSTEM

Of the guilty counts against Succop, on which Judge Finletter acted today, 24 charged him with fostering a deceptive bidding system by which he gave meat contracts for the city hospitals to A. L. Brahm Co., not the lowest responsible bidder. The state charged trick bids of 1 cent per pound were entered for meats which were never brought—this to bring down the bid's average.

Other counts on which Succop was convicted had to do with the purchase of materials for the hospital at Mayview from the Puffinburg Company, tires from the Glick Auto Supply Company, Penn Tire Company, Popular Supply Company.

During the trial Kline and Succop readily admitted many instances of not awarding the contract to the lowest bidders. But they contended quality and responsibility were apparent in other bids. In instructing the jury Judge Finletter he'd that no conviction should be returned unless evil intent had been shown by the prosecution—in other words, graft.

Jail-Sentenced 'Goat'

BERTRAM L. SUCCOP . . . . . HE TOOK IT ON THE CHIN

The former director of supplies sentenced today to one year in jail after the trial judge upheld his conviction on all but one of 29 malfeasance counts. Termed by his attorney the "goat" of the city supplies scandal, Succop is shown here in the Butler (Pa.) courtroom as he explained: "What's the use of crying? I'm a fatalist anyhow." This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

JAPS RECOGNIZE MANCHUKUO; U. S. WARNED

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Sept. 15.—The United States was pointedly advised not to meddle in Far Eastern affairs by Hsieh Chichshih, premier of the newly-formed state of Manchukuo, in a statement issued here today.

The statement was handed to the press immediately after the formal signing of a treaty between Munchukuo and Japan, binding the two governments in close alliance in protection of their mutual interests in the Orient. It undoubtedly was inspired by the Manchukuo prime minister's Japanese advisers.

Hsieh Chieh-Shin did not refer directly to Secretary of State Stimson's recent declaration that states created by armed force were not worthy of recognition, a statement which was deliberately challanged by Japan today, inasmuch as signing of the treaty virtually constitutes recognition of Manchukuo by Japan. But there is no doubt that he was answering Stimson.

Japan and Manchukuo, he pointed out, as "independent states" are able mutually to cooperate and contribute to the cause of peace in the Far East.

CHINA PROTESTS

NANKING, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Immediately upon receipt of news of the signing of the Manchukuo-Japanese treaty, the Chinese Nationalist government today addressed cables of protest to the United States and other signatories of the nine-power Pacific treaty and also to the League of Nations.

IGNORED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Japan's formal recognition of Manchukuo in ceremonies today at Changchun, went unnoticed so far as any special action on the part of the State Department is concerned.

The United States government and the League of Nations are on record against the dismemberment of China. Until after the Lytton investigating commission of the League makes its report to Geneva on the Manchurian situation later this month, State Department officials are of the opinion that no move will be made by any member of the League.

BULLARD PAIR'S CHILDREN WED

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Lieut. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard and Mrs. Bullard have announced the marriage of their children by previous marriages—Mrs. Helen Wall Evans and Maj. Peter C. Bullard.

The ceremony took place in St. Louis on September 5, with the Rev. Dr. James E. Crowther officiating. Only a few relatives and friends attended.

The bride, the former Miss Helen Wall, is the daughter of the late Duncan Wall, of Philadelphia. Wall and Mrs. Bullard were divorced, and she married Gen. Bullard in 1927.

Maj. Bullard is the son of Gen. Bullard and his first wife, the former Rose Douglas Brabson, who died in 1922. He is an instructor in the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where he and his bride will live.

Given New Term, Prisoner to Write

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—A 10-year term in Sing Sing Prison, during which he said he planned to continue "literary work" begun in San Quentin Prison, California, was imposed today upon John Evans, alias Earl Shelton, and John W. Lucas.

Evans, who said he was 25, a native of Colorado and the son of a clergyman, pleaded guilty a week ago to attempted robbery.

U. S. Woman Buys Kreuger Paintings

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Two famous paintings, Raeburn's "Portrait of a Man" and Nicolas Maes' "Old Woman Reading," were purchased by Mrs. John M. Morehead, wife of the American minister to Sweden, at the sale of the personal property of the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king. The total return from the sale was about $60,650.

Two Girls Fail Swim in Channel

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—A German girl, Loe Koch, and a Dutch miss, F. Brouwer, both abandoned attempts to swim the English Channel today after they had covered about 10 miles. Both said they were unable to continue because of thirst.

Beaten and Fined On 'Speak's' Opening Night

"It pays to be honest," said Joseph Kozlowski, 47, who came to grief on the very first night he opened his alleged speakeasy at 58 South Seventeenth street, South Side, paid a $50 fine this morning for operating a disorderly house.

Several "good fellows" came to the opening of his place last night and drank a lot of home brew, Kozlowski is reported to have told police. When they finished they refused to pay, and beat him into unconsciousness. Neighbors called police who arrested the proprietor.

PROBE TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

The Coyne committee will begin its formal investigation into the cost of city and county government next Wednesday at 2 o'clock in the county commissioner's room of the new County Building.

This was decided by Senator James J. Coyne, chairman, and other members of the committee appointed by the Legislature, at a conference today in Kaufmann's.

Members of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, Maj. Philip Matthews, of the Bureau of Governmental Research, and others, will be asked to attend the hearings and offer suggestions, it was decided. Any citizen who wishes to make complaints or suggestions will be heard at the opening meeting, Senator Coyne said.

Skarry Takes Up New K. C. Duties

John L. Skarry, of Corliss, assumes office as faithful navigator of Fort Pitt General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, at the meeting tonight in Duquesne Council auditorium. Mr. Skarry is also serving as secretary of the Pittsburgh Chapter. He will announce preliminary plans for a program of patriotic activities, beginning September 25, when a motor coach party of knights will leave Pittsburgh for Loretto to take part in the centenary celebration at the Prince Gallitzin Chapel.

Erie M. E. Conference Saddened by Death

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 15.—The ninety-seventh annual session of the Erie Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, now in session here, was saddened today because of the sudden death of the Rev. John F. Black, 70, pastor of the Albion (Pa.) M. E. Church and a former district superintendent, which occurred in Buhl Hospital, following a stroke suffered as he was about to retire, after attending the opening conference sessions.

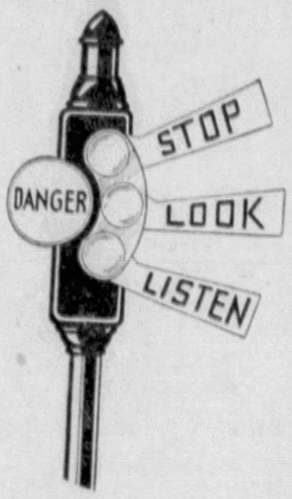
Rockefeller Funeral Flowers Cost $3,135

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—A claim of $3,135 against the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick for flowers delivered at her funeral was filed today by a Loop florist.

Among the items on the bill were 250 white orchids at $1,250, orchids sprays at $40, tube roses and gardenias at $525 and 2,000 yellow roses at $850.

The Donahoe Label Protects Your Table

For Your Health's Sake—



Donahoe's are NOT about to open a campaign attempting to regulate or abolish the selling of fruits and vegetables under most appalling unsanitary conditions by pseudo-farmers or others—no, indeed—such a job is too big for us—but we do feel it necessary to warn the Public, to call to their attention what a menace it is to their health if they buy foodstuffs which are sold with a total disregard of hygienic handling.

The depression has given rise to many pseudo-farmers, seeking to entice the dollar of the consumer by a display of seemingly low prices on the fruits and vegetables they offer for sale. These pseudo-farmers infest the highways and byways, selling foods from roadside shacks, from trucks, from congested wharves, from house to house, etc. Foods which they expect you and your family to eat are transported and sold by them under the most appalling unsanitary conditions—with a most reckless disregard of health and pure food laws.

Such unsanitary conditions in the handling of foodstuffs should not be allowed to go on without warning the Public—that every time you buy foods at such places you endanger your and your family's health.

It is not necessary for the Public to buy their foodstuffs at such places—it is false economy to jeopardize your health—there are plenty of legitimate, established, reputable food stores who will sell you far better foods, handled in the most approved modern sanitary manner, and at no greater cost.

Stop, Look, Listen-- just pause a moment and visualize for yourself what may happen to foodstuffs when they are constantly handled and rehandled all day long in roadside shacks, dirty, dilapidated trucks, wharves, etc., or any place else that is without the benefit of modern sanitary conveniences which are so absolutely necessary to the proper, safe and hygienic selling of foodstuffs to the PUBLIC.

In the vast majority of these kind of places, even the most simple of modern sanitary conveniences are totally lacking—the persons handling these foodstuffs all day long, and selling them to you, in most cases do not have even a place to wash their hands.

Such a way of handling foodstuffs leaves the door wide open for disease-producing bacteria, and when you eat foodstuffs sold in this manner you are certainly taking a chance with your health.

HEARST STOCK SALE POLICY BROADENED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—As a measure to provide a broader opportunity for investment participation, Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., today announced the modification of the partial payment plan for the purchase of Hearst class "A" 7 per cent preferred shares.

Mr. Hearst, being firmly convinced that there is a definite and valuable asset in the widespread financial interest on the part of his officers, employes and the public, has initiated a new and liberal policy that will permit the investor of modest circumstances the opportunity to invest in this enterprise.

The board of directors of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., has authorized, effective immediately, a new thrift plan wherein Hearst 7 per cent shares may be acquired for $1.00 per share a month over a period of 25 months.

DE PAUL GROUP GIVEN CHARTER

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Particular Council of Pittsburgh, to supervise the activities of the St. Vincent de Paul Society in two score parishes of the Roman Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh, was granted a charter in Common Pleas Court yesterday on an application filed by Attorney James A. Nugent.

The society was founded in France several hundred years ago and its dispensation of charities in the Pittsburgh district, without overhead or expense, totals about $100,000 in cash annually in addition to other aid.

W. C. T. U. RAPS BOTH PARTIES

Re-election of officers and a resolution indorsing the action of the National W. C. T. U. in condemning the Republican and Democratic stands on prohibition marked the closing session of the W. C. T. U. of Allegheny County convention here yesterday. Officers renamed were:

President, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Gibson; vice president, Mrs. H. B. Littell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. H. Means; recording secretary, Mrs. R. A. Hutchinson; treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Walker; directors, Mrs. William Gooden, Mrs. H. A. Fisher, Mrs. A. C. McMillan and Mrs. Myrtilla Myers.

FIREMEN DENIED NEW CHAIRS

City firemen learned today they must be content with old arm chairs in engine houses for their leisure hours, as Council does not intend purchasing 300 new ones as requested by Fire Chief Richard L. Smith at an estimated cost of $1,300.

Finance Committee Chairman W. Y. English said:

"We will just lay this little request on the table and see if we can't use that money as part of the firemen's pay."

Christian Alliance Opens Bible School

Government Inspected — lb. 15c — Government Inspected

Take a fragrant pork roast of chicken-like white meat from the oven, surround it with browned sweet potatoes and little baked apples and you have a picture that would make a dyspetic's mouth water. These pork roasts at 15 cents a pound are tender fresh hams with the bone removed, then rolled and securely tied. They're as easy to serve as a beefsteak and the no-waste feature makes the price doubly attractive.

Fresh Pork Sausage .... lb. 25c

Old Virginia Bacon .... lb. 29c
Todd's famous bacon sliced and cellophane wrapped.

PASTOR FIGHTS BUS MONOPOLY

Declaring he does not believe in monopoly, the Rev. Dr. Robert S. Young, pastor of the Glenshaw Presbyterian Church, yesterday testified before Commissioner Samuel Walker of the Public Service Commission, that he favored granting to the Etna Transportation Company a certificate to transport groups and parties in a number of boroughs and townships in the Etna district.

The application is being opposed by the Harmony Short Line Transportation Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, both of whom already hold group transportation certificates in parts of the territory affected.

Asked by Attorney David I. McCahill why he would not use the Harmony service, Dr. Young said:

"Because I do not believe in monopoly. God save our community if it is given over to monopoly."

Dr. Young recently caused a stir in the county road department when he sent a letter to commissioners telling of his observations of slow movements of county road crews and how payrollers were loafing on the job.

Telephone Pole Landmark Gone

CLARINGTON, O., Sept. 15.—A 100-foot telephone pole that became a landmark by reason of 34 years of use, has been removed. It carried telephone lines across the Ohio River.

BALLOONS DROP CASH FROM AIR

Anyone interested in picking money out of the air should keep his eye peeled for balloons tomorrow.

Celebrating its annual balloon sale, which started today, a chain drug company, at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow, will release 325 balloons to which will be attached certificates allowing the finder to redeem them for cash at any of its stores. Twenty-five will be good for $5 each, 300 will be good for $1 apiece.

Graduates to Hold Reunion at Grotto

One of the largest gatherings of graduates ever held in Pittsburgh will take place at the Grotto Temple, 107 East Montgomery avenue, September 30, when graduates and students of Allegheny, Oliver and Perry high schools hold their reunion. Many industrial and civic leaders are expected to attend. A nationally known orchestra will play for dancing.

Club Will Honor Cornell Freshmen

Pittsburgh district boys entering Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., as freshmen this year, will be guests at the annual father and son luncheon of the Cornell Club of Western Pennsylvania in the William Penn Hotel at 12:15 p. m., tomorrow.

Listening In— Commodore Keech, Holbrook Etiquette, Band Gossip.

Kelvin Keech, the NBC announcer, is following in the footsteps of any number of his fellow celebrities. . . He's become a boating addict and spends his spare moments hunting for bargains in sailing vessels. . . . He's partial to sloops and intends to buy one next spring . . . Gladys Rice is proudly displaying the first tan she's ever acquired despite many summers at the beach . . . One of the first letters Phillips Lord received after the inauguration of his "Country Doctor" series was laboriously scrawled out by a very small girl who wanted him to prescribe for her ailing doll.

Mr. Keech

Etiquette . . . When John Holbrook introduces his horse to anyone, it crosses its front legs and makes a perfect curtsey. Yes, Holbrook goes in for riding.

While his wife is vacationing in Warsaw, Ind., Andy Sannella communicates with her daily by short-wave. He has transmitting and receiving sets in both his Scarsdale (N. Y.) home and his summer place in Warsaw.

Frank Black, who arranges the songs for the Revelers, is having his troubles. Elliott Shaw, the baritone, is suffering from his annual attack of hay fever and his voice has dropped to a lower pitch, so Black has to arrange the music to fit Shaw's two-months-a-year bass.

Among the Pittsburgh band leaders . . . Billy Weixel and all the boys are back in town all tanned 'n' everything after an extended engagement in Western New York at Bemus Point, Lake Chautauqua and Van Buren Point, Lake Erie . . . Carl Eddy and his Patio orchestra are slated to provide the rhythms for Pittsburgh's "400" at the Edgeworth Charity Ball tomorrow night at the Edgeworth Country Club . . . Lee Walker moves from Longview Farms to the Willows tonight. WWSW will broadcast as usual.

The improvising Three Keys nearly staged a tap dance for the dialers the other night. The boys can't keep their feet still when they play and sing, and this particular night the studio attendants neglected to place the heavy floor coverings under their piano. The omission wasn't discovered until they were on the air, and, while the unsuspecting tuners-in listened to their opening number, the Keys removed their shoes. Then silently they patted their unshod feet for 15 minutes of harmony.

'Buy Now' Drive Opens On Radio

Representatives of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Association of Manufacturers and the American Federation of Labor unite to urge state, county and city governments to co-operate in a "buy now" campaign during a special broadcast dedicated to "The Wise Spending of One Billion Dollars," heard over an NBC network, including KDKA, tonight at 8 o'clock. Speakers on the half-hour program are Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Robert L. Lund, president of the manufacturers' association, and Matthew Woll, vice president of the A. F. of L.

Mrs. Poole

The Frigidairians, under the direction of Floyd Schaffer, open a new series of late afternoon dance broadcasts over an extensive NBC network, including KDKA, today at 5 o'clock. The programs originate in the studios of WLW, Cincinnati, and will be heard each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the same hour.

Sir Arthur Eddington, leading exponent of the theory of the expanding universe, discusses "The Finitude of Space" during his second broadcast over WCAE tonight at 9 o'clock. The broadcast is presented under the auspices of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education.

Program Pointers

"Penthouse Five Four," a symphony in the modern manner from the pen of Freddie Rich, Columbia's busy band leader, is presented for the first time by the Columbian orchestra, under the baton of the composer, over a Columbia chain and WJAS tonight at 10 o'clock. The work depicts life on the roof-tops of a vast city, as its title indicates. . . . The second of a new two-a-week series of programs starring the "Girl with the sweetest voice" and the Happy Vagabond is presented today at 4:45. The broadcasts are scheduled each Thursday at the same hour and Tuesdays at 10:30 a. m.

Olsen and Johnson, in Boston on a vaudeville tour, broadcast from that city during their program with Rudy Vallee on WCAE tonight at 8. In honor of the occasion, they present a modern version, with sound effects, of the Boston tea party.

A variety of selections, including "South in My Soul," sung in Negro dialect; German and English versions of "Auf Wiedersehen," and the popular ballad, "You Didn't Know the Music," is presented by Wilfred Glenn, bass, on KDKA at 10:15.

Georgie Price sings "Throw 'Em Down McCloskey" a la Maggie Cline, favorite comedienne of two generations ago, on WJAS at 7:45.

A character study of a traffic cop by Ward Wilson is a KDKA highlight at 7:15.

Walter O'Keefe repeats by popular request his interpretation of "The Man in the Flying Trapeze," the song he introduced and popularized on Broadway in the "Third Little Show," as a feature of the dance hour on WCAE at 10. "Baron Munchausen" and George Olsen's music also are featured.

Joe Sebastian, with his hurdy-gurdy and accordion imitations, previously heard on early WWSW programs, moves to a new evening spot, 6 p. m., tonight.

GARBAGE PLAN AWAITS STEPS FOR ECONOMY

A contract ordinance for 1933 garbage and rubbish collection will not be authorized for at least a week, pending receipt of a report from the Bureau of Governmental Research on proposed economies, Council President John S. Herron decided today.

Council has been in receipt of a communication from Health Director Charles B. Maits for permission to advertise at once. Due to a number of out-of-town bidders offering to compete, Maits told Council he felt a considerable saving could be made on next year's business by an early start on the contracts.

The present contract is held by the American Reduction Company and its subsidiary, the Allegheny Garbage Company.

Several weeks will elapse before the contracts can be awarded, according to Maits, even though early permission is obtained from Council to advertise.

Reports from Maits disclose a decrease of 12 per cent in rubbish and garbage collections for the first eight months of 1932. The city spends several hundred thousand dollars annually for the service.

Herron said Maits' specifications would be amended by Council and possible recommendations made by the Governmental Research Bureau would be included.

North Side Veteran Wins 'Purple Heart'

Harry C. Thompson, of 1926 Buena Vista street, North Side, has been awarded the "Purple Heart" decoration, recently revived by the government for soldiers performing gallant and meritorious service.

He served with Field Hospital No. 13, A. E. F. in France, Germany and Belgium, and was wounded in the right leg and shoulder October 8, 1918.

Butler Faces $25,000 Tax Collection Task

MAINE REPULSES HOOVER IN CAMPAIGN BASED ON RECORD

G. O. P. Orators Fail In Their Appeal To Voters

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—In the most extraordinary political upheaval in their history, the people of Maine have repulsed President Hoover and rejected the Republican party of his leadership.

They have elected a Democratic Governor for the first time in 18 years and for the first time in a presidential year since the Civil War.

They have elected two Democratic congressmen out of their three districts.

For the first time in 18 years a Democratic congressman will respond in the name of Maine in the national House of Representatives. For the first time in two generations, the majority of Maine's representation in the House at Washington is to be Democratic.

Gain New Offices

They have administrated a crushing defeat to the Republican party in five of Maine's 16 counties. In several of the remaining counties they have elected Democrats to serve in public offices they have rarely, if ever, occupied.

They have substantially reduced the Republican majorities which for years have been so overwhelming in both branches of the State Legislature that the Democratic participation in local law-making was negligible and perfunctory.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, in behalf of the Hoover administration, appealed to the good people of Maine to attend the polls and to serve notice upon the American people that they enthusiastically and wholeheartedly approved President Hoover and his policies.

They did attend the polls—more than 235,000 of them, the greatest outpouring of the Maine electorate in any state election held in a presidential year. And they administered to the Republican party the most stinging and convincing defeat it has sustained except in the period of the Bull Moose split.

Meet On Even Terms

At that time, Roosevelt and Taft polled an aggregate vote which exceeded Wilson's by several thousands. The two parties met on even terms Monday and the Democrats won in a clean-cut fight, deriving no advantage from any Republican schism except the spontaneous schism of the voting public.

An appreciation of the extent of this extraordinary and astonishing overturn may be gained from the fact that the Republican nomines for Governor have won by 35,000 and 40,000 in the Presidential years of 1924 and 1928. Only four years ago when Mr. Hoover and Alfred E. Smith headed the contending parties, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate was buried by the unprecedented majority of 83,000.

When Senator Moses says that no alibi can be offered for this astounding Republican defeat, he evidently had in mind the unusual volume of the vote. A heavy vote is expected to bring out the Republican "reserve strength." It came out Monday. And voted Democratic.

Issues Were National

The contest was joined on national issues. Mr. Mills, Senator Moses, Mrs. Dolly Gann and the horde of administration exhorters who came into the state rested their case on the record of the national administration as written by Mr. Hoover.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, Gov. Ely, ex-Senator Owen, of Oklahoma and the other Democratic pleaders confined their attacks entirely to Mr. Hoover's performances in the past three years.

The local issues were forgotten items of an intensive campaign which saw the prophets of both parties invade every city and town and practically every isolated plantation from the Arcadian country on the north to the Piscataqua River on the south.

Aroostook County, probably the best known potato belt in the world, with a population almost entirely agricultural, abandoned the Republican party which it had supported with fidelity for generations. Their potato crop is being sold for 35 cents a barrel, as against the normal price of $1.50. Some 4,000 farmers have been cited for non-payment of taxes.

Industries Languish

Maine's vast timber industry has languished. The Grundy-Hawley-Smoot tariff laid heavy duties upon the mechanical equipment which the lumber industry must buy, affording that industry no "protection." It allows Scandinavian pulp to be laid down in Maine cheaper than the lumberjacks can fell the trees in the adjoining forests.

Maine had gone in for diversified industrial products and her foreign commerce had begun to enlarge when the Hoover-approved tariff caused retaliatory tariffs to be raised in 48 foreign countries, shutting off the normal flow of trade. The Democrats claimed that her once busy harbors are resultantly filled with the hulks of rotting ships.

Her textile industries recently resumed after long cessation, but the disgruntled employes were obliged to accept substantial wage cuts, in many cases approximating 50 per cent.

The quiet people of the St. John's territory, adjoining Canada, had seen trade shut off by tariff with the neighbors with whom they had exchanged goods in harmony and profit undisturbed for generations.

One Democratic orator said the only trade left between the two countries was in hard liquors, on which there is a psychological prohibition, but no remunerative tariff for the American government.

These were the conditions at which the Democratic campaigners hammered. They were the conditions which the Republicans feebly defended.

Veterans Big Factor

There was another factor adding to the general unrest and the unpopularity of the Hoover administration. Senator Owen reminded his radio audiences that the flow of money through payment of adjusted compensation to the veterans would have expedited trade and encouraged business.

Shortly before the election, the veterans of the Yankee division, which was New England's foreign foremost military organization in the World War, had assembled in this city and adopted resolutions demanding immediate payment of the bonus and denouncing the administration for the brutalities practiced upon the veterans on Pennsylvania avenue and the mud flats of Anacostia.

The Republican gentlemen who went down to defeat were honored and respected by their Maine constituents. Congressman John E. Nelson, a gifted lawyer, was the dean of the Republican delegation from Maine to the capitol. Ralph O. Brewster, an ex-Governor and a skillful campaigner, was defeated for Congress in the adjoining district at the hands of a Democrat who on two occasions had been rejected by the people when he sought the governorship.

Brann Cites Protest

Judge Louis J. Brann, the victorious Democratic Governor-elect, says:

"The campaign was fought out on the economic lines and the ineptitude of the Hoover administration. They were the controling factors in the unusual Democratic victory. The people of Maine voted their protest against existing conditions and the failure of Mr. Hoover to allay them. They voted for a change."

The politicians insist that prohibition played a contributing, but not the major role in the event. The Democratic party and all its candidates stood for repeal. The Republicans stood "with Hoover" and found some difficulty in explaining where their feet actually rested. There are many automobiles in this mother of prohibition states which bear the repeal plates. The hotel men and the crusaders gave of their support to the Democrats. They had some favorable effect.

But singularly enough, Judge Joseph E. F. Connolly, the ablest opponent of prohibition in the state, was defeated by Congressman Carroll L. Beedy, an outspoken dry and the only Republican Congressional candidate to withstand the avalanche.

Wouldn't Indorse Hoover

There may have been some significance to the fact that Congressman Beedy, who survived, is as independent as any Yankee native—so much so that he voted for the soldiers' bonus over the Coolidge veto and his picture had been turned to the wall in the fashionable Cumberland Club not so many years ago.

Burleigh Martin, the gubernatorial candidate of his defeated party, is the president of the Maine Senate.

Neither side disputes that the contest revolved upon the Republicans' request of the people of Maine to support Mr. Hoover and his economic policies.

THEY REFUSED TO DO SO.

Man Fasts 57 Days, Taken to Hospital

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Louis Garden, 47, Rosemont miner, who fasted 57 days in an effort to cure asthma, has been taken to Weston State Hospital for observation and treatment.

Lack of nourishment over the long period has caused Garden's mind to become clouded, doctors said.

Fields Minstrel Man, Famed Trouper, Dies

The aged trouper, on the stage since he was 18, was a blackfaced fun maker with Al G. Fields for years. He served with Fields as an end man, a singer and a dancer. He toured the United States and Europe with sundry shows and his act was presented before King Edward VII. Jenkins was born in Alexandria, Pa.

We Must Act Accordingly to Be Loved and Respected

Shall "Blue Eyes" have a stepma pinched?

She would like to. In fact she thinks that all the kids should get together and do something about old folks with old fogey ideas.

And what's it all about?

Well, you see, stepma, who is just one of those old-fashioned dodoes, objected when Blue Eyes went out with a bottle of hooch and ran into another car with hers! She not only objected but she proceeded to spank Blue Eyes.

So the war is on!

Listen—

Dear Miss Martin:

"Please, can you, or some of your readers advise me about unbearable home conditions?

"I am a girl in my teens, blonde and considered very good-looking. I live in the suburbs with my father and step-mother. She is very old-fashioned and prejudiced, but has my father completely hoodwinked.

"She pretends to be very fond of me. As she has considerable money, she bought me a small car to hide her real feelings. But lately, I have discovered that she really hates me, and is going to take advantage of every opportunity to punish me.

"One morning I took a party of friends out in the car. We had only a small flask of liquor, and on the way home, had a very slight collision, which was positively not my fault.

"The police took me to the station and when my step-mother arrived, they told her that my 'being intoxicated' caused the accident.

GIVEN A SPANKING

"Of course she was only too glad to believe such things and after agreeing to have the cars repaired she took me home. When we got there, she became hypocritical and pretended that my actions were driving her crazy, and finally said that Corporal Punishment was the Only Way.

"Quite naturally, I resented this and told her so, but what made me furious was the way that she did it. She turned me across her knee and spanked me severely with a hair brush.

"I just hate her! Do you think I could have her arrested and sue her for damages? I will be glad to follow any advice that may be given to me. I think that if the young people get together on this situation, there would be less of it.

"BLUE EYES."

DESERVED PUNISHMENT

Oh, yeah!

Well, my opinion is that if you got together with yourself on trying to Act Regular, you wouldn't be in any such fix. You asked for just what you got, and if I'd been in Stepma's place, you'd have probably got a few extra whacks! Driving a car with even one drink under your belt is not only sappy, but actually criminal, and you're the one who should be locked up. And if you keep it up, you'll be sued for damages some day, and sued plenty—if you don't break your silly neck first.

Maybe this particular accident wasn't your fault. I can't say about that, because I wasn't there. But when you drank and drove, you put yourself on the spot plenty. So don't come in here making any pee-wee yaps for sympathy.

No doubt being spanked did nick your egotism. But as for your stepmother "hating" you—hooey! She is trying to make a decent woman out of you, and if you haven't sense enough to be one without being spanked, I don't blame her for going to it. If you want to be loved and treated regular, act regular. The kind of treatment you get, and the amount of love you get, are up to you.

Disappointment Is No Respecter of Position, Finds Fay King

By FAY KING

The girl who sits in a small crowded home reading the delightful chit chat of a clever society editor imagines that everything must be one joyous round of carefree gaiety in the fashionable world.

She'd probably be no end surprised to find that there are just as many heartaches and disappointments there as in her own little obscure circle of friends.

Rich girls do not always get invited to the one exclusive party they would like most to attend.

Some are sad because with all their money they are sometimes snubbed by those who have more important ancestors.

Contract Bridge -:- -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

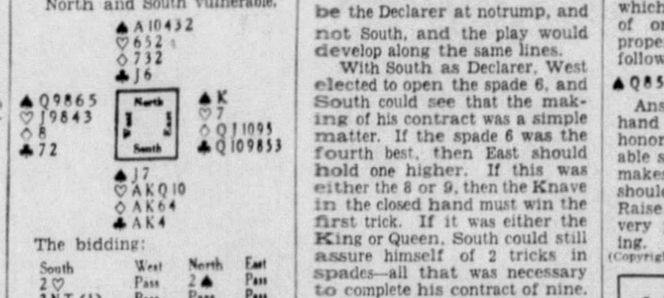
Conservatism in Bidding

Over-conservatism in bidding is an error committed by many bridge players. Thus hands that should produce game are permitted to stop short of it, while other hands that should produce Slam are played only for game.

Mr. Godfrey Braham, of Perth, Western Australia, in submitting the hand below, wrongly censures South for over-conservatism in bidding, although the correct eventual contract was reached. As a matter of fact, South's second bid was not over-conservative, but inaccurate.

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 N T (1)	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) as Mr. Braham points out, South's correct bid is three diamonds and not three notrump. His hand contains 6 honor-tricks and a strong, although short, suit, and his partner has made a strength-showing response to his Opening Forcing Bid. There is a possibility of Slam in the hand, which is made into an improbability by the bid of three notrump, rather than the more illuminating diamond bid. However, correct bidding would have reached a contract of three notrump, with North playing the contract.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

The correct bidding would be:

South	West	North	East
2 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	3 N T	Pass
Pass	Pass

With this bidding, North would be the Declarer at notrump, and not South, and the play would develop along the same lines.

With South as Declarer, West elected to open the spade 6, and South could see that the making of his contract was a simple matter. If the spade 6 was the fourth best, then East should hold one higher. If this was either the 8 or 9, then the Knave in the closed hand must win the first trick. If it was either the King or Queen, South could still assure himself of 2 tricks in spades—all that was necessary to complete his contract of nine.

The correct play was therefore a low spade from Dummy, and South's correct play was the spade Knave, and not the spade 7, which East won with the King. Thus played, 2 tricks in spades were assured, South winning three hearts, two diamonds, two clubs and two spades, although weak defense might have permitted the making of an additional trick.

If West opens—as, in fact, he should—the club 7 against the game contract by South, then the difficulty of making the hand is considerably increased. The actual play to win the hand, of course, remains the same. South's chance of making his contract rests entirely upon finding West with both spade honors or the honors divided, so that a finesse may be taken on the second round. The first trick in clubs should be won and the spade Knave immediately laid down. Of course, if West for any reason should cover, this will make the making of the contract all the more easy, but it is improbable, with West's length in spades, that he will play the Queen.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South deals and bids one club, which West overcalls with a bid of one spade. What is the proper bid by North, holding the following hand:

♠ Q 8 5 ♡ Q 9 6 5 ◇ J 10 4 ♣ A Q 2

Answer: One notrump. The hand contains more than 2 honor-tricks, including a probable spade stopper, and if South makes any further bid, North should bid three notrump. A Raise to two clubs would give a very poor picture of the holding.

Household Hints

If ceilings have become black over gas brackets, dry clean whitening rubbed on with a soft brush will generally remove the mark.

Short tacks are difficult to fix in corners, but if they are forced through a small strip of paper and the paper is held instead of the tack, there will be no more bruised fingernails.

Whooping Cough Neglect Regarded as Dangerous

Nothing is more distressing than to see a young child suffering from spasms of whooping cough. It causes real misery and, contrary to a belief held by most mothers, is a serious disease. Whooping cough is one of the chief causes of death in children under 5 years of age. I believe whooping cough is too frequently neglected and too often looked upon merely as one of the normal happenings of childhood.

Dr. Copeland

Not until recently was the cause of whooping cough determined. The germ responsible for it is known as the "bacillus of Bordet and Gengon," named after its discoverers.

To put it in simple language, this germ becomes lodged in the lining of the windpipe. As it multiplies, swelling and mucus formation result. The mucus prevents normal breathing and produces severe spasms of coughing. Later we observe the characteristic "whoop" of the disease.

The germs are carried by the saliva and the moisture expelled by the cough. Contact with these secretions causes the disease to be passed from one child to another.

Some children suffer mild attacks, while others have severe and prolonged attacks of coughing. The coughing lowers the vitality. The child becomes weak, loses weight and becomes extremely susceptible to other respiratory infections, such as pneumonia and influenza. These are the most dreaded complications of whooping cough.

Never deliberately expose a child to whooping cough. He should be kept away from one who has, or is suspected of having, whooping cough.

Unfortunately, it is not easy to recognize the disease in its early stage. Persistent coughing is an early sign. In the first period the disease resembles a common cold with a cough. This stage lasts about two weeks and during this time the cough becomes severe and more persistent.

Early diagnosis of whooping cough is important. Its recognition prevents the spread of the disease. In addition, it hastens recovery and convalescence to begin treatment at once. When proper care and attention are given to the disease in its early stages, the dreaded complications rarely occur.

Vaccines are recommended for the prevention and cure of whooping cough. The injection is simple, painless and causes no discomfort. Its advocates claim that when given to a child before exposure to the disease, whooping cough may be prevented.

Though there exists a great deal of skepticism as to the value of the vaccine, its use should not be denied. If it proves its worth it will be of particular value during an epidemic of this disease. Then it will be given to all children in the community, regardless of whether they have or have not been exposed.

I have spoken rather doubtfully regarding this vaccine. I hope it may be all that is claimed for it and have no reason to doubt its value. Certainly it can do no harm and if it proves helpful in one case out of a dozen, it is well worth while.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introductions

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. If a friend introduces A to B in B's home, when A leaves, should B express the pleasure of having made the acquaintance, or should A do so? What are the exact words for this expression, and also how should the other answer?

2. When a girl, in the company of a man, visits a friend, is it correct for her to remain seated if someone else (either a man or a lady) comes in and an introduction is made by the hostess?

T. D.

1. When A decided to leave, he or she goes first to the hostess of the home, B, and, in saying goodbye, expresses pleasure in the meeting and in the hospitality.

This will give you the idea of what should be said: "Goodbye, Mrs. Allen. It has been such a pleasure to meet you, and I've had a most happy time at your home." A may also add, "I hope that I am to have the pleasure of seeing you again very soon."

To this pleasant comment the hostess says something like this: "Thank you so much. You were very kind to come, and it has been a great pleasure to me, too, to meet you and to have had you come to my home. I shall look forward to welcoming you here again soon."

In other words, the guest in a home ALWAYS thanks the hostess for the hospitality, however simple the meeting or the kind of hospitality. This is one of the social amenities that should never be omitted.

And the hostess of a home always thanks the guest, no matter what the occasion for the call or visit, for coming, and usually adds some other expression of pleasure of the meeting.

2. If the girl is very young or fairly young, she would rise when her hostess rises to introduce a woman to her.

Gift to the Fiancee

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother is going to be engaged, and people keep asking my mother what she is going to give the girl on that day.

I myself don't think that anything should be given, but if so, would flowers be appropriate?

READER.

I don't know why these friends of your family persist in this question, for it isn't good taste on their part, and neither is it necessary for your mother to make any gift unless she wishes to. Of course, if she does wish to give your brother's fiancee an engagement gift, naturally it is correct and a gracious thing to do. The gift of flowers is always a lovely one and carries a charming and friendly message.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Cold cream was devised and created for the purpose of putting healing oils in a more convenient form to handle. Creams stay put better than oils. The skin has a better chance to lap them up. If the complexion is in poor condition, looks thick and horrid, is spread over with discolorations, the emollient should remain on over night. Don't use soap in the morning.

When the complexion has taken on a deep tan, the happiest selection of lipstick coloring is cherry or raspberry; orange shades are likely to do a sickly fade-away when the skin is bronzed. Cream rouge holds on longer than the kind one digs from the compact, and so has gained a greater popularity than it has had in the past. And now the dearhearts select rouge and lipstick of precisely the same shades. Makeup is one of the fine arts.

INTRODUCTION TO RIVAL TOLD BY WIFE

Her husband, after their marriage, boasted of affairs with women before their marriage and told her he telephoned other girls when she was away, Kathryn Moxley, 31, of 440 South Fairmont avenue, testified in Common Pleas Court.

She was granted a divorce from John Moxley, 37, of Johnstown, a salesman, on the ground of infidelity.

She said he finally told her to leave and she left him, after he introduced her to a girl, named co-respondent in the suit, in the lobby of the Fort Pitt Hotel, telling her:

"This is the girl."

Ethel M. Caldwell, 464 Division street, Bellevue, filed a divorce suit against Charles E. Caldwell, 137 Marshall avenue, North Side, charging cruelty and indignities.

Similar charges were made in a divorce suit filed by Thomas N. Stone, 723 Penwood avenue, Wilkinsburg, against Ann C. Stone, 1625 Edna street.

Divorce suits were also filed by Esther T. Riggs against Curtis S. Ruggs, Elizabeth Icardi against Mello Icardi, Marguerite Mosby against George K. Mosby, and by James E. Ball against Mary F. Ball.

ZIONIST LEADER TO SPEAK

Morris Rothenberg, national president of the American Zionist Organization, and chairman of the Administrative Committee of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, will address a public meeting under the auspices of the local Zionist district at the Y. W. & H. A., South Bellefield avenue, tonight.

Mr. Rothenberg

Mr. Rothenberg, a New York attorney, as national chairman of the American Palestine Campaign, raised the major portion of twenty million dollars expended during the past 10 years for reconstruction of the Jewish Homeland in Palestine. Attorney S. L. Fuss, president of the Pittsburgh Zionist District, will be chairman of the meeting.

BANKERS FAVOR DEBT CHANGE, WRITER SAYS

French Journalist Quotes Lamont and Wiggin

Universal Service.

PARIS, Sept. 15. — New York's international financiers believe "American opinion will be ready to accept a new war debts arrangement after June, 1933," according to a dispatch to Le Matin from its New York correspondent, Philippe Barres.

Barres, generally discussing various topics such as the stock market rise, American tourists going to France and the like, writes as follows concerning war debts, giving on his own responsibility the views of Thomas W. Lamont, Albert H. Wiggin and others as he has compiled them:

It is known that with the Morgan bank, the Chase National Bank of the Rockefeller group is one of the most important in the United States.

Moreover, after my interview with Mr. Thomas W. Lamont, I could not do better than visit Mr. Wiggin, president of this bank, and Mr. Frederic Gehle, second vice president.

TELLS OF WELCOME

The Chase Bank offices are located two blocks from Wall street, near those of the Morgan bank, and the welcome one receives there gives the same impression or calm strength and kindness.

Mr. Wiggin was placed by Mr. Hoover at the head of the reception committee for M. Laval in 1931. Among the companies he controls is the American Express, which takes care of the majority of Americans visiting France, and thus collaborates valuably in our tourist interests. This is not to say that these two Americans whom I met are what we call a little naively "friends of France."

It would be vain to expect from such personalities, with their enormous interests divided among very diverse countries, any systematic partiality whatever. The reasonable thing is to hope that there is some connecting link between them and us, and to know that it may be used for the best, according to circumstances and reciprocal conditions.

WIGGINS QUOTED

"You know," he (Wiggin) said, in the same spirit that Mr. Lamont previously had spoken, "that I make no official statements except for my boards of directors and my stockholders. I do not wish to inspire you in any way. But as I am far from failing to appreciate the interest which there is in public information of a great French newspaper, I will do everything possible for you so that you'll be able to have a personal impression."

Thus the several notes which I make here are united from many divers sources and involve only my own responsibility.

They have, however, a double interest. It is in the present crisis and at the moment when Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt, leaving on western tours, are really just opening the election campaign, that the spirit in Wall street circles is undoubtedly reasonably close to the real spirit of the governmental party.

Here Barres digresses from war debts for six paragraphs to discuss the Wall street recovery, telephones in service, automobile sales and steel operations, and then resumes:

It is stated that the mysterious visit of Mr. Montagu Norman "was not concerned with the debts and that the presence of a foreign observer, for example the governor of the Bank of France, would not have changed a syllable in the interviews, these bearing only on purely banking questions and the division of credit."

FORECASTS NEW PLAN

As for the debt question, it is considered that American opinion probably will be ready to accept a new arrangement "after the payments of June, 1933."

At that date, well-conducted negotiations should lead to some solution such as, for example, the payment of a lump sum as final settlement. Practically speaking, this sum could be that provided for the payment of the American war stocks ($407,000,000 for surplus war stocks of the A. E. F. bought by the French government in 1919), which is unconditional. Thus we French would have the satisfaction of cancellation, except the amount due for the stocks, and American opinion would not be confronted by a "total loss."

I said to all the many business men of the first rank whom I saw:

"And if England and France, with all the due formalities which could be desired, should make no further payments?"

"Obviously, we should not declare war."

"In any case, finally, is there not something to the moral argument that the policy of the United States put the skids under the mechanism of German payments?"

"Possibly. But previously, if the United States had not loaned Germany the sums, the freezing of which brought on the Hoover moratorium, France would never have got anything from Germany."

FINDS FRIENDSHIP

I insist on the fact that the viewpoints which I present, without comment, were voiced with reflection and without a trace of controversy.

As for American public sentiment toward France, everybody is in agreement in finding that it has improved very appreciably, even in the west. One can attribute this to the French attitude at Lausanne, to the end of the gold withdrawals of the Bank of France, and above all to the German policy.

The Hitler agitation, the anti-semitism, the armaments' demands, coinciding with the non-payment of public debts and finally the unequivocal signs of Germany's intention to protest progressively the private debts, have all determined this change.

The former German Foreign Minister Curtius, on his arrival in New York, will surely find that the general attitude of his country does not facilitate his task. He probably will be equally surprised by the discreet campaign of the Hearst newspapers in favor of a rapprochement of United States with Soviet Russia under the pretext of a menace of a rapproachement between the Soviets and Japan.

CHECKS MAILED FOR HEARST DIVIDENDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Furnishing another cheerful note to the more encouraging business outlook, Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., has dispatched in the mails dividend checks covering the ninth consecutive disbursement at the rate of $1.75 per share of the class "A" 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred and paid out of adequate current earnings.

These dividend checks are destined for all parts of the United States and for shareholders in England, Canada, France, Germany, Scotland, Switzerland, Egypt, China, Philippine Islands, Hawaii, Alaska, Newfoundland, Mexico, Canal Zone, Central America, Porto Rico and Virgin Islands.

More than 35,000 investors—a new high record—are enrolled upon the books of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., with a steadily increasing number each month.

Hearst Consolidated has been one of the new major corporations in the United States that has maintained a record of uninterrupted quarterly cash dividends.

Despite the world-wide business decline during the last three years, the 12 enterprises owned by Hearst Consolidated have continued to progress. The newspaper circulation of this group in 1932 has made substantial gains over 1931 and reflects the indispensable part shared by the Hearst organization in the daily economic life of America.

HUNDREDS OF DOLLAR BILLS GIVEN DAILY

Wrigley Reporters Have Many Unusual Experiences

By MISS MINT

"Here today and gone tomorrow" is true of the circus but not of Mr. Spear and me and our assistants. We are going to be busy every day in Pittsburgh for an indefinite period of time. Don't be discouraged if Mr. Spear or I have not stopped you yet.

Out in front of the Scott High School at Wilkinsburg, as the boys and girls were leaving school at noon, I stopped quite a few pupils before reaching ANNA CLAYTON, R. D. No. 5, Box 550, Wilkinsburg, who had a package of Wrigley's Juicy Fruit. "Gee, I'm glad I didn't chew that last stick in the classroom! Now, I'll be able to buy enough gum to last me until Christmas."

ELMER WALTERS, 9 Third St., Rankin, was standing in front of the Municipal Building looking things over when I stopped him. He pulled out a package of Spearmint and immediately received a dollar bill.

GEORGE HOSTER, big Pittsburgh oil man, was seated at his desk flanked by two secretaries when I breezed into his office in the First National Bank Bldg. Without delay he reached into his desk drawer and produced a package of Double Mint. "I'm never without it," he said. "It's just the thing for sinking the long putts."

ISABEL FAITH, 216 Hawkins Ave., Rankin, said when she received her dollar bill for her opinion of Spearmint, "I'm going right to town and see a movie."

JOHN McHUGH, doorman at the Heinz plant, was all set for me. His package of Double Mint with the statement "Cellophane is a big improvement" netted him a dollar bill.

J. J. DRISCOLL, 221 Elm St., Edgewood, is another Double Mint devotee who is never without it; at least he wasn't when I stopped him. He, too, is one dollar richer.

New Use for Wrigley's

L. E. JOHNSTON, 1001 Water St., South Brownsville, an engineer on the Monongahela Railroads received his dollar bill for his opinion of Spearmint in the new Cellophane wrap. He also had a new use to offer the public for Wrigley's. He always uses Wrigley's to take cinders out of his eyes. He said "rubbing the gum over the eyeball can't scratch or injure it and quickly removes the cinder." That's a new one!

I wish I could give you the names of all the people to whom I have given dollar bills the last day or two. Here are just a few: RAYMOND W. KAUFMAN, 144 DeSota St.; MICHAEL ROCARE, 3 Cable Place; L. P. McGUINESS, 334 Oakland Ave.; M. J. MONAHAN, 108 Second St., Rankin; JOHN SCHANGLER, 1512 Grant St., North Braddock; MRS. J. W. BELL, 1914 Monroe St., Swissvale; SAM LEVY, 285 Lombard St.; JIM PHILLIPS, 29 E. Forest Ave., Bellevue; B. T. RYAN, 534 Smithfield St.; MRS. MARGARET C. BALL, 28 W. Bellcrest Ave., Brentwood; and JOHN JASIN, 365 Lawn St.

Mr. Spear and I and our assistants are stopping everyone—men, women and children everywhere—downtown, in offices, factories and even the front door bell is being rung. No one is safe; regardless of where you are, always be sure to have one of the four Wrigley brands with you. Then when you are stopped and asked for your opinion of Wrigley's, you will be able to claim that crisp, new dollar bill.

CHILE HUNTING AIR REBELS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—The Chilean air service was "hiding out" today, sought by troops of the regular army, when a revolt in which the aviators participated Tuesday apparently had back-fired.

After several quick shifts in the political situation yesterday, Gen. Bartolome Blanche, commander-in-chief of the army, was still at the head of the government, although there were reports that Carlos G. Davila, who stepped out Tuesday, would resume the presidency.

Gen. Atturo Moreno Benitez, chief of the air service, who threatened to bomb the presidential palace if Davila did not resign, fled with his pilots when Gen. Blanche, who had resigned for a few hours yesterday, went back into office and announced he would retain the presidency with the support of the army.

Troops were immediately sent to El Bosque airport, where Gen. Moreno and his fliers were reported barricaded, but they had flown away in the 70 airplanes stored there. They went to Colina and troops followed them, but when the soldiers arrived the aviators were gone again.

STATE UPHOLDS VOTE MACHINE

HARRISBURG, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, yesterday served notice on the Philadelphia Republican organization that he will take advantage of every possible technicality in the voting machine laws to prevent their repudiation in that city.

Headed by Major J. Hampton Moore, who expressed his disgust with the voting machines, a large number of Philadelphia voters have started a movement to have their use abandoned in that city entirely. The people will be given an opportunity to vote for or against their repudiation at the coming election. Facing municipal bankruptcy, the city's officials have attempted to delay purchase of additional machinies.

In his statement Beamish questioned that the people of Philadelphia should get an opportunity to vote for discontinuance of the machines.

Man Blinded by Lye, Jealous Wife Held

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Accused of pouring boiling lye water on her husband, Lewis, 45, while he slept, Mrs. Ida J. Brown, 43, mother of two daughters and a son, was under arrest today. Physicians said Brown probably would be blinded for life. Mrs. Brown told police:

TRIBUTE PAID VICKERMAN

A message of condolence from Gov. Pinchot and expressions of sympathy from the Allegheny County W. C. T. U. had been received at the Bellevue home of John W. Vickerman, director of the County Department of Elections, churchman and dry champion, who died early Monday, as time neared for his funeral at 3 p. m. today in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, pastor, was to have charge, assisted by several other clergymen. Interment was to be in Allegheny County Memorial Park.

POLICE FIRED AT MONESSEN

MONESSEN, Pa., Sept. 15.—Four former Monessen policemen today were permanently off the city payroll. They failed to carry to council yesterday appeal from their suspension, August 27, by Mayor Carl Woodward.

The four are Thomas Feehan, Charles Keller, David Canova and Ernest Hopton. Their suspension followed complaints that they had stolen gasoline from a station owned by J. C. Cook. Mayor Woodward said the four had admitted taking the gas. Feehan denied making a confession.

Two new officers have been sworn in and two others will be installed following civil service examinations, to take the places of the discharged men.

LEAVES PRISON WEALTHY MAN

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Sept. 15.—(INS.)—"I came here as another down-and-out convict; now I'm wealthy. It seems like a silly dream, almost too good to believe. San Quentin has been my haven!"

With a smile on his face and $100,000 in his pockets, handsome, dusk-complexioned Harold Marks, 31, San Quentin's "self-made prisoner," today prepared to leave his cell and start "life anew" in New York.

Convicted in San Diego on charges of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, Marks has been in prison since February, 1928.

He devoted his spare time to tinkering around with inventions. Marks sold his pet invention—a burglar proof lock—to an eastern lock concern for $100,000.

RUSSIAN DEBATE HERE TONIGHT

Both sides of the Russian situation were to be presented in a town meeting of the League for Social Justice at West Park bandstand, West Ohio street, North Side, at 8 p. m. tonight. Four speakers, three of them with actual experience in Soviet Russia, will talk on "What Is to Be Learned from Russia?"

Speakers include Engineer Nathan Mueller, until recently in charge of a contract in Russia; George E. Evans, of the Henry George Foundation, who recently visited the Soviet; Carl Price, district organizer for the Communist party, who spent 1930 and 1931 in Russia, and Attorney Jacob Margolis.

You can buy lower-priced utensils than these

But They won't be "Wear-Ever"

This is 1932...A time to look sharply at what you get for your money, a time to examine carefully cheap merchandise of all kinds. For the manufacturing standards behind many articles, which seem so low in price, are often just as low as the prices that attract you.

These are times when known trade-marks, on quality merchandise, mean more than they did three or four years ago. It was easy to build quality into things sold at 1928 and 1929 prices. It is difficult to maintain this quality today at 1932 prices.

"Wear-Ever" Cooking Utensils, however, are made of the same thick, hard sheet aluminum that we have always used. The standard of quality of "Wear-Ever" Cooking Utensils has never been lowered.

Your grandmother, your mother, and you have always recognized the "Wear-Ever" trade-mark as a symbol of the finest that can be had in aluminum cooking utensils. To enable you to add to your kitchen some of the newer "Wear-Ever" Utensils, and to introduce these Utensils, and "Wear-Ever" quality, to a wider circle of users, we are continuing our policy of semi-annual sales at special prices.

You can buy cheaper cooking utensils than these. BUT they won't be giving you "Wear-Ever" service in 1942.

THE ALUMINUM COOKING UTENSIL COMPANY, NEW KENSINGTON, PENNSYLVANIA

In accordance with the 12-year-old "Wear-Ever" policy of semi-annual sales for a limited time, these standard "Wear-Ever" Utensils at lowered prices on sale now.

Bakes 24 Cookies at a time. Special introductory price now.

Grandmother's cookie jar! How often you've looked back on it and wished you could make cookies as delicious as hers. Here's the perfect sheet to make them on. It's made of thick, hard sheet aluminum. Heat passes quickly all through this thick aluminum, and is distributed to batter evenly. With the introductory price as low as 55 cents, this is your opportunity to purchase two fine "Wear-Ever" Cookie Sheets. They will give you a lifetime of wear. Fine for baking biscuits, also.

Just try and wear it out

PROBE ORDERED IN DEATH OF SPORTSMAN

KITTANNING, Pa., Sept. 15.—State and county authorities today resumed investigation into the death of Joseph Glenn, 60, well-known sportsman and lifelong resident of Manor Township, near here, upon recommendation of a Coroner's jury.

Believed at first to have shot himself, sufficient evidence was presented at the inquest last night before Armstrong County Coroner Albert W. Dosch to result in a verdict of foul play in connection with the death of the former steward of the Eagles' Club.

FRIEND'S STORY

Henry Holbrook, a friend of Glenn, testified when he visited Glenn's home Thursday afternoon, September 1, he found all the doors locked and the window shades drawn. Entering by a rear window, he found Glenn sprawled on a devan in the living-room, clad only in a shirt, a bullet hole in his forehead, and a revolver close to his right hand.

Holbrook fled from the house to summon aid. Patrolman Thomas Wilcox, of the Kittanning police, and Dr. Edward H. McClister, both said the arms of the dead man were crossed on his breast, with the fingers of the right hand almost touching the .38 caliber revolver.

Glenn, it was testified, was known by everyone to have been left-handed. Ownership of the gun has not yet been established.

GIRL IN DAZE

Miss Anne Daugherty, 19, of Kittanning, who, witnesses stated, had been a frequent visitor at the dead man's home, told the jury she had delivered laundry to him Monday night, had stayed two hours and returned to her home a short distance away. She said she knew of no succeeding events until she fainted at the scene of the discovery of Glenn's corpse Thursday afternoon.

Glenn's son, Ralph, of Kittanning, stated in an interview that when he had reached the scene of the tragedy, the house was in disorder, empty beer bottles were scattered about and the house bore evidence of a party having taken place since he last visited his father on Tuesday afternoon. It is the son's belief that his father met death during the festivities.

Wife Sues Spreckels, Heir of Sugar King

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Sybil Esme Spreckels filed suit in Superior Court yesterday to divorce her husband, Adolph B. Spreckels III, heir of the late California sugar king. She also asked the custody of their 4-year-old daughter, Barbara, and sought a $156,000 trust fund held by a Seattle bank.

FIVE MEN HELD IN 'KIDNAP' PLOT

KANE, Pa., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Five Pittsburgh men were held today in what federal authorities said was a kidnaping fraud plot. They were arrested on complaint of Todor Nedelco, 48, who said he was awakened Tuesday night and kidnaped after the accused men described themselves as federal immigration officers.

Nedelco told investigators he has $16,000 in a bank. He said he was taken from his home in Crosby, McKean County.

The Pittsburghers, charged with kidnaping, attempted extortion and impersonating federal officers, gave their names as Antonio Lorazio, Spero Yovaniff, James or Steven Sweeten, Dusen Versic and Paul Babac.

County Detective Samuel Whisner today was investigating to learn whether the five men under arrest in Kane, Pa., were the same five under indictment here on charges of carrying concealed weapons and impersonating officers, and at liberty pending trial on $1,000 bail each. The gang was rounded up at Oakmont, Whisner said. Whisner believes four of the five may be operating under different names. One name corresponds with that of an indicted man.

McKean Rail Hearing Set for This Month

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has announced a hearing on the application of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern Railway to abandon a part of its Hazelhurst branch in McKean County would be held in Harrisburg September 28.

DRIVER INJURED ON BOULEVARD

Richard J. Walsh, 42, of 110 Meridan street, was in Mercy Hospital today with injuries suffered shortly before last midnight, when an automobile he was driving collided head-on with one driven by R. C. Beerbowen, of the Farmers Bank Building, in the Boulevard of the Allies, near the Liberty Bridge ramp.

Police said the accident occurred where traffic is restricted to a single lane because of repairs to the surfacing of the ramp.

Max Zeisel, 50, of Bakerstown, was injured slightly when his automobile collided with a car driven by Emma Herriot, of 5721 Elmer street, at St. Clair and Rippey streets, last night. Zeisel was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

GUN REVEALS SUICIDE PLAN

John E. Schieritz, 49, a barber, of 1437 Woodland avenue, North Side, who, police said, changed his mind about ending his life, was held for further investigation when arraigned today in Mt. Washington Police Court on a suspicious person charge.

Schieritz, arrested yesterday at Chartiers avenue and Lorenz avenue, had a .38 caliber revolver in his possession, according to police. An argument with a Negro resulted in the barber's arrest.

Police were not concerned about the quarrel but asked Schieritz to explain why he had the revolver. They quoted the prisoner as saying he planned to kill himself with the weapon.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"
THE FALL OF CONSTANTINOPLE
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Thomas Webb... inspired by the savage slaughter of 5000 Christian defenders—at the hands of the vengeful, barbaric horde of 250,000 men under the ruthless Mohammed II—1453!

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

BOWSER CALM OVER TAX PROBE

Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, indicted in the county graft probe, knows that federal investigators are scanning his income tax returns, but does not fear the outcome, it was learned today. Bowser's payments are all made, it was said, and his record as far as the returns were concerned, are not causing him any worry.

Attorney Oliver K. Eaton and Charles E. Harrington have been advised of what is going on, but Attorney Eaton would make no comment. He dismissed inquiries with the statement that his client's case, as to the county probe, is in the courts, and that therefore he had nothing to say.

It is known that operatives have been working secretly in the offices of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, scanning Bowser's office and banking records. These records were subpenaed by the grand jury in checking up information regarding the $200,000 "no bid" contract which was given Bowser for trucking.

CITY CARES FOR MANY WAIFS

Pittsburgh's share of the nation's 200,000 wandering boys and girls was cared for at the rate of 245 a month during the first eight months of the year by the Central Application Bureau of Homeless Men, Director A. W. Grotefend said today.

The boys came from every state in the Union and several from foreign countries, Grotefend said.

In addition to the boys, 18,377 men were registered for food, clothes and lodging.

The bureau is operated through a co-operative arrangement between the Federation of Social Agencies, Allegheny County Emergency Association and various agencies for homeless men.

Lawyer Seeks Heirs of Ex-Pittsburgher

The Missing Persons Bureau and the Sun-Telegraph were asked today by Chester J. O'Brien, attorney of Boston, Mass., to help find the heirs of George W. Albert. Albert was born in Pittsburgh August 5, 1852, and his last known address was 2800 Arlington avenue. He left an estate of approximately $2,000.

VETS ACCLAIM GIBBONS SPEECH

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 15.—Frequently interrupted by a tremendous ovation, Floyd Gibbons, famous war correspondent, addressed the thousands of Legionnaires who yesterday packed the American Legion convention hall.

Speaking with his characteristic forcefulness, Gibbons told the former service men of his experiences in Washington, where federal troops expelled with bayonets and gas the veterans who went to the capital to seek immediate payment of their adjusted compensation.

At the conclusion of the address, Chaplain John W. Beard, of the famous Ninety-first Division from the Northwest, rushed to the platform. As the legionnaires stood applauding, the chaplain shouted:

"Thank God for such men as this correspondent, who tells the truth!"

Tremendous as were the previous cheers, Chaplain Beard's words whipped them into even greater volume.

Gibbons also told of his experiences in Asia during the unofficial Chinese-Japanese "war," and declared he has had an exciting time since coming to the convention here, having been "socked by the Secretary of War the first day and fired off the air the second."

He said he had been invited to the convention by National Commander Henry L. Stevens, Jr., to "broadcast the proceedings," but had been denied the privilege.

Gibbons described how he found American troops clear around the world. He told of broadcasting from Manchuria as a Universal Service war correspondent on Wednesday morning "to have my words come out of the ether in America Tuesday evening, the night before."

China stiffened her defense in Shanghai against Japan during the fighting last winter because she had the experience of the last two years of the world war, Gibbons said. He continued:

"Both sides had German instructors, but the Japanese were using the German plans of 1914, while the Chinese army were given the German instructions of the last two years of the war, devised for use against the A. E. F."

Gibbons said he wanted to attend every legion convention until "I die." The delegates cheered him heartily.

TELLS OF PARADE

The convention hall grew quiet when he told of watching the B. E. F. parade in Washington. He praised the orderly appearance of the men, their military discipline and clean appearance. He said:

"They marched quiet and silent. They wore ragged, frayed shirts, but clean shirts. There was no shame on their faces, though they were lean and hungry. But there was shame on our faces as we saw them go by."

Gibbons said he saw the homecoming parades of World War soldiers 14 years ago. He declared:

"I saw them marching then in the glory of their youth, shining uniforms, bands playing and over streets strewn with flowers. They were cheered as defenders of the nation.

"That night in Washington, I saw them march again in hunger, in silence, in rags. I was going to say despair—but they had no despair. They were the most hopeful Americans I ever met."

"Those men are not Communists. They went to Washington with a simple message. Fourteen years ago, they said, you gave us guns and sent us to France to bring back peace. We did it. Now we say, put picks and shovels in our hands and we'll bring back prosperity."

OVATION HALTS SPEECH

Another ovation halted his speech. Gibbons added:

"They believe in the people of this country and they believe in the government of this country.

"There are people who ask where the food is to come from. Where did the food come from to feed the starving children of Belgium, of Russia, Japan, Armenian?

"We fed the world.

"We loaned them even $11,000,000,000 in gold, which, by certain arrangements, I understand, are now to be paid by our taxpayers."

The veterans went wild once more. He resumed:

"How could we do that, I ask, and not send even so much as a 'hot dog' to the defense of thousands of them sleeping on the ground not three miles from the White House?"

This drew another roar of cheers.

Gibbons referred to his speech before the national commanders' banquet Monday night.

He said Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley had disagreed with him on the question of the burning of nuts in the bonus eviction in Washington. Gibbons said:

"There were newspapermen there. There were photographers there that night.

"And on the question of the origin of the burning of the camps of those men, the photograph film record is here to show the truth, even though it has no 'sacred word of honor.'

"The camera will not lie about that."

REFERS TO EVICTIONS

Referring to the bonus evictions, Gibbons said:

"There were 8,000 American veterans, 600 women and 400 children there that night.

"I believe there was some other way to move those American veterans out of the capital of our country.

"I disagree entirely with the charge made against those veterans, your comrades, that they were Reds and Communists.

"But the question of their patriotism and Americanism was demonstrated that night. You have heard this phrase, 'Patriotism above politics.' Well, they showed it that night in Washington.

"To say those men are red and agitators is to cast a slur upon every honorable discharge—the honorable discharges you've got.

"And if those fellows, who were in Washington and now are scattered around the country, are down, I'm with them yet."

All this excitement about politics is keeping some of the women of the smart set busy these days, having political duties as well as social duties here at home.

Mrs. Michael L. Benedum is expected home today or tomorrow from New York, where she went to perform a most pleasant political, social duty.

She was a member of the reception committee at a tea given for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Democratic nominee for President, Tuesday in the Waldorf-Astoria.

The tea followed a fall flower show sponsored by the hotel. And Mrs. Roosevelt was there to open the show. Mrs. Benedum poured at the tea as well as being in the receiving line.

Miss Pauletta Guffey and her sister, Mrs. Carroll D. Miller were invited to serve on the reception committee at the event, but were much disappointed that they could not attend.

Yesterday was the first day of school for many society youngsters who attend the new Colonial School, 1620 Murray avenue.

School Opens

The building was formerly the location of the Simonson School. Miss Simonson has combined her school with the Thurston Preparatory School. Last spring I heard about this, I believe.

The Colonial School has a kindergarten and eight grades. Elizabeth Cornelius is secretary, and Mrs. Bessie Foster and Elizabeth Ziegler are conducting the school.

The Taylor Corneliuses, of Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, are in town, did you know? They are visiting Mr. Cornelius' father and mother, the Henry Robert Corneliuses, of Coraopolis Heights.

I never hear of White Sulphur Springs that at the same time I don't have news of en entertainment given by the George W. Crawfords or attended by them. Yesterday Mrs. Crawford gave a luncheon in the Casino. Recently the Crawfords were guests of the Thomas F. Hickeys, of New York, at a dinner at the Greenbrier.

Active at Springs

And this week Mrs. Crawford was a guest at a notable luncheon given by Mrs. Joseph S. House, of New York, on the Casino veranda. And Mr. House gave a luncheon for the husbands of Mrs. House's guests at a nearby table.

Thomas B. Moreland is a recent arrival at the Springs.

William M. Doolittle and his interesting fiancee, Mary Hill, already have leased a house in Sewickley. They'll be married, you know, the tenth of October.

Squirrel Hill Girl Weds in Synagogue

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sherman, of Beacon street, Squirrel Hill, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ann Sherman, to Martin Hirsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hirsch, of Travella boulevard, which was solemnized on Sunday, in the Poale Zedeck Synagogue, Shady avenue.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a white tulle veil, and carried white roses showered with lilies of the valley. Mrs. Martin Weinberger, as her sister's matron of honor, wore pink crepe and carried pink roses and delphinium. The bridesmaids were Miss Libbie Fischoff, in green satin, and a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Ann Hirsch, who wore blue satin. They carried fall flowers. Carl Hirsch was his brother's best man, and ushers included another brother, David Hirsch, and Dr. A. H. Weinberger. The bride's mother wore black lace, and the bridegroom's mother chose black velvet.

There was a dinner later for 75 members of the families, and a reception, in the synagogue. Mr. and Mrs. Hirsch left for Canada, and upon their return will be at home in Shady avenue.

MEMBERS OF THURSTON SCHOOL'S JUNIOR CLASS AS LUNCHEON GUESTS AT THE HOME OF A CLASSMATE, MISS FRANCES GRAHAM, BARNSDALE STREET

Bridge Luncheon Series Opens at Country Club

A most successful afternoon was spent by the members of the Pittsburgh Country Club on Tuesday, when they held the first of a series of bridge luncheons, one of which will be held each month. There were 120 guests present Tuesday, and Mrs. H. T. Aufderheide assisted with the correct playing of the hands. Mrs. C. E. Lott, who is in charge of the bridge at the club, announced that, beginning in October and continuing throughout the winter, duplicate contract will be played by those who prefer to play the boards.

Among the tableholders who entertained at the first luncheon were Mrs. L. W. Swope, Mrs. C. E. Lott, Miss Dorothy Lott, Miss M. Worthington, Miss Helen Bennett, Mrs. Thomas McCaffrey, Mrs. Arthur G. Schinke, Mrs. E. R. McCluskey, Mrs. Charles M. Best and Mrs. H. M. Birmingham.

Mrs. Estelle M. Wilson entertained 22 guests at her table and Mrs. E. D. Harshbarger had 16. Others who had tables included Mrs. L. W. Hicks, Mrs. Albert C. Darragh, Mrs. P. C. Dowler, Mrs. D. S. Crawford, Mrs. William Finn, Mrs. W. J. McMoil, Mrs. John R. Hermes, Mrs. C. W. Heppenstall and Mrs. D. M. Hilbish.

Eleanor Northway Cole Engaged to R. W. Duncan

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Martyn Samuel Cole, of Kew Gardens, L. I., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Northway Cole, to Robert Wiggin Duncan, of Boston, and Philadelphia.

Miss Cole was graduated from the Carthedral School of St. Mary in Garden City, L. I. She is a niece of Richard Cole, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Duncan is the son of Mrs. Charles John Duncan, of Winchester, Mass., and the late Mr. Duncan. He was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy and later was graduated from Brown University with the class of '27.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mary E. Henrici Is Married to H. A. Roddick

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Henrici, of Portland street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Henrici, to Harrison Arnold Roddick, which was solemnized yesterday very quietly in their home, with the Rev. Dr. John Wallace, of the Braddock United Presbyterian Church, officiating.

The bride had no attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Roddick will live in Boston this winter. Both are graduates of the University of Wisconsin and the bridegroom finishes at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration this year.

Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, of Beechview, is home from a month in New England. She spent some time at Nantaskett Beach, Conn.

Greensburg Girl, New Alexandria Man Marry

Miss Etta Naomi McGiffin, of Greensburg, formerly of Scottdale, became the bride of William Walthour Wolff, of near New Alexandria, last evening at 6 o'clock in the United Brethren Church of Greensburg, at a charmingly appointed ceremony. The Rev. C. C. Gohn, pastor, officiated, before the altar decorated with ferns, palms and garden flowers.

The bride wore a gown of heavy white satin and lace and a veil of tulle cascading from a cap of duchess lace. Her bouquet was of gladioli, blue delphinium and baby's breath. Her sister, Mrs. Clarence Goff, of Baltimore, was matron of honor and wore poudre bleu crepe and carried garden flowers.

Miss Thelma McGiffin, niece of the bride, in green triple crepe, and Miss Ruth Henry, a niece of the bridegroom, in pink satin and net, were bridesmaids and wore shoulder corsages of garden flowers. There were five little flower girls, dressed in frocks to harmonize with the gowns of the bride's attendants. They were Alberta McGiffin, Ethel Wolff, Mary McGiffin, Betty McClain and Elizabeth Wolff. They all wore large ribbon bows in their hair, and carried baskets of garden flowers.

Bridal Party

Edward Stohl was his uncle's best man, and ushers included a brother of the bride, Robert McGiffin, and two brothers of the bridegroom, James and Clyde Wolff.

Mrs. Chester A. Johnson sang, accompanied by Miss Evelyn Pheil, at the organ.

There was a dinner and reception in Ye Olde Stone Inn, New Alexandria, with covers laid for 15 at the bride's table. Mr. Wolff and his bride left on an extended wedding trip and will be at home later near New Alexandria.

THE NEW ENSEMBLE INDICATES A SUIT AND COAT ALLIANCE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The 1933 version of the Paris ensemble is less likely to be a dress-and-coat combination than an alliance of a suit and a coat. Suits do not, in these cases, take the place of dresses; rather they augment them. Many a mannequin, in present-day Paris fashion parades, will enter the display salons wearing a coat, which she removes to show what turns out to be a dress with matching jacket.

ALONG THIS general fashion plan, but with a turn entirely original, Mainbocher—the young American designer who has made a phenomenal success in less than two years—presents an ensemble of a topcoat worn over a dress which looks exactly like a suit.

AS THE sketch shows, both are extremely tailored without being mannish or severe enough to be unbecoming to the average person. The straight up-and-down lines of the coat at the front become more feminine at the neck, with seamlines which accent the in-curves at the waist. There is an all-around leather belt which appears outside the coat only at the back—holding the back lines close to the figure, while the front hangs loose.

THERE IS a simple, straight collar of beige fur, which is in harmony with the beige-and-brown texture of the tweed which fashions both coat and suit-dress.

THE TWEED suit-dress follows classic double-breasted lines, with variation in the belt which does not cross the front, and the double lapels on the collar.

Women Here Invited to N. Y. Conference

Mrs. CHARLES M. BREGG

Invitations have been received in Pittsburgh from Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, to attend a second conference on club programs in New York City. It will be recalled that two years ago in response to many requests for advice such a conference was held. The success of the former session, together with the unusual problems that confront the country at the present time, are the incentives for this year's conference, which is to be held September 29 at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. Speakers of national and international importance will address the conference.

High School Graduates Invited to Y Meeting

In response to inquiries from girls who have finished high school in the last year as to what the Y. W. C. A. can offer to fill their leisure time, Central Branch Y. W. C. A. has issued an invitation to a tea in the branch building, Chatham street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. At this meeting, the facilities of Central Branch will be demonstrated and Miss M. Alice Mewhinney, of the health education staff, speaking on "What Can We Do With This Year," will help plan a program of varied activities.

Bradford Woods Juniors To Honor State Head

Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, State Federation chairman of juniors, will be honor guest and speaker at the Junior Club of Bradford Woods' corn roast in North Park tomorrow evening.

The series of fall and winter bridges will open with a benefit for the Bradford Woods Free Library, at the home of Mrs. Harold D. Cochran, Friday evening, September 23. The hostess is to be assisted by the social committee.

Wilkinsburg Afternoon Club Honors President

Mrs. Charles M. Swift was hostess yesterday at her home in Frankstown avenue for the first meeting of the Wednesday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg. It was president's day, honoring the new executive, Mrs. J. S. Hooper. There was no program, but at roll call each member gave a vacation echo.

Mission Society Women Hostesses for Home Day

Members of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church are serving as hostesses for open house at the Elizabeth A. Bradley Children's Home in Hulton today. The Rev. Dr. Albert Edward Day, pastor of the church, is making an address this afternoon. Pittsburgh Conference, Woman's Missionary Society, owns and operates the Bradley Home and members of the society throughout the district will be present today, bringing donations of food for winter use.

Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter, president of the Christ Church Society, has as her aides Mrs. W. S. Horner, Mrs. Alexander Black, Mrs. Harry Dangerfield, Mrs. Bessie M. Hochswender, Mrs. P. N. Jones and Mrs. John M. Roberts.

Bundle Day Card Party To Be Held Tuesday

The Council House of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women will be given over on Tuesday to the monthly bundle day card party. Mrs. B. J. Hannegan, general chairman of the Economy Shoppe, has appointed these committees: Cards, Mrs. T. Leon Plante and Mrs. J. J. Studeny; prizes, Mrs. Rose Braun, Mrs. James A. Byrne; packages, Mrs. James A. Carey, Mrs. John H. Roney, Mrs. A. A. Laurent and Mrs. John Cronin; refreshments, Mrs. Harry Russell, Mrs. William J. Smith and Mrs. Valentine Hohman.

Catholic Group to Hear Conventions' Reports

Reports of both state and national conventions will be heard on Sunday when the third quarterly meeting of the Allegheny County section of the Catholic Central Society of America will take place in St. Mary's school, North Side.

Maryland College Club To Begin Year Sept. 24

Miss Ethel Beerbower, president of the Maryland College Club, will be in charge of the club's first fall meeting, which has been called for September 24, in McCreery's. Assisting will be Mrs. Albert Supplee, the vice president, and Mrs. Albert Landgren, secretary treasurer.

Optometric Association To Hold Party Oct. 21

The first of the season's events for the Pittsburgh Optometric Association will be a card party in the home of Mrs. J. N. Helman, chairman of the entertainment committee, on October 21.

Elizabeth Club To Open Year On Sept. 26

The opening meeting of the Woman's Club of Elizabeth at the home of Mrs. A. M. Cohen, Second street, on September 26, will have Miss Frieda M. Natalia as chairman. The club members will entertain with a one-act play.

Among the speakers for the club season are Mrs. M. Reamer, of Kaufmann's Budget Bureau; Mrs. H. C. Reller, world traveler, and Elmer Kenyon, head of the drama department, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The social calendar opens with the reception for the president, Miss Catherine Caldwell, this month, and follows with a card party in October, the annual fall dance in November, a bake sale in December, a musical tea in January, the anniversary party in February, a reception for new members in March, the Easter dance in April, spring card party in May, and the closing bridge luncheon in June.

AS YOU DESIRE ME

to keep it enchanting, desirable

this much OLIVE OIL goes into each cake of Palmolive →

WHAT does your skin feel like? Touch it. Is it smooth, soft, vibrant? Is it young, firm, inviting? If not, how can you seem desirable, appealing? Remember, your skin is an index to youth.

Skin can be kept young

You can hold skin-charm indefinitely. But to do so you must follow expert advice. Just read the simple rule experts lay down. See how much it depends on the use of olive oil.

Olive oil glorifies skin

Use olive oil, beauty experts say, in soap. Use Palmolive—the one great soap whose beauty ingredient is largely olive oil. They ask you to use it faithfully, regularly. Rub its fine, youth-fostering lather right into the skin of your whole body.

Then—watch youth return

A fine, smooth skin . . . a youthful skin . . . will reward you. Because Palmolive—being composed so largely of olive oil—does smooth, soften, soothe the skin. It does add that skin charm which makes you, keeps you desirable.

An Actual Photograph
Palmolive contains only vegetable oils—no artificial coloring. Photo shows actual amount of olive oil that goes into each 10c cake.

Rupp Is Frank in Discussing Issues

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Yesterday evening I had the pleasure of interviewing Lawrence H. Rupp in a radio broadcast over WCAE. The pleasure was not derived so much from the fact that the Democratic candidate for the United States Senate from Pennsylvania is an extremely affable gentleman, but more because of the precise and direct fashion in which he met every question.

Mr. Shields

That absence of equivocation is not so uncommon among public men and candidates for public office as to pass without notice. Furthermore, and this also is not usual, Mr. Rupp did not brush aside any of the questions which he knew were to be asked him. The typed list, all matters now engaging public attention, all subjects on which the voters are entitled to frank expression, was not met with objection from Mr. Rupp that this or that question might be left out.

That also was something of a new experience.

However, the important thing, is the answers Mr. Rupp made, and the following is a condensed and not directly quoted summary of his views, for Mr. Rupp spoke without any prepared manuscript:

Would Vote for Dry Law Reform

As a Senator he would vote for immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer and would also vote for a resolution submitting an amendment to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. This attitude, he said cryptically, was not one he had adopted for the campaign, but represented views he long had held. The sumptuary laws, he said, were unenforceable, and infringed upon representative government.

He favored immediate payment of the soldier bonus as a measure of justice to veterans, and also an instrument for aiding in the return of prosperity. He met the question in direct language. He was unsparing in his criticism of the Republican administration for the manner in which the bonus army was ejected from Washington at the point of the bayonet.

This, he said, was a sad recompense for the patriotism they had exhibited in wartime, and was in conflict with constitutional guarantees that the people might meet and petition their government peaceably for desired legislation.

In plain language he opposed cancellation of the foreign debts, standing on the Democratic national platform on that subject. In the same spirit he would not agree to scaling the debts down.

He was unsparing in his criticism of the Hawley-Smoot tariff, though not led by partisanship to blame this revenue measure for creating the existing depression. He was fair enough to point out that the bill was passed after the break had started. But he contended that the law had led to retaliatory measures by foreign governments which prevented the resumption of American trade in markets previously held. He championed a protective tariff with rates high enough to safeguard both employer and worker, but not an extortionate measure designed to aid a favored few, but which instead actually could aid no one because it throttled commerce.

Not for Sales Tax At Present Time

He does not believe in a sales tax at this time, but prefers an income tax on the theory that through it the burden falls on those best able to pay.

Respecting internationalism, he believes the problem can be worked out to conserve American nationalism without imposing isolation.

Those are the views of the Democratic senatorial candidate, and you can approve them or not. He did not appear to be thinking of catching votes in making his answers, but was stating his opinions without evasion because they were beliefs with which he would not compromise.

Some Wednesday night during the campaign, when and if Senator James J. Davis, Rupp's Republican opponent, is in Pittsburgh, I will offer him the chance to speak to the same questions.

Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, has an interesting analysis of the Maine vote in its relation to Pennsylvania. Maine, as everyone knows, has just gone Democratic in a sensational overturn. In 1928, when President Hoover swept the country, he won hugely in Maine. Indeed, according to the figures of Van Dyke, his ratio of victory there over Al Smith was larger than his percentage of votes in Pennsylvania. That is offered for the consideration of those who believe it impossible for Pennsylvania to go Democratic in November.

Also, it should be noted that the Maine election was for state and congressional candidates, and there are Democrats who believe Gov. Roosevelt is stronger than his party. If that is true the Maine result is even more dangerous to Republican hopes than the party's national leaders already have admitted.

United Brethren Open Conference

The 250 delegates to the ninety-fifth annual meeting of the Allegheny conference of the United Brethren Church attended the opening meeting at Shoemaker Memorial Church, McKeesport, last night. The Rev. J. J. Funk preached the sermon.

The first business session was held this morning. The address was delivered by Bishop G. D. Batdorf, of Harrisburg, Pa.

POLITICS LINKED IN RELIEF JOB DISTRIBUTION

'Same Gang Favored' Anderson, Garland Charge in Council

Vigorous denials that city work projects conducted by the Allegheny County Emergency Association were influenced by politics were expected from relief leaders, today.

Charges that politics had entered into all unemployment relief projects carried out by the city—including sewer and roadway jobs—were made yesterday by Councilmen Charles Anderson and Robert Garland.

Both hurled accusations that the Kline faction had benefited, more than others, from relief jobs. Work relief projects have been administered by the Allegheny County Emergency Association for the city—the association handling all employment.

CLASH IN COUNCIL

Discussion was over a motion made by Finance Chairman W. Y. English to order the Public Works Department to prepare a tentative improvement list under stipulations of the $2,000,000 marked for work relief from the $5,000,000 bond issue voted for relief at the polls in April.

Of the remaining $3,000,000 for direct relief, $800,000 has already been borrowed and is now being used in the city.

Anderson frowned on the English motion, so English suggested:

"Maybe you might want some jobs out of it this winter for your friends."

Anderson retorted:

"This administration doesn't give jobs to the real unemployed. It is the same old crowd that gets them."

Garland took a hand with:

Council passed the English motion.

PROBLEM UNSOLVED

Meanwhile, the county relief problem was unsolved. The County Commissioners and the Poor Board have yet to arrange a meeting to discuss the county relief bond issue that seems to be the only way to provide adequate food and shelter for destitute families outside the city limits this winter.

It was learned that there are 16,689 families receiving $4 weekly from the Emergency Association and Welfare Fund agencies in the city and 17,644 families in the county—a total of about 170,000 men, women and children.

The figures are the case load for the week ending September 3.

New Kensington Banker Acquitted

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—Arthur Stott, former treasurer of the Logan Trust Company, of New Kensington, and former treasurer of the Triangle Motor Company, today was acquitted on 18 counts charging embezzlement. The jury directed him to pay costs in 16 of the cases.

Stott was alleged to have loaned approximately $17,000 to the motor company without approval of the bank's directors.

CITY TO RECEIVE $175,000 U. S. RELIEF JOB

Hospital to Be Built With Garner-Wagner Aid Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Pittsburgh will receive the second largest amount of money of any of the 13 cities in Pennsylvania selected late yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Postmaster General Brown for public building projects to be carried out under the appropriation contained in the Garner-Wagner relief bill passed by Congress July 21.

Pittsburgh's share will amount to $175,000, which will be used on a new marine hospital. Easton will receive $200,000. Other Pennsylvania cities selected were: Aliquippa, $150,000; Ardmore, $150,000; Clairton, $100,000; Columbia, $103,000; Darby, $100,000; Honesdale, $110,000; Mahanoy City, $110,000; Mannheim, $100,000; Scottdale, $105,000; Towanda, $100,000; Butler, $170,000.

Of course, plans, drawings and specifications will have to be made available before contract bids are advertised. Many of the 100 or more projects selected today throughout the country have been in contemplation for some time, and some of the preliminary work has been done by the supervising architects' office of the Treasury Department.

The list announced today calls for a total expenditure of $20,810,000 and includes projects with limits of cost of from $100,000 to $300,000. A list of projects with limits of cost under $100,000 will be announced in the near future, Mills and Brown said.

Dr. R. B. Porter, commanding officer of the Marine Hospital here, said extensive additions have been asked to provide quarters for a staff of about 50 medical officers, nurses and orderlies. At present, with the exception of a few orderlies, the staff must find quarters to reside off the reservation.

The hospital has on an average 90 patients a day. Of these 25 to 30 are rivermen, 60 to 65 veterans and the rest federal employes injured in the line of duty.

POLICE TRACING MYSTERIOUS WARNING

Woman Given Threat After Death of Social Worker

City detectives today were investigating a mysterious telephone threat made during the night to Mrs. Barnett Davis, president of the Jewish Home for Babies and Children, as an aftermath of the death of Saul Drucker, 50, nationally known social worker and religious supervisor of the home, who died early today in Passavant Hospital, supposedly a suicide.

Drucker died from poison he swallowed in the dental office of the home at 2508 Breckenridge street, yesterday afternoon, after his resignation had been demanded byt its board of directors, according to the report to the coroner.

MYSTERY MESSAGE

Early this morning a man telephoned the Davis home at 5421 Albemarle street, Squirrel Hill, according to a report to the police, and apparently mistaking a maid for Mrs. Davis' daughter, said:

"The superintendent of your home has died and your mother is going to die today."

Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd detailed Detectives Michael Tortorella and Gus Ellis, of the bomb and arson squad, to investigate.

Mrs. Davis told the detectives, they said, that she had had some trouble with Drucker at the home yesterday, and had demanded his resignation. She refused to reveal to reporters the reason for Drucker's resignation, which also had been requested at a hurriedly called meeting of the board of directors of the home Tuesday, and formally demanded yesterday.

LOANS INVOLVED

A rabbi explained the difficulty arose when the board learned that Drucker had borrowed money from the savings of older boys in the home, and still owed a portion of it.

Drucker came to Pittsburgh from Boston six months months ago.

Mrs. Davis this afternoon issued the following formal statement concerning Mr. Drucker's death:

"It is with regret that we announce the death of Mr. Saul Drucker, former superintendent of the Jewish Home for Babies and Children. Mr. Drucker, who had been in ill health for some time, resigned his position September 13.

"Mr. Drucker was an expert on work with backward and delinquent children and came to Pittsburgh after giving up his own school at Billerica, Mass. Mr. Drucker had written much on backward children. His work, 'Children Astray,' is being used by social workers all over the country. He was a lecturer on child psychology at Harvard University.

"He leaves his widow, Mrs. Jeannette Drucker; one daughter, Lillian, two brothers and one sister."

North Side Hit-Run Suspect Arrested

A few hours after he was alleged to have struck Katherine Covarto, 3, while she was playing near her home at 1305 Veto street, last night, Harry Reitzel, 28, of 914 Cedar avenue, was arrested by North Side police charged with violating the automobile laws. Police said, after hitting the girl, Reitzel failed to stop. Suffering an injury to her left foot, the child was treated at Presbyterian Hospital.

WOMAN SHOOTS, 3 PAY FINES

Martin Hartman, his wife, Beatrice, and son, Harry, 17, of 37 South Eighteenth street, paid $10 fines each in Morals Court today as the result of an argument in their home last night.

The father and son were quarreling, Mrs. Hartman said, and she picked up a loaded revolver. In her excitement, two shots went into the floor. It succeeded in frightening them, she added, and also in calling police. The argument started over the father's objection to the boy going with a girl, it was brought out.

'Booze, Gas' Tests Show Driving Perils

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 15.—A man may walk a straight line; stand with eyes closed without swaying and touch the tip of his nose with his finger or touch the tips of both fingers together and still be drunk.

This, in part, is what Dr. H. A. Heise, pathologist of the Uniontown Hospital, has discovered in recent experiments with intoxicating liquors, men and automobiles, in preparation for a medical paper on the subject of "Booze and Gas."

Dr. Heise's experiments have taken the better part of two months. For the purpose of research he has chosen men from all walks of life; men of many ages and of varied physical types. It is the purpose of the experimentation to determine how much liquor an average person can consume without becoming visibly affected, yet still be incapable of driving an automobile.

TEST WITH STUDENT

In his most recent experiment, Dr. Heise chose a youthful university student of the athletic type. The youth never before had tasted liquor; he did not smoke, and was considered a perfect physical specimen. He was 19 years old.

Five ounces of whisky were given to the subject. It was rye and the young teetotaler took it with a wry face.

The test included driving an automobile, on which special stop-measuring contrivances had been installed, through a narrow lane at a speed of 30 miles an hour.

Without warning, Dr. Heise himself would sound the signal to stop by firing a pistol and the subject's reaction was recorded when he tramped down on the foot-brake which fired a second pistol. The distance between the marks of the two bullets on the roadway, calculated as to time, denoted the subject's response.

REACTIONS SLOW UP

In the case of the novice, it was noted that liquor at first stimulated his reactions, followed within 15 minutes to half an hour with a noticeable slowing up of his ability to co-ordinate thought and physical movements. Throughout, the subject was able to pass every known physical test, ordinarily conceded to register a man's state of intoxication.

Coupled with Dr. Heise's road experiments are a series of laboratory tests to determine the percentage of alcohol in the subject's system at various ages in the experimentation.

Dr. Heise's paper on the subject will be presented in Pittsburgh during the state meeting of the medical society in October.

1 HURT, 1 JAILED IN WEDDING ROW

Thomas Foley, 23, of 1530 Princess avenue, is in South Side Hospital, and Michael Milanek, 22, of 3228 Mary street, is held in South Side Police Station, the culmination of a wedding celebration last night.

Patrolman Joseph Talko sent in a riot call when he found a crowd milling in front of 3204 South Thirty-second street, where Katheine Huornyak, of that address, and Frank Mates were celebrating their marriage.

Five were arrested. At the hearing today, Foley collapsed and was taken to the hospital, suffering from bruises on the head. Magistrate J. J. Sweeney discharged three prisoners and held Milanek until Foley recovers.

Mystery Assailant Stabs Second Victim

The second mysterious attack upon passersby on the North Side was reported to police early today by Alfred Meredith, of 7912 Tioga street, who said he had been beaten and stabbed at Sandusky street and Plush way. He was treated at Allegheny General Hospital.

ARMY BOMBERS TO 'SAVE' CITY

As though enemy troops were approaching Pittsburgh, 10 Army bombing planes will arrive here Saturday noon for war maneuvers to "save" the Steel City.

The county airport will become the advance airdrome of the Ninety-sixth Bombardment Squadron of Langley Field, Va., through arrangements completed by Maj. Hal Bazley, airport director. The "bombardment" of railroad bridges and other maneuvers will follow the christening of "The Pittsburgher," piloted by Lieut. Biggs, of Toledo, O., at 4:45 p. m.

The bombers will carry two 600 demolition bombs to destroy bridges and eight 100-pound bombs to destroy enemy aircraft. The planes, augmented by the National Guard Squadron, will remain over night, camp being pitched at the airport. The squadron will leave for Langley Field at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 15.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

What do you know about Maine going sane? And "as Maine goes, so goes the post offices." Four years ago, they imported a Democrat into the state just to show around at the fairs.

Will Rogers

Even Wall street got plumb discouraged at the news. "You mean to tell us this booming and trading we been doing among ourselves here has all gone for naught?"

Mr. Hoover wired to Everett Sanders to "tighten the lines, enlighten the people, our cause is right."

Roosevelt just grinned, and even the original couldn't a shown more teeth. The old campaign is getting hot. Heaven help a man out looking for re-election on a night like this.

Yours, WILL.

Maine Didn't Change Horses— It Shifted Riders

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Maine gave the answer to that hokum slogan about not changing hosses in mid-stream.

That dignified state said:

"We ain't changing hosses. We're changing riders."

It also staked us to a Democratic slogan. Business getting better during alterations.

Official Washington is now running around like ants before the storm. It's every man for himself and get as many crumbs as you can.

Well, the G. O. P. has no kick coming. It has had its feet under the table for twelve long years.

It has tried every kind of threat known to science in an effort to broom back the rising tide. And it finally choked itself with its own necktie by its attack on the American Legion.

The voter in Maine has demanded a change of administration. And you cannot blame him any more than you can criticize a drowning man for trading a straw for a lumberyard.

FEDERAL BUILDING STRIKE PARLEY ENDS IN DEADLOCK

DUNN, HARRIS THREATEN EXPOSE

A series of conferences between representatives of the Hoisting Engineers Union and the Building Trades Employers Association arranged through the Chamber of Commerce committee ended last night in a deadlock. The postoffice strike, now on for nine weeks, continues.

Thomas A. Dunn, president of the chamber, has declared he and Senator Frank J. Harris have investigated the strike and have prepared a statement placing the responsibility.

If the two contending parties do not get together by tomorrow, Dunn threatens to release the statement.

BLAMES UNION

F. O. Reed, secretary of the Employers' Association, has declared he believes the Chamber of Commerce should make public the results of the investigation at once. Reed declared every union requirement on the postoffice job has been met by the contractors and that the strike is now an attempt to force the contractors into a general agreement to help force the unionization of sand and gravel hoists.

Reed said:

"We will not be a party to unionizing the sand and gravel companies of this district."

Reed declared he has been approached four times recently and efforts made to get him to sign a letter. Twice, this letter was brought by M. Emmelinne Pitt, federal conciliator; once by D. G. Aronberg, general contractor on the postoffice, and finally by the Chamber of Commerce committee yesterday, Reed declared.

FEARS CONSPIRACY

He said:

"These letters were plain statements involving the unionization of sand and gravel hoists whether under the control of a member of our association or otherwise."

Reed declared that the entire postoffice strike now rests on the interpretation of the sand and gravel hoist agreement. He declared that if the Employers Association gives the union what they demand the employers would be in immediate danger of a charge of conspiracy in restraint of trade.

A conference yesterday with the Chamber of Commerce committee was attended by O. K. Eaton, attorney for the union.

Dog Gives Alarm But House Burns

CLINTONVILLE, Pa., Sept. 15.—Barking of a dog in the home of Dr. M. A. Newell roused the family at four in the morning, resulting in an alarm that brought volunteers to attempt to save the residence of Mrs. Taylor Hoffman, next door, then in flames.

The Hoffman house burned with loss of $8,000 to $10,000, including destruction of a number of valuable paintings.

COX SPEAKING TO TOPEKA

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 15.—Father James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh, presidential nominee of the Jobless party, invaded the state of Kansas last night. He spoke in the darkness of Heathwood Park to more than 1,500 persons.

Police were on hand to extend the city's official welcome, but the Department of Public Works neglected to turn on the lights. It was an unintentional slight, it was explained.

Today the nominee will go to Topeka, scene of Gov. Roosevelt's speech-making yesterday. Father Cox's talk in that city tonight will be followed by one in Wichita tomorrow.

Father Cox, in an interview with Kansas City newspapermen, lauded the westerners for their hospitality.

3 HELD IN FEUD IN M'KEESPORT

Charge and counter-charge kept three McKeesport aldermen busy last night.

In one, Michael Tolgen, of 811 Soles street, McKeesport, charging Frederick Jordon and John Coughlin, both of 405 Huey street, with assault and battery, alleged they beat him and then took him for a ride. Alderman E. M. Trich held the two for court in $500 bond.

Appearing before Alderman James Lundy, Jordon and Coughlin, charged Jordon with aggravated assault and battery and mayhem, for which he was held for court in $500 bond.

The climax came when Jordon and Coughlin, charged with violating the prohibition laws were held for court by Alderman August C. Markus, following a raid at 405 Huey street by constables and county detectives.

JOB CUT FIGHT IN SHARPSBURG

By a vote of 4 to 3, Sharpsburg Council today had ratified Councilman Lawrence A. Bragg's motion to assess Councilmen William E. Harris and J. J. Malley $104.40 surcharges. The $104.40 represented 29 days' pay of William F. Harris, son of the Councilman, who was reinstated the day after his dismissal from the borough water and light plant in the borough's economy drive last month.

Bragg charged that Councilman John J. Lennon, chairman of the water and light committee, had been overruled by Harris and Malley, the other two members of the committee, in the reinstatement of young Harris. Council last night approved young Harris' dismissal, but would not ratify his reinstatement, so his salary for working for the borough unofficially for the last 29 days was placed against his father and Malley.

Business Man Slain In 'Triangle' Quarrel

BEDFORD, Ind., Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Walter Blackwell, 45, president of a construction company, was shot and killed here today by Albert Williams, 43, a blacksmith.

Williams was said to have shot Blackwell because the latter was alleged to have been friendly with Williams' wife. Blackwell leaves a widow and seven children.

'CYCLE CRASH KILLS 2 POLICE

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Two Peninsula State Park motorcycle policemen, school boy chums, rode to death last night as their vehicles clashed head-on.

The dead are William Paradine, 23, a student at Princeton University, employed as a patrolman during the summer vacation, and George Kruth, 32.

Paradine was killed soon after he went on duty for the last time, as he had planned to resume his studies at Princeton next week. Kruth, father of two children, formerly was a state trooper, having served two years with Troop A, Greensburg.

Kruth was on his way home at the time of the accident, which Coroner W. G. Stroble said was due to speeding. Both died of fractured skulls.

TWO MEN HELD AFTER FIRES

Dr. Zacharias Stanos, 42, of 227 Coltart square, was held over to permit the bomb and arson squad to make further investigation and Gabrial Delonzo, 35, of 1143 Updegraf street, was held for court today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court. Both arrests grew out of fires in their respective homes.

Detective Gus Ellis, of the bomb squad, declared a fire in Dr. Stanos home September 6 was of a suspicious nature, the fire apparently starting in two spots in the house at the same time.

Delonzo's house was damaged by an explosion and fire August 22, it was testified, fireman later finding oil and gasoline floating on the water in the cellar. Delonzo denied knowledge of the explosion, declaring he was in Butler.

Friend of Harvard Students Dies at 72

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—John Amee, known to thousands of Harvard students to whom he was confidant and adviser as "Mr. John," died at his home today at the age of 72.

Amee, who, with his brother, conducted a periodical store in Harvard Square for 50 years, knew intimately in their college days many men who became national and international figures. In his younger days he was a friend of the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

"We want to run the Americans out of the Philippines."

Berlin Bandits Kill 1, Escape With $10,000

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Four bandits shot down four attendants of the Berlin Bus Company in a daylight robbery today, killing one of the attendants and escaping with $10,000, which was being taken to a bank for deposit.

Mexico Labor Clash Kills 3, Injures 5

LOS MOCHIS, SINALOA, Mexico, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Three men were killed and five wounded today in a clash centering about the right of a labor leader to intervene in a controversy between the American-owned sugar hacienda here and its employes.

POLICE-SLEUTH FEUD REVIVED

The old feud between police and detectives flared today as Detective Walter Monaghan, in Central Police Court, accused police of smuggling alibi evidence to one of his prisoners. As a result the hearing of James Foster, of Youngstown, and John Russo, of Cleveland, was continued, while a two-way investigation, ordered by Police Supt. P. P. Walsh, is in progress.

Foster and Russo, arrested by Monaghan on suspicious person charges, were said to be driving an auto in Fifth avenue at Washington street without an owner's card or driver's license.

As Monaghan testified before Magistrate Rothenberg today that neither had cards when searched, Foster tossed the owner's card on the magistrate's desk.

Monaghan exclaimed:

The hearing was adjourned and Supt. Walsh ordered an investigation.

DENY TEACHERS OWN RAIDED BARBECUE

Two Turtle Creek High School instructors will be arraigned again tonight before Justice of the Peace William Wilkinson to satisfy prosecuting county detectives that they did not own the LaBarbe barbecue in which a slot machine was seized Tuesday.

The defense of the teachers, W. Howard Smith, and Allen Bailer, took an unexpected twist last night when W. C. Jones, of R. D. No. 1, Turtle Creek, testified that he, and not the teachers, was the owner of the stand.

BLOCK VINDICATION

The move, however, did not satisfy County Detectives Joseph Bodner and Edward M. Frank, the raiding detectives. Frank blocked the move to vindicate the teachers with:

"Well, we don't know anything about that. We were told to hold Bailer and Smith and we're holding them."

His stand is backed by Bodner, and, notwithstanding the arguments of Malcolm McDonald, Turtle Creek School Board counsel and attorney for the teachers, Smith and Bailer were required to post bond for a further hearing.

Neither Smith nor Bailer testified.

REGRETS PUBLICITY

McDonald, dramatically introducing Jones as the owner of the stand, said:

"It is unfortunate and unnecessary that Mr. Smith and Mr. Bailer have suffered the uncalled-for publicity in this case. They do not own the stand. The business belongs to Mr. Jones. They did own it, but Mr. Jones owns it now."

It was the contention of the instructors that the machine seized by the detectives was a vending machine which returned a package of candy for the coin deposited, and not the gambling "slot machine." This, however, was not brought out at the hearing.

JUDGE EXPLAINS

Judge F. P. Patterson, when asked if he had ordered the raid, said he had ordered no specific raids upon any place, but had turned a number of complaints over to the District Attorney's office for investigation, a raid to be made if the circumstances warranted such action.

This, he said, he considered the most advisable course in view of the fact that most of the complaints came from anonymous sources and it was impossible to say which were bona fide complaints and which were prompted by political or other animus.

RING INVOLVES EX-DRY AGENT

Archie Negelman, of Webster, a former prohibition agent, who was arrested yesterday on a federal warrant charging him with conspiring to violate the prohibition law in West Virginia, is implicated in an alleged automobile theft ring that operated in Southwestern Pennsylvania and West Virginia, according to testimony before the United States commissioner.

While he was awaiting bond pending a hearing before the commissioner on proceedings to remove him to Elkins, W. Va., he was served with a warrant by Corp. J. D. Hoover, of the state police at New Eagle, Pa., on an automobile theft charge.

According to testimony before the commissioner when John Slifko, Jr., of Library, a garage owner, was arraigned on a charge of receiving, concealing and storing a stolen automobile, Negelman was implicated with Slifko and Hyman Cohen, of Belle Vernon, in an automobile deal. Slifko was released under $3,000 bond pending a final hearing October 4. Cohen, arrested some weeks ago, is under $3,000 bond.

Slifko furnished $2,000 bond for Negelman, pending the latter's hearing before being taken to West Virginia. Negelman was convicted in 1929 of conspiracy to violate the federal liquor laws and was sentenced to two years in Atlanta.

Ohio Bank Robbers Flee With $10,000

MARION, O., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Forcing three employes and two customers to lie on the floor, two bandits robbed the Richwood Banking Company, of Richwood, 16 miles southwest of here, of between $9,000 and $10,000, shortly after the bank opened today.

MOTHER JAILED AFTER FIGHTING EVICTION

A mother who defended her family of five children against eviction from their home, Arlington avenue and Beulah street, yesterday, was held in the county jail today on charges of aggravated assault and battery and disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Kate Linder was lodged in jail, while her husband, George Linder, who was absent at the time of the altercation, found shelter for his children at the homes of neighbors. The household effects, carried into the street, were still there early today.

CHARGES POKER ATTACK

Mrs. Linder was alleged to have attacked Constable John Edmundson with a poker when he forced his way into the home with the eviction writ. Edmundson seized the poker, searing his hand. As he attempted to quiet Mrs. Linder she hurled a pot of boiling grease at him and then attacked him with a baseball bat, the constable said.

After the alleged attack Mrs. Linder was handcuffed and kept in Edmundson's automobile while the furniture was carried from the house. Her children, ranging in age from 1 to 13 years, were cared for by neighbors.

MAN JOBLESS YEAR

Constable Edmundson declared the Linder family had been informed of the impending order several weeks ago. Enforcement of the writ was said to have been ordered by the constable's father, Justice of the Peace Ira F. Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon.

Linder said he had not been employed for more than a year, but his rent had been paid until July 1.

Early Marriage Adds To Tuberculosis Gain

C. L. NEWCOMB

Jazz Age, Freedom Exonerated by Seal Director

Jazz age and new freedom of youth were exonerated as causes for increased tuberculosis among young women despite the decrease shown in all other groups, by C. L. Newcomb, of New York, director of the Christmas Seal sale, National Tuberculosis Association, addressing Southwestern Pennsylvania workers yesterday in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Early marriage and motherhood were revealed as the chief causes, Newcomb said. The meeting was the second of a series of sectional "seal conferences" under the state society. A meeting will be held tomorrow in Erie.

Newcomb told the workers gathered to outline plans for this year's seal sale:

"The job ahead of us is still one of staggering proportions. Take tuberculosis among young women 18 to 25 years of age. While tuberculosis declines among other groups, this particular group shows an increase. Speculation has ranged from jazz age and scanty clothing to the grow-thin craze and too much freedom. A study of one group of young women in Detroit shows chief cause due to early marriage and early motherhood. In 70 per cent of the cases, children were born before the age of 20 years."

Dr. C. Howard Marcy, of Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society, attended. Others included Byron McCandless, Miss Florence E. Leitch, Mrs. Betty Joseph and Mrs. Paul McKenrick, Armstrong County; Miss Elma C. Graham, Beaver County; Mrs. C. W. Montgomery, Blair County; Miss Lillian O. Barrow and Miss Marion Leonell, Fayette; Miss Elizabeth Mong, Franklin County; Mrs. John Tasker, Mrs. Harold Wood, Mrs. Floyd Miller, Mrs. John Hartman, Mrs. W. D. Glenndenning, Mrs. Wayne Martin, Mrs. J. L. Fye, Miss Ruth Weightman, Miss Edna Dolinsky and Mrs. John Clarke, Greene County; Mrs. J. W. Hunter and Mrs. H. R. Martin, Jefferson; Mrs. Janet Clutter Zelt, Washington, and Mrs. Viola Stanton, Westmoreland.

MAN CONFESSES TO BIGAMY

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—The whereabouts of Lawrence A. Felty, of Harrison City, were revealed in news dispatches from Philadelphia, which said he admitted to Magistrate Joseph H. Coward that he had a wife and four children residing in this county. When Felty made this admission, Fanny Cohen, 41, wife No. 2, fainted. Mrs. Felty and children are said to be living at McCullough, a mining town near Harrison City.

After Mrs. Cohen-Felty was revived she told how Felty had wooed and wed her after she had answered an advertisement seeking a housekeeper. Felty, she said, disappeared September 6.

Felty was held in $1,000 bond for a further hearing, and federal officers lodged a detainer charging him with impersonating a federal aviation inspector and accepting $60 from Joseph Miller, of Philadelphia. Miller said Felty promised to teach him to operate an airplane. Felty said he married his first wife, Violet, at Wheeling, W. Va., in 1911.

Roundel of Vanished Romance

Where are the hearts that once would gush
Rapture at prick of Cupid's darts?
With glamour gay, with romance lush,
Where are the hearts?

Can all be sunken in the marts
Of Commerce with its sordid rush,
Bemused by cost-and-profit charts?

Ah, well, let Love and all its slush
Wait upon braver, manlier arts . . . .
Just now I'm trying to fill a flush—
Where are the hearts?

Have a Silly

Nat Brusiloff suggests that a movie temple hire Harry Richman, Jack Osterman and Chief Caupolican, the Indian baritone, on the same program, so that the billing might read:

"Richman, Osterman, Indian Chief!"

The Retort Lovely

A broker recently called up a client, according to Ide Gruber, and said:

"Now listen, Bill, I haven't put you into anything for over a year, but I can put you into something now at 42 and you can get out at 110."

"Oh, yeah?" was the fed-up investor's response before hanging up, "what is it—a Fifth avenue bus?"

Heheheh

Tish Tash reports that business is so bad up in Boston that most of the storekeepers are wishing that the British were coming again.

Form of Sarcasm

Izzy Elinson tells how two laborers tried to get into the Central Park Casino for lunch the other afternoon. This is the zoo for so-called smart people.

"Sorry," said the doorman, giving their overalls the once-over, "formal attire only."

Character

Then there is this bit of drama that we listened to while holidaying up-State. A one-time wealthy man had one vice—he gambled incessantly and for amazing stakes. He neglected his business for the track, the wheel and the other come-ons until he went broke.

Today, however, you may still see him in one of Newport's fashionable gaming casinos—but not as a player. Because he still loves the atmosphere of a gambling place—the owner of the spot (to whom the man dropped most of his fortune) has hired him as a "stick-man."

The "stick-man" is the gent with the cane at the dice table who picks up the dice after each throw. Yes, indeedy—as one wag recently observed:

Have Some Scotch

An example of the way Scotchmen are taking advantage of the depression is best illustrated by this one forwarded by the Funnyboners. A Scot had just proposed to a widow he had met recently.

"You deceiving wretch!" stormed the Scot.

Nifties

Lou Ashendorf, who ought to know better than to forward the same quips to paragraphers on the same day, sends these:

"Inasmuch as they both give us the runaround, the only difference between a taxi dancer and a taxicab is that the taxicab is only 20 cents a mile and no back talk . . . When a man changes his clothes every day he is looking for a sucker. When a girl changes hers every day she has found one!"

Wish

Our love, it seems, was just a play,
In which you had the leading role.
And with your acting night and day,
You stole my body and my soul.

But as the clouds begin to clear,
And time is patching up my heart,
I often sigh and wish, my dear,
That Garbo could have played your part!

—Van Hedges.

Here they actually carry saxophones in them!

Of All Things!

Ted Healy, the comedian, is just as well known for his absurdities off the stage as well as on.

There was the middle-of-the-night, frinstance, when Healy raced up and down a hotel floor yelling and banging on doors. Finally a woman opened her door and said:

"What is it?"

"Here," screamed Healy, holding a poker deck in front of him, "take a card!"

Eddie Foy, Jr., who plays a leading role in "Humpty Dumpty" in the Nixon, carries a name that for year was a coin magnet in box offices of vaudeville and musical comedy theaters, that of his father, who not only was a great comedian but also was blessed with a funny voice. The original Eddie was not averse to having his children follow in his footsteps, and for several seasons he had them all on the stage with him, billed as Eddie Foy and the Seven Little Foys. Five boys and two girls made up the Foy ladder. Eddie, Jr., is the only one on the stage today. Bryan, the elder, is a director of film comedies. Another of the former little Foys, Charles, also is in Hollywood as a casting director. The first important engagement for Eddie, Jr., when he had passed the "little Foy" period was in the Ziegfeld production of the McEvoy musical comedy, "Show Girl." Last season he appeared in "The Cat and the Fiddle," which registered the longest run of any musical show for the theatrical year on Broadway.

"Springtime for Henry," one of last season's New York comedy successes, is announced for a road tour that will bring the Benn W. Levy play to Pittsburgh in the fall. Henry Hull and Eric Blore have been engaged for the roles originally played by Leslie Banks and Nigel Bruce. There is no statement concerning the feminine parts created by Helen Chandler and Frieda Inescourt. Author Levy, who had previously done "Art and Mrs. Bottle" and "Mrs. Moonlight," turned to movie directing this summer and he has been in Hollywood working on a picture tentatively titled "The Case of Lady Camber."

Leo Carillo, popular stage actor who has been making pictures, has postponed eight weeks of personal appearances, now to begin November 11, because of engagements in two studios, one of which is for "Cauliflower Alley." Chic Sale also has postponed until next month a stage tour, still being busy before the talkie camera.

Maurice Chevalier has cabled from France that he will leave his native land next month and will return to Hollywood to make his next picture under the direction of Ernst Lubitsch.

Plays We'll See Very Soon; Plagiarism Racket; One Censor Gone

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Now that the legitimate season has started officially, with "Humpty-Dumpty" in the Nixon, people will know where to go after daylight savings has been officially abolished. The season, late in starting, looks as if it would be one of good plays and good audiences. The American Theater Society, which has offices on the fifth floor of the Nixon Building, is receiving subscriptions that average $500 a day, and many of the best seats are being booked fast, especially for opening nights. The Theater Guild season, included in these subscriptions along with the Shubert bookings, begins with a play by John Howard Lawson called "The Pure in Heart," with Osgood Perkins and June Walker in leading roles. This will be followed by Philip Merivale's production of "Cynara," one of the big hits last season in New York.

Mr. Seibel

Among the new things to come shortly after will be the dramatization of Pearl S. Buck's Pulitzer prize novel, "The Good Earth," with Alla Nazimova in the principal role. This novel has been a continuous best seller for about two years, and started an epidemic of Chinese fiction.

The other interesting drama announced is "This Side Idolatry," written by Talbot Jennings. There is some mystery about this play. It has been announced that it's about William Shakespeare, of whom Ben Jonson used the phrase "this side idolatry." It has also been said that it's about Charles Dickens, who was the rather shifty hero of a novel with the title "This Side Idolatry."

Since Eva Le Gallienne has also promised her co-operation in this subscription season, it is possible that her new productions of "Liliom" and "Camille" will be seen here. As already said, the outlook is good. Large audiences for opening nights are assured, and the intelligent playgoer will have nothing to distract his attention.

SUITS FOR PLAGIARISM

Eugene O'Neill has just paid something like $17,000 in the way of legal expenses for defending a suit charging plagiarism of "Strange Interlude." The lady who brought the suit, and lost it, had no money—so Eugene had to pay the costs. The suit was a joke from the first, for O'Neill does not need to steal anybody's ideas—he has too many of his own. But the joke is on him, and on every author apt to be subjected to the same sort of annoyance by people who think their ideas have been stolen.

Not one suit in a 100 charging plagiarism has any justification. But what happened to Eugene O'Neill is likely to happen to any other author. The creators of that musical hit, "Of Thee I Sing," are being sued by a man who charges they stole his idea. I have just read that man's play, from which he says the idea was stolen—and he'd better not call me in as an expert witness.

It seems that courts should require a bond in all such cases—otherwise anybody can sue, and the successful author will have to pay the costs for defending his own property.

Of recent plays in New York there are at least three whose ideas might be claimed by other authors or the heirs of writers long dead.

"The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," by Jean Bart, harks back to two famous literary successes. There are resemblances to Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" and to Victor Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs." The hero is a hideous creature who makes another man great and admired, and sees the other man capture the woman he loves. The case is clear—Jean Bart will have to pay the cost of her lawyers.

"Best Years," a new play by Raymond Van Sickle, in which Katherine Alexander has made a hit, deals with the possessive mother much as did "The Silver Cord." There are also resemblances to Sudermann's 'Magda." Let dramatist Van Sickle get out his checkbook.

The worst case is "Here Today," called a "comedy of modern bad manners." In this satirical farce, which some people believe is aimed at Dorothy Parker of the sharp tongue, the obvious model was Sheridan's "School for Scandal." Let the heirs of Sheridan get busy. Even if they cannot attach the royalties of dramatist Oppenheimer, they can make him pay to defend his title.

Suits for plagiarism are becoming a racket.

CASEY BATS NO MORE

In Boston they are shouting, "Hurrah, the censor is dead!" While he is not exactly dead, he has been retired upon a pension. The censor in question is John Michael Casey, who for 26 years has looked at every show to decide whether it is pure enough for Back Bay eyes. This Casey has gone to bat as often as the famous Casey of De Wolf Hopper's recitation. And he has struck out such dramatists as Eugene O'Neill, Clyde Fitch and Eugene Walter.

Casey had the sort of training every censor should have. For 20 years before he became messenger of the Mayor in Boston City Hall, he sat in the orchestra of burlesque and vaudeville theaters. He ought to know what is obscene, if anybody does. But he did not sit there as a moral force. He was engaged in making a joyful noise with snare-drums and cymbals. With his nimble feet he agitated the pedals of the big bass drum. From triangles, sleigh bells, convent chimes and sandpaper he extracted exhilarating rhythms. Whistles, bazoos, tambourines and xylophones were also operated by his versatile limbs. With such a training in divine harmonies, he was the right man to be the moral censor in the City of the Sacred Cod.

But what will become of Boston now that Casey is retired? We tremble for the purity of the staid old town of St. Botolph. Who knows what will happen that might make even Sacco and Vanzetti turn around in their graves?

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

The Great Difference

THREE MORE months of life!

The thin, wizened body of Joseph Morton lay supine on the doctor's table. The parchment-like skin on his face was drawn tight—and two prominent cheek bones, like hillocks, threw his drawn face into queer shadows.

His jaws worked convulsively as though he were trying to say something. A cold sweat broke out on his forehead and little beads of perspiration trickled down his face. Slowly and painfully Morton raised himself on his elbows. His trembling lips framed a question.

"You mean, doctor, that I've only got three more months to live?"

The doctor nodded.

"Mr. Morton," he replied, "I hate to be so brutally frank. But I've never believed in fooling my patients. I didn't exactly say that you've but three more months to live. I said you'd be lucky if you lived through the next three months.

The patient slipped from the examination couch and clutched at the doctor's arm.

"Doctor," he almost screamed, "don't quibble over words. You mean I may die at any moment. That's it, isn't it? You mean that, even with care, you don't give me more than three months of life. That's what you mean, eh?"

"I'm afraid so, Mr. Morton." The doctor placed an arm around the man's shoulders. "Your heart is very, very bad. In your condition, it would be foolish and unfair for me to give you any false hopes of recovery."

With agonizing slowness, Joseph Morton dressed himself. As he donned his sombre, black garments, he felt is if he were dressing for his own funeral. Three more months of life! The words went echoing through his numbed brain with monotonous persistence. Three more months of life! The words kept time with his dragging steps as he stumbled out of the doctor's office.

"Three more months of life!" he mutered. What will I do now? . . . .

Had you loked upon Joseph Morton at that moment, you would undoubtedly have put him down as an elderly man of sixty or more. As a matter of fact, he had just turned forty. At that age, it's pretty tough to be told that you have but three more months to live. And in Morton's case, it was tougher still.

At seventeen, when most young men are figuring how many new suits they can buy in a year and just how much they'll have left to spend on the girls, Morton was figuring how much he could save out of his $15 a week. He had but one ambition. And that was to save enough money to retire at forty and enjoy life for the rest of his days.

As the years went by, the ambition became an obsession. From a cautious and saving youth, Morton turned into a mean and calculating miser. Every waking hour and many sleepless nights were spent in figuring how he could save just a few more dollars.

The only thing he spent freely was time, and most of that was spent in contemplation of his ever-increasing bank balance. As he sat in his dingy $3 room with his bank book spread out before him, he weaved his dream. The bank book turned magically into an open door—and that beyond was the house he was going to build.

The house would then dissolve into a mixed vision in which wondrous foods, beautiful women, soul-stirring music, race horses and motor cars would intermittently appear. All these things were going to be Joseph Morton's in a few years. But as the vision faded and the four, cold walls of his garret closed on him once again, even he shuddered a little as he thought of the price he was paying for his future freedom. Year after year of deadening toil. Years of tortuous saving. Year after year of vigorous self-denial.

During his thirteenth year, Morton felt a strange stabbing pain around his heart. It worried him as much as it pained him. But a doctor would cost money. So the pain was put down to indigestion.

Then came the glorious day when Joseph Morton reached the age of 40. Thirty thousand dollars in the bank! Free to realize his dreams! No more work! No more stinting and saving! Everything would be as he had visioned it, except for that pain around the heart. That worried him.

And now what? Three more months to live! Three months of life in exchange for 20 years of toil and suffering! Lord, what a purchase price! As he walked slowly homeward from the doctor's office, Morton suddenly pounded his fists together. They still weren't going to cheat him. No charity or relatives were going to get his money. He'd live the next three months as no man ever lived before. He'd show 'em!

And show 'em, he did. He went out on what, for him, was the wildest kind of spending orgy. In less than three months, almost every cent of Morton's hard-earned money found its way into other pockets. Night clubs, speakeasies, women, bookies—all of the sucker-catching fraternity had their share. Ah, how he was living!

In the excitement, the man forgot his pain. He forgot, in fact, his appointment with Death. Until one morning, nearly three months after his meeting with the doctor, he awakened to a cold realization that if he didn't die soon, he'd be broke.

He hurried to the doctor's office and asked for another examination. The doctor began to sound and pound. And as he worked, the expression on his face turned to one of acute surprise. After some 30 minutes had elapsed, he stepped back and looked at Joseph Morton in amazement.

"Mr. Morton," he asserted, "in all my years of medical experience, I have never known anything to equal your case. Your heart trouble seems to have disappeared. Why, man alive, if nothing else crops up, you are now liable to live another 20 years or more!"

An agonized cry escaped Morton's lips. He slipped from the couch and clutched the doctor's arm.

"Do you mean it, doctor?" he cried. "I have 20 more years to live? Why, it can't be true! I've spent almost all of my money. Only a few hundreds left. Are you sure, doctor? Are you sure?"

The doctor was positive. With pitiable slowness, Joseph Morton dressed himself. Twenty more years of life! The words went echoing through his numbed brain with monotonous persistence. Only a few hundred left! The words kept time with his dragging steps as he stumbled out of the doctor's office.

"Twenty more years of life!" he muttered. "What will I do now?" . . .

a tired feeling has no place in the happy "home-work" hour

—then pause a moment and reason in a common-sense way what may be the cause and its relation to the blood

NO matter whether it is the mother who is weak . . . frail . . . run-down . . . or whether it is the children—the home is not as happy as it should be.

In all humanity, and particularly among women and children, a deficiency of hemoglobin in the blood—a lowered blood count it is often called—is a very frequent complaint. Among the common symptoms, one or more of which is usually found in this condition, are, lack of appetite, poor digestion, paleness, nervousness, skin disorders, weakness, and a run-down condition generally.

Hemoglobin plays an important role in body vitality and enduring strength—it is the carrying agent in the blood which takes oxygen from the lungs to all parts of the body—even to the skin—and carries off the waste product.

S.S.S. stimulates the production of hemoglobin, when deficient. Furthermore, it promotes a keen appetite and improves digestion—so necessary in food assimilation.

You can feel the rejuvenating effect S.S.S. brings the body by its tonic action. As it increases your red-cells . . . and restores your hemoglobin . . . you will begin to feel better . . . look better.

A distinctive thing about S.S.S. is that it is made from fresh roots, barks and herbs . . . and being in liquid form it is readily absorbed by the system. It will not interfere with any other treatment you may be taking. Its efficacy has been proved by scientific tests and by its use for more than 100 years.

Try S.S.S. yourself—give it to your children! Get it from any drug store. In two sizes; regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. It may be the means of bringing better health and more happiness to you and yours. Then why not begin the S.S.S. course of treatment today? Insist on S.S.S.—the proven blood tonic.

You know we breathe oxygen into the lungs and exhale carbon dioxide BUT did you know it takes red-blood-cells, rich in hemoglobin, to convey the oxygen throughout the body and to throw off the poisonous waste product?

When nourishment enters the blood stream it is "burned." This process makes for body heat and energy, but in the conversion process carbon dioxide gas is given off. This is poisonous to the system. It should be rapidly removed.

The hemoglobin, in the red-cells of the blood, picks up this carbon dioxide—turning the blood blue—and conveys it to the lungs to be thrown off.

Then the hemoglobin takes up the oxygen from the air, breathed into the lungs,—turning the blood red again—and carries this very important agent—so necessary for life—to every part of the body—even to the skin. This is a continuous process. Complete circulation occurs about every eight minutes. You see how very, very important it is for the blood to have its full strength of red-blood-cells and hemoglobin.

Overwork, worry, colds, sickness and diet neglect frequently reduce the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content.

When the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content are lowered, the system is not expelling the carbon dioxide as fast as it is accumulated . . . neither is the system getting sufficient oxygen.

Some of the things which may result from such a lowered blood count are pallor of the skin, poor circulation, exhaustion, weakness, quick fatigue, faintness, numbness, pricking sensations, stiffness, heart palpitation, nervousness, flabby flesh, underweight, disturbed digestion, lack of appetite, nausea, constipation, diarrhea, pimples and boils. Dangerous consequences may follow a lowered blood count.

Extensive scientific research has proved the value of S.S.S. in increasing red-cells and hemoglobin to the blood.

BUCS, BRAVES END SERIES

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Flag Chasers Go Poorly. Neither Plays .500 Ball. Medwick Chain Victim.

Poorer Fans Get Break. Twenty Grand Returns. No Sharkey-Schaaf Bout.

NATIONAL PACE WEAKENS SERIES HOPE

THE WAY THE remaining two pennant contenders in the National League are stumbling around in the closing stages of the race surely is not calculated to make the Yankees worry a lot as to which club they will be called upon to meet in the World Series. The Cubs, though it must be admitted that their recent defeats have been tough ones, have not been going at a real winning clip for some time. They have lost seven of their last 12 games. The Pirates, spurning some golden opportunities offered by the fates to pull up on the leaders, dropped four of their last seven bouts up to today. Unable to play .500 ball at a time when a club of real championship caliber might be expected to be towering above the field in a homestretch drive for the field, neither contender would appear to threaten any very serious opposition to the Yanks in the title stakes.

Larry French

The main pitching hope for a strong Pirate finish was upset in Boston yesterday when Larry French was added to the losing list. It was French's first defeat in a game started by himself since Eddie Brandt beat him 3 to 2 in the same city on August 10. Larry won seven straight starts in the meantime and lost once in a relief role. Yesterday's defeat also may have killed the southpaw's last fighting chance to win 20 games this year. He has won 16 and will hardly figure in more than three games later.

IT IS NOT due to any lack of effort on the part of the Pittsburgh management that Joe Medwick is not now a member of the Pirates, instead of getting a belated tryout in the Cardinal outfield, where he gives every promise of shining next year as one of the best young players in the major leagues.

Seeing signs of coming greatness in the youngster, the Pittsburgh club tried hard to get Medwick almost two years ago when he was playing for Houston in the Texas League. But the Cardinal owners, though declining to advance Joe to the Redbirds, refused all offers the Pirate offers.

THAT SHOWS AGAIN the injustice of the chain-store system to young players. They are kept in the minors when some other club would be glad to give them a chance in the big show. If Medwick had not been under the control of a club that declined to bring him up, he would have been getting a big league salary for at least one season, possibly two, before he started to get it from the Cards.

Medwick, numbered among the best prospects of the fall, is one of the few major league players not born in the United States. He is a native of Hungary, and Medwick is an adopted name. He played for Scottdale in the Middle Atlantic League in 1930.

BURLEIGH GRIMES is one Cub who considers the pennant certain and looks forward to the world series. He says fast-ball pitchers will not beat good hitters, and points to the record of Lefty Grove and other speed hurlers against the Yanks as evidence. "I think the Yanks can be troubled by a smart pitcher with control," Grimes said. "Give them a fast one, a curve, a high one, a slow one, a half speeder. Keep mixing 'em up and you'll annoy the Yanks or any other club. If you try to stand out there and overpower them with speed, you're likely to find that ball going out a lot faster than it came in."

K. M. Landis

THE POORER FANS wishing to see part of the New York end of the world series have been given a helping hand by Commissioner K. M. Landis. There will be 40,000 unreserved seats for each game at the Yankee Stadium—18,000 in the upper tier of the grandstand at $3.30 each and 22,000 in the two big bleachers at $1.10 apiece.

The Yankee business management proposed to reserve the entire grandstand to save customers the annoyance of standing in line. The commissioner, however, took the view that in a year of depression it would be fairer to provide as many seats as possible for those who cannot afford to buy a set of three reservations. He persuaded Ruppert and Barrow to reconsider.

WHILE THE PRESENT Yankees are preparing to cut a world series melon, two of their old mates who formerly shared in such spoils have suddenly found themselves without jobs after playing all season in the Pacific Coast League.

In line with the league's policy to make room for young players, Hollywood has released Outfielder Bob Meusel and Third Baseman Mike Gazella. Two other former big leaguers, Outfielder Marty Callaghan and Pitcher Myles Thomas are also to be dropped.

DIFFERING FROM THE Pittsburgh hockey situation that has shown two clubs fighting for one rink, there is presented in Chicago a picture of two rinks fighting for one club. An announcement that the Black Hawks would play their National League home games the coming winter at the Coliseum instead of the Stadium brought a statement from Sidney Strotz, president of the company owning the latter building, that the Stadium will file suit for $150,000 damages in the Hawks play in the Coliseum. Basis for the suit will be an alleged breach of contract in the Hawks' refusal to recognize and abide by a lease signed by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin as the agent of the hockey club. "The Stadium believes its lease is good," McLaughlin explains, "but we contend it was broken by the Stadium's refusal to grant us dates which the lease specifically states are ours."

AT A TIME when comebacks are fashionable in the sports world, Twenty Grand will step out today to attempt something of that kind on the turf. He will make his first start of the year in the Irish Lad Purse at one mile at Belmont, and if he comes through all right he will go into the Jockey Club Gold Cup two-mile grind Saturday, opposing Equipoise and Faireno for the racing crown of 1932.

The day will witness still another comeback trial, this one in the fight game. Little Jack Sharkey, former bantamweight title chaser, is to re-enter the ring at Coney Island tonight for a bout with Lope Tenorio. Some of them age quickly in the glove sport. Though this is Sharkey's "second time on earth" he is only 24.

REPORTS THAT THE open break between big Jack Sharkey and Ernie Schaaf would lead to the matching of the pair for a ring battle are vigorously denied by Johnny Buckley, who manages Sharkey and is Jack's partner in the ownership of Schaaf's contract. Buckley says the mere fact that Sharkey is signed not to fight anywhere until he does so for the Madison Square Garden people in New York in 1933 would alone make such a match impossible for more than a year. He adds that it never will be put on anyhow, as long as he has anything to do with the two fighters, who, he predicts, will get along smoothly again as soon as they have had a little chat.

Jack Sharkey

SHARKEY ALSO SCOFFS at the rumored match, saying it would be laughed out of court because "you couldn't get 10 persons to believe it was on the level." Both Buckley and Sharkey charge that outsiders tried to make trouble in their camp and prodded Schaaf into popping off about the heavyweight champion. The trouble grew out of Sharkey's criticism of Schaaf's losing fight against Max Baer. Ernie waxed indignant, called Sharkey a knocker and was quoted as saying: "Sharkey was knocked out by a third-rater, Romero Rojas. He wanted to take the easy way out against Eddie Record. He cried foul with Jimmy Maloney, and I think he could have got up the night he lost to Jack Dempsey. Sharkey is not a real champion and I'd like nothing better than to meet him."

SOMERVILLE, GUILFORD IN LEAD

FIVE FARMS COURSE, BALTIMORE COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Jesse Guilford, living up to his long-hitting reputation as the Boston "siege gun," led Chick Evans, of Chicago, 1 up, in a close battle between two former champions, after 18 holes of their 36-hole quarter-final match play in the United States amateur golf championship today.

Ross Somerville, former Canadian champion, gained a 2 up lead over Bill Blaney, of Boston, in a sensational match featured by sub-par golf. Somerville shot a 35-33—68, two under par, while Blaney posted 36-35—71.

OUIMET RALLIES

Francis Ouimet, of Boston, the defending champion, making an uphill fight after being 3 down at the tenth, finished the morning 18 holes all square with Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, the youthful medalist.

Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, after being 2 down at the fifteenth, rallied to finish the first 18 holes all square with Maurice J. McCarthy, Jr., of New York, in the last of the quarter-finals.

Both Somerville and Ouimet, odds-on favorites in their matches, started "down" to Blaney and Fischer, respectively, the latter winning the first and fourth to become 2 up and carrying the champion all the way to the sixth before he could win a hole.

PENALTY STROKE

Fischer turned for home in 36 and was 2 up again, but had the misfortune to suffer a penalty stroke when he took a practice swing in a ditch at the twelfth. This tightened the match to the difference of a single hole and, after that, it was strictly anybody's, Fischer missing a putt to lose the lead at the fifteenth and forcing Ouimet to hole a 30-footer to stay the pace at the seventeenth.

As for Blaney, the surprise party of the championship, he won the second and third holes and raced Somerville all the way to the turn before the Canadian could catch him.

Walsh Is Victor In Amateur Show

160-pound class—John Mucha, Lyceum, knocked out William Kennevan, Thomas Club, first round.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON: A DESPOT'S WHIM—King Mindon of Burma (1814-1878) is the founder of the city of Mandalay, which he began to build on February 13, 1857. On the morning of that day an old prophecy purporting to come from Gautama Buddah himself was unearthed and brought to the king's attention. It is said that the king's successful reign hinged upon his construction of a 90-foot high watchtower before sunset of the day. The king thereupon ordered immediate compliance with the prophecy. Disobedience was threatened with swift and certain execution. Even before the setting sun gilded the hills of the site of the new city, the tower stood completed. It stands to this day, guarding the entrance to the old fort, and I drew it on the spot during my sojourn in Mandalay.

TOMORROW: A REMARKABLE WRESTLING RECORD

WEST VIEWERS TO DRILL

Manager Paul Muzzio, of the West View club, will hold his first practice session of the season this evening at West View Park, in preparation for the West Penn Independent Football Conference season. Paul Greenberger, who will coach the club, reports that 18 men have been signed. There is a rumor that Roddy Cole will rejoin the Parkers.

At least nine of Duquesne University's former stars are reported headed towards the Red and Black, but while West View is claiming the players, there also is a report going the rounds that many of the former proteges of Elmer Layden are considering an offer to play in Erie.

Coach Al Dunn, of the Dan Burns club, of New Kensington, put the upriver gridders through a hard scrimmage practice last evening.

De Paolo's Brother Hurt in Race Crash

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Dan De Paolo, 32, brother of the famous automobile racing driver, Pete De Paolo, was injured critically at the Legion Ascot Speedway yesterday when a racing machine which he was testing spun on a turn of the track and crashed into a fence.

De Paolo was testing the car for Les Spangler, veteran Ascot racing pilot. Physicians said the driver suffered possible internal injuries and a skull fracture and had an even chance to recover.

CRAWFORDS PLAY GRAYS

The Crawfords, just back from a trip through the South, will clash with the Homestead Grays in the first of a three-game series at Greenlee Field tomorrow night. All of the games will be played at night, with contests at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow and Saturday, and a third game one minute after Sunday midnight.

SPORT VIGNETTES

President Hoover couldn't get a ticket on the 50-yard line for a football game at the Pitt Stadium . . . And neither could you, even if you owned the place . . . What? You don't believe it? . . . Well, if you had listened in on the talk of W. Don Harrison, Pitt's athletic director, during the Trained Seals' program over WCAE last night, this wouldn't be news to you . . . The catch is that an aisle splits the 50-yard line on each side of the field, and they won't allow you to park in the aisles.

Clark Kavel Curdy, another quarterback is Yi.

Max Hannum, Carnegie Tech's personable basketball coach and sports publicity demon, has been doing a bit of checking up on the Tartan gridders and comes up for air with some good stuff on their various nicknames . . . Interested? . . . Well, Angelo Bevevino, the quarterback, among his pals has only one name and that's Aunt Jemima . . . When they talk about Bunny they mean Bernard Burzio . . . Co-Captain Bill Sample is Hooks, and none other . . . Harry McCaffery is early several times the last two years and has been forced to leave the games before the action got very hot.

Aunt Jemima

Then there's Rudy, who really is Red Jones. He bears a resemblance to Rudy Vallee . . . Jacques Croissant, of the classic name, goes by the elegant label of Shoits . . . When they talk about Moose they mean Doloway, the sophomore . . . Halfback Joe Brewer is the Commissioner . . . Carl Forsman answers to Fuzzy . . . And the wow of them all is Co-Captain George Kavel . . . They call him Clark because when you stick that in front of Kavel and say it real fast it sounds like Clark Gable, who is only a movie actor . . . Before becoming Clark, Kavel was Kingel . . . Jim Fergus, the basketball star, now trying out for football, is known as Angus, Wilbur Plummer, the gigantic tackle, as Cecil, of all names, and Tony Kebe, the guard, as Two Play . . . They hung that one on Tony because he has been injured

And, speaking of the Techites, a spy claims that when Coach Bob Waddell decided to hold a forward pass scrimmage the other day he picked two teams and couldn't decide which should have the ball first . . . Finally he said he would think of a number between 6 and 10 . . . And the man who guessed closest to it could have the ball first . . . "What is the number?" he said, turning to one of his stars — "it's a number between 6 and 10; what is it?" "Two," came the reply, and then a hasty, confused correction as he noticed the look of dismay on the coach's face . . . "Er, I mean —excuse me for being so dumb

TULSA ANNEXES PENNANT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—The Tulsa Oilers won the 1932 Western League pennant by taking the fourth straight game of the playoff series, 7 to 5, in a thrilling battle that required an extra inning here last night.

Six errors at critical points brought defeat to the Indians after Rudy Jones had pitched seven innings with only one run. Tulsa tied the score with two tallies in the ninth and ended the series with two more in the tenth. Young, Najo and Rego of the Oilers hit for three bases. The score by innings:

Vines on Coast, Plans to Marry

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, young tennis champion, returned yesterday from triumphs in the East to announce that he will marry Verle Low, of Pasadena, a junior college school mate, before October 5, and that they will leave on that date for Australia. He will enter tournaments there.

Vines was welcomed by a throng of more than 1,000 friends and tennis fans and was met at the station by his fiancee and his mother, Mrs. Caroline L. Vines.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Pirate backs were against the wall today, in a manner speaking. Defeated twice in succession by the Braves, George Gibson and his athletes realized their pennant hopes are waning as they failed to take advantage of the Cubs' slump in New York. The Bruins have dropped their last two battles to the Terry Clan yet they still hold to a pennant lead of five and one-half games.

The Buccos are due to stage their farewell contest with the Braves this afternoon. Heinie Meine and Huck Betts, a pair of clever righthanders, are likely to fight it out on the slab. After the contest is ended, the Rovers will hurry to New York where they will open a three-game series tomorrow against the Giants.

TRIPLE PLAY HURTS BUCS

The two running setbacks suffered by the Pittsburghers in Boston brought their trip down to an even keel so far as victories and defeats are concerned. The Bucs have won four and lost the same number.

The Braves flashed a triple play on the Pirates yesterday as they rode to a 5-2 success. That the remarkable defense move had an important bearing on the outcome of the battle is a foregone conclusion. The Waner Act has just functioned two singles, putting Lloyd and Paul on second and first in the fifth, when Bill Urbanski stepped in front of Adam Comorosky's liner. Urbanski made the double shuffle unassisted as he touched second to erase Brother Lloyd. His throw to Jordan took Paul out of the picture for the third out.

SMITH IN DEBUT

Hal Smith, big righthander purchased by the Pirates from the Kansas City club of the American Association, made his debut in the fourth inning. Larry French pitched three rounds, the home team getting to the lefthander for three runs and four hits in the third. Holland greeted the new pitcher with a double and the Braves scored a run in the fourth, but he stopped the Tribe in the two succeeding rounds. Dugas batted for Smith in the seventh and Steve Swetonic finished, the Braves scoring the last run off Steve.

The Pirates scored one run in the third and then got another player around in the eighth.

World Trot Mark Set at Reading

READING, Pa., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Ray Henley, pacer owned by George H. Hagler, of Xenia, O., won the 2:07 class event in three straight heats at the Reading Fair yesterday, to establish what is believed to be a new world record for three heats paced over a half mile track.

The winner, with a mark of $2:01\frac{3}{4}$, was timed in 2:03, 2:05 and 2:04, an average of 2:04, and one second faster than his former mark made at Troy, N. Y., three weeks ago.

A Reading mare, the Bloomer Girl, 2:04, of William B. Eckert's string, was second, making the son of Peter Henley step to the new track record of 2:02 pacing in the first heat, breaking the former mark held by Roan Hal, $2:02\frac{3}{4}$.

W. & J. GRIDDER HURT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 15.—Al Demedowitz, probable starting fullback for Wash-Jeff, will be out of action for a few days, due to an injury to his leg received in practice yesterday. Demedovitz, however, may start in the opening game against West Virginia Wesleyan, October 1.

'DEAD BALL' RULE HAMPERS PITT'S FIRST STRINGERS

VARSITY SQUAD SHOWS FORM IN DRILLS

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 15.—The more one watches these college football squads in their scrimmage sessions, the more one comes to the conclusion that the dead ball rule, providing for the pigskin being blown dead when any portion of the runner's body, save his hands, touches the ground, is due for and needs modification.

In Pitt's torrid session here yesterday afternoon, with the first and second elevens lugging the ball against the third stringers, time after time, the Panther ball luggers, the fullbacks especially, went crashing off and inside the tackles, were bumped and stopped momentarily by the secondary defense, but could have gone on to possible touchdowns had it not been for the new rule. A knee, or an arm, would hit the sod, for just an instant, but the drive still would be there and even the forward motion.

TEAM SHAPES UP

The Panthers looked pretty fair yesterday, especially the first eleven, composed of Daily and Skladany, ends; Hoel and Cuba, tackles; Onder and Ormiston, guards; Tormey, center and Hogan, Reider, Heller and Weinstock in the backfield. Heller got away into the clear time after time, running behind neatly and efficiently forming into interference.

On the spinner and line bucks, Weinstock pulverized the third strong forward wall which stood up under a terrific half hour of pounding very well.

Coach Sutherland is keeping a watchful pair of peepers on Miller Mungas, Bellaire sophomore quarterback, who is running the third eleven. Mungas lacks on the weight to make him a prime contender for the varsity job, and no disrespect to either Hogan or Cutri, either. He is the equal of either of the veterans on the defense, but lacks the weight necessary to carry out the blocking duties attached to the Pitt quarterbacking job.

MUNGAS SHOWS CLASS

Mungas gave a fine display of defensive work yesterday, backing up the line with his 160 pounds and nailing the ball carrier time after time as he slipped past the first line of defense.

Pitt tried out its forward passing attack with only passing success. The ends failed to get down the field speedily enough to get under the heaves propelled by Messrs. Heller and Reider. The phase of the Pitt attack will come in for some special attention today.

The Tipoff

Among the visitors at Pitt's camp yesterday were J. L. (Jim) Marks, of Kiski; Jim, Jr.; Fats McMillan, former Princeton line coach, now assisting Turk McLaughry at Brown, and Randall Sophitt, guard in the 1916 Pitt eleven.

"How, Jim," queried Fats, "is your golf these days?"

"Well, I'll tell you how good it is, Fats," Jim replied. "Yesterday, young Billy and I, playing in a Scotch foursome, had a 75."

"Gosh," came back McMillan, "young Billy must have made some remarkable recoveries."

John Love, Pitt's big tackle, who was a second stringer last year, but has found it difficult to keep pace so far this season, was out of yesterday afternoon's workout. He suffered a bump on his coco in the morning and was rendered hors de combat for the day.

Hoel, the sensational sophomore youngster, who came along almost over night to grab off a varsity tackle job, looks better and better each day. He is fast as a flash for a big chap and a whiz on the defense. The best part of it all is that he can get out of the line and into the interference when Pitt has the ball, a necessary adjunct to successful line play for Dr. Sutherland.

The Panther squad was taken into Windber last evening to the movies, the annual theater party tendered the players during their stay here at camp. In the old days, the theater management used to look forward to the arrival of the Pittites with some trepidation, to say nothing of fear. Now, however, the affair is the convention of a Bible class.

Stephenson defaulted to Mrs. Masury.

ABIE ISRAEL WINS

SEATTLE, Sept. 15. — (AP.) — Abie Israel, Seattle bantamweight, scored a close decision over Rodolfo Taglia, Argentina, in the six-round main event here last night. There were no knockdowns. Israel weighed 124 pounds and Taglia two pounds less. Sammy Santos, stocky Seattle Filipino middleweight, won the decision over David Velasco, Mexico, in the six-round semi-final.

CASEY REGARDS YALE AS BEST IN EAST

By EDDIE CASEY
Member All-America Board of Football
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

By the end of this week practically all college football teams, whether large or small, will be under way with their preliminary practice. Every squad will start out with great enthusiasm and with the hopes of having a successful season. Some, of course, will be victorious week after week, and for others the coming season will have many disappointments.

Eddie Casey

Outstanding in the East, at the present time, is the prospects of the Yale team. They will miss the presence of Albie Booth, who, time after time, pulled a game out of the fire. Also will be missed the stellar end play of Barros, the line play of Linehan, and others. However, the men that are left will amply make up for these losses. In the backfield they have the fast Lassiter, the strong Crowley, and the versatile Parker at quarterback. They are equally strong along the line and have, in addition, an outstanding center in Malin. With plenty of reserves, it looks like a big year for the Elis.

The Army again will have a good team, but will miss that great backfield player, Ray Stecker, who, in my opinion, was the finest running back of 1931 and the most consistent. Army football teams are always in fine condition, and this is a most important factor in any football game. The West Point team has a particularly long season, and because of that fact and the caliber of its opponents I don't think they will go through 1932 undefeated.

HARVARD TO REBUILD

The Harvard team will have to build an entirely new backfield; gone are the four men who have played together for four years, Barry Wood, White, Schereschewsky and Mays, and their loss is almost tragic. However, Crickard, a fine football player, will be a great help in building the backfield anew. The Crimson line should be strong, and any team with a good frontier is hard to defeat. The passing and great generalship of Barry Wood will be hard to replace, but Harry Wells, a Chicago boy, looms as the probable successor of Woo, but he will have a most difficult role to fill.

Among the other New England teams that loom rather strongly this year are Dartmouth, Brown and Holy Cross. Dartmouth in late years has always been one of the outstanding teams of the country. They have a most able coaching staff led by Jack Cannell, who is one of the keenest football men in the game. Brown, under Tuss McLaughry, gets better and better every year. This team plays an exceptionally hard schedule, and most of its games are major ones.

PRINCETON HOPEFUL

Princeton, after a disastrous season in 1931, is starting out with new spirit and enthusiasm under Fritz Crisler in his first year as head coach there. That they will do well, I have no doubt, but it is seldom that a new coach develops a championship aggregation in his first year.

Every year some team or other from the state of Pennsylvania is always up in the running for the championship and this year will be no exception with Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Lehigh and Lafayette all enjoying fine prospects.

PAIRINGS SET FOR LOCAL NET PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Dr. John O'Loughlin and Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, ranked respectively first and second in the Western Pennsylvania men's singles racquet list, are seeded in the same order for the freshly arranged Stanton Heights invitation man-to-man tennis tourney, beginning early Saturday afternoon on the North Aiken lot and terminating the following day.

The crack Winged Head brethren comprise the entire select group of the Stantonian event, though numerous stars of various clubs are to be found scattered throughout the powerful draw of 16.

O'LOUGHLIN MEETS SULLIVAN

John O'Loughlin, with recent triumphs to his credit in the Westmoreland County, Western Maryland, and Morgantown Country Club tournaments, takes on the writer in the initial round, while brother Dave encounters Bill Spindler, clever Stanton veteran, in inaugural tussle. An exceptionally promising lid-lifting affair brings together Frank Smith, Edgewood leader, and Bob Lampus, Shannopin boss, who last Saturday grabbed off top honors of the Beaver County conclave.

LOCALS AT LEECHBURG

In addition to the Stanton Heights feature, Steel City players' jaunts to Leechburg and Butler loom on the week-end bill. Andy Smeaton, former Duquesne University captain, will lead a fourman team to Leechburg, there to battle Dr. Bischoff's accomplished local contingent. John Brown, Mt. Lebanon luminary, is caring for the Butler melee.

YALE GRIDDERS DRILL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Seventy Yale stalwarts reported to Coach Mal Stevens today for the season's initial football practice. Albie Booth, graduated from the players' ranks to the coaching staff, was unable to attend the first practice.

Gridders 'Dye' For Dear Old Fordyce

FORDYCE, Ark., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—There's not a player on the Fordyce High School football team who would not "dye" for dear old Fordyce.

Every player on the squad, even to the water boy, has dyed his hair a flaming red in a wave of school ardor to be distinctive and live up to the name of the athletic teams—the "Red Bugs."

Shady Side Trio Beats Vangs, 14-9

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 15.—The Shady Side polo club defeated the Vangs, 14 to 9, here last night in a benefit game staged by the American Legion for the unemployed.

Aaron	No. 1	Vang
D. McCahill, Jr.	No. 2	Marusan
B. McCreery	No. 3	Growden

Score by chukkers:

Shadyside	4	5	0	1	2 2—14

Individual scoring—B. McCreery 6, D. McCahill, Jr. 5, Aaron 3, Mazuzan 5, Growden 3, Vang 1. Referee—D. McCahill, Sr.

A. M. A. TO MEET

The Allegheny Mountain Association will hold its annual meeting in the William Penn Hotel next Monday night. The amateur officials will pass on records compiled in outdoor and indoor swimming meets.

PENN, LEOPARDS SHARE DRILLS

SAYLORSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Lafayette gridders and the University of Pennsylvania's football eleven will engage in two practice games next week, according to coaches of the two teams.

Coach Harvey Harman, of Penn, and Coach Herb McCracken, of the Leopards, have agreed to let their proteges clash in the preseason drills this year since the two teams do not meet on the gridiron. The exact date of the contests have not yet been set.

The perfect motor oil must excel in five qualities—ability to keep its body, winter fluidity, low carbon, low consumption, and long life.

The best Paraffinic oils rate well in three of these qualities. They are deficient in two. Naphthenic (Asphaltic) oils rate well in two of these qualities—are deficient in three.

There has been no commercial method—before hydrofining—which could combine the good qualities of these two types of oils.

Essolube, the hydrofined oil, combines these qualities for the first time. It keeps its body under tremendous engine heat and at extremely low temperatures. This means protection for your engine at all temperatures—less wear on your motor and fewer repair bills for worn-out parts—less wear on your battery. It has winter fluidity. This means it flows freely in cold weather and reduces wear on your motor during winter. It has next to no carbon—this means fewer repair bills for carbon cleaning jobs. It gives you low consumption. This means it lubricates longer, reduces bills for worn-out bearings, reduces oil bills. It has long life. This means it doesn't sludge—fewer oil changes, further savings on oil bills.

Essolube—the Esso of motor oils—is on sale at all dealers and stations of the following companies at no extra cost: Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, Standard Oil Company, Incorporated in Kentucky, Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc.

CUBS' SLUMP FAILS TO ALARM GRIMM

BRUINS RETAIN EDGE AS BUCS LOSE AGAIN

Associated Press.

As the Chicago Cubs continue to back in a little closer to the National League flag day by day, gradually winning the thing by default, so to speak, their manager is perfectly satisfied with their conduct and steadfastly refuses to view with alarm.

Charley Grimm wants it that way. Not that he wouldn't like to win every day. He's in there fighting on every pitched ball, but he isn't in any great hurry to sew up the pennant. He wants his team to remain keyed up as long as possible, doesn't want them to have an extended "let down" before they meet the Yankees in the world series. He said:

"I believe it's better for a club to keep on its toes right up to the series. Those Yanks now have nothing to do for a couple of weeks except play out their schedule, and it might be hard for them to get back that keen edge they had while they were winning the flag."

LOSE TO GIANTS

The little Bears lost to the New York Giants yesterday, 4 to 3, when Freddie Lindstrom hit a home run in the eleventh inning, but it didn't damage their status any to speak of, as the Pittsburgh Pirates were dropping another game to Boston, 5 to 2. The Cubs thus remained 5½ games in front with 11 games to play, making it possible for them to clinch the title with seven more wins. A triple play, started by Bill Urbanski, enlivened the Braves' victory over Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn climbed within 2½ games of second place by taking the St. Louis Cardinals again, 3 to 1, behind Van Mungo's steady curving. The Phillies subdued Cincinnati, 4 to 1, as Big Boy Hansen limited the Reds to four hits.

YANKS VETS REST

Some of the Yankee veterans took a well-earned rest, but the "Jayvees" were able to beat the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2. Walter Brown, making only his second start of the year for the champions, allowed but six hits until the ninth inning. Detroit whaled four Washington pitchers to win an 8-to-3 verdict.

Jimmy Dykes' home run with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth round set off an eight-run rally that saw the Athletics submerge St. Louis, 13 to 6. Mel Harder kept seven hits scattered in pitching Cleveland to a 9-to-0 win over the Red Sox.

CARNEGIE HIGH NEEDS LINE

By JULIUS LEVIN

If Dick Schumacher, coach at Carnegie High School, can develop a strong line from the 70 odd candidates out for this year's team, this school is going to be represented by one of its most powerful elevens this fall. The backfield should not give Schumacher much trouble this season as most of last year's veterans, augmented by some promising new material, are available for service.

Capt. Medwig, who starred for Carnegie last season, is back and will take care of the punting in his customary manner. Besides his punting ability, Medwig is a star on the offense and defense. This boy is going to bear watching in this year's scholastic race. Stys and Speller, only substitutes last season, are determined to win regular berths, judging from their showing in the early workouts. Both boys have made impressions on Coach Schumacher.

While the Carnegie schedule has not been completed, Coach Schumacher is figuring on arranging nine tough games for his eleven.

School Notes

Bethel Township High has made arrangements to play all of its home football games at South Park. Four home games are scheduled. They are with Fircairn, Bridgeville, South Fayette and Cecil.

Facing one of the toughest schedules ever arranged for a New Kensington High eleven, Coach Carl Glock is hard at work whipping the valley gridders into shape for the season's opener. Ken High will meet Indiana, Norwin, Wilkinsburg, McKeesport, Ha-Brack, Tarentum, New Castle, Butler and Clairton in the order named.

Robert Roch and Elmer Miller have been elected co-captains of the Bellevue High School eleven. Coach Zundel has been working with the squad for several weeks. He faces a tough job due to the fact that graduations have left big holes in his varsity lineup.

All arrangements have been completed for the opening battle of the season at New Castle tomorrow night. The lighting system has been placed in first-class condition for the inaugural between New Castle and Union Township.

Fred Hugus, who starred on the Charleroi basketball team last winter, will be back at end in the Cougar's lineup tomorrow night when Belle Vernon is met at Charleroi. Ray Spence, a newcomer, is expected to fill the other terminal position. Coach Stepperman will have two veteran halfbacks available for the opener, Chuck Mahovlich and Joe Veres holding down these positions.

Donora and California are going to bear watching in the Monongahela Valley race this season, judging from early reports. Coach Jimmy Russell has a veteran team at Donora.

Johnny Coleman, back from Northwestern University where he attended the coaching school, is busily engaged preparing his East Pittsburgh High eleven for its inaugural battle. East Pittsburgh expects to enjoy one of its best seasons.

Johnstone Breaks Own Course Mark

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 15.—Walter Johnstone, home professional, broke his own record of 68 over the Butler Country Club links yesterday, when he posted a sensational 66, six under par. His card showed six birdies for the round.

Johnstone was playing with F. C. Lamb, A. B. Young and J. G. McNeely, of the St. Clair Country Club, at the time. His card:

Par out	454	343	445—36
Par in	454	343	544—36—72
Johnstone out	444	243	535—34
Johnstone in	343	343	444—32—66

Cubs Sort Series Orders

NOT YET "IN," BUT CHICAGO CLUB PREPARES FOR TICKET RUSH

Although they still have our Pirates to contend with in a series in Chicago, the Cubs are proceeding on the theory that they are the likely winners of the National League pennant. Wide World News Photo Service picture shows clerks sorting mail requests for tickets for the world series games with the New York Yankees, who have clinched their pennant.

THE BABE

He's the Grand Slam of World Series—Here's His Life Story.

By EDWARD J. NEIL

Written for Associated Press

This is the fourth of 10 stories relating the prodigious World Series feats of the one and only Babe Ruth. Nearing the end of his career, the Babe this year will make his tenth and perhaps last appearance in the classic.

Gloom hung deep over baseball in 1920, and the game that had grown with the years from the time Abner Doubleday sketched out the first diamond fought both for life and honor.

Babe Ruth

The pall was the treachery of a half dozen stars of the White Sox, who sold their chances of winning the World Series of 1919 against the Cincinnati Reds to a syndicate of gamblers. The scandal rocked baseball, shattered confidence, sent fans home sneering suspiciously at every play.

And, to add to the troubles of the national game, Ray Chapman, brilliant young Cleveland shortstop, was hit in the head and fatally injured by a fast ball from Carl Mays' hand.

BABE TO THE RESCUE

Against this background of suspicion and tragedy there suddenly played the brilliance of a new slugging hero, Babe Ruth, with a new accomplishment, home-run hitting, to overpower the situation with his individual color and earnestness and singlehanded save the dangerous day for baseball.

There have been times since when it seemed that the Great Bambino, favored as no man before or since by the gods of sport, weakened under the tremendous obligations baseball put upon him in later days.

NO PLASTER SAINT

Rollicking playboy at heart, lifted almost overnight from the rigid discipline of a Baltimore orphan school to the freedom, glory and financial success of a national hero, the gusty, roaring, big-hearted Bam has failed at times to play out the full string, particularly in 1925, when his excesses brought him down a groaning invalid with the most famous "tummy" ache in sports history.

But in baseball's time of need, husky, vigorous young Ruth repaid for all time the great rewards it brought him, and paved the way for tolerance when later in his career he needed baseball's sympathy and understanding most.

UNDER WAY IN 1920

Hitting with power and savagery new to baseball, the Babe smashed all home run records in 1920, his first with the Yankees, by clouting 54. Fandom seized upon his mighty figure, lionized him, filled the ball parks to see him swing, and forgot entirely the doleful predictions that followed the Black Sox scandal.

Baseball hitched its chariot to a new star. The much discussed "rabbit" crept into the ball, and, in 1921, the Babe responded with 59 home runs, a feat that awed the populace and left all but sports writers speechless, as he carried forward a new era in hitting launched the most amazing of all World Series records.

Yoter to Supplant Schultz as Pilot

Elmer Yoter, of McKees Rocks, it is reported, will take over Joe Schultz's job as manager of the Houston club in the Western League next season. Schultz, of Beltzhoover, according to rumors, is to be released.

DUKES' LINEUP ANNOUNCED

Layden has placed Captain Paul Abele and Krankota at the end positions, Nicolai and Donohue at the tackles, Rado and Weinberg at the guards, and Ben Ciccone at the center job. Red Sullivan will bark the signals, and Al DeLuca and Ben Pawlina will hold down the halfback berths while Zaninelli is slated to appear at fullback.

Two new threats for regular positions on Carnegie's 1932 football team have appeared in Lewis Moscrip and Jerry Seigal. Moscrip played center for the Plebes last year, but was rated behind Red Jones and Henry Dreshar. The latter has been turned into a pivot man for this season. However, Moscrip's passing has been so consistent and his defensive work so alert recently, that right now he is considered on a par with the other two. He held down the position for the first team yesterday in signal practice, during which half a dozen new plays were given out by Coaches Steffen and Waddell.

Seigal has been consistently on either the first or second team recently, whether the program calls for scrimmage or signal drill. It is his third season on the squad, and he has worked his way up from the lowest classification until now he looms as a distinct threat to Heinzer, Burzio, Kebe and Anderson, all of whom seek the vacant right guard post.

With some 10 men nursing charley horses, or other minor injuries yesterday, scrimmage was dispensed with. Touch football was the closest the men came to actual combat. The heavy equipment has been ordered out for today, however, for both morning and afternoon drills.

SWEENEY AT QUARTER

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 15.—Ray Sweeney, Youngstown, (O.), sophomore, will start at quarterback for the Westminster College football team in the opening game against Duquesne at Pittsburgh tomorrow night, Coach John Lawther announced today.

Sweeney, a sophomore, was on the injured list for a time last week and it looked as if Robert Arrowsmith, freshman from Erie, would get the signal-calling position.

Hunneke, an end last season, has been definitely slated for a halfback post, and Siljander, Pittsburgh boy who played in the backfield last season, has been shifted to end.

Cleveland Refuses To Buy Toledo Club

TOLEDO, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—The Cleveland American League baseball club refused to exercise its option to purchase the Toledo American Association franchise for $60,000, the option price, but offered several counter proposals whereby it would continue to control at a meeting here yesterday.

Alva Bradley, president of the Indians, pointed out to the receiver of the club that the Indians had lost nearly the amount of the option price operating the club for the current season under terms agreed upon last winter when Cleveland bought in the Mudhens under option at a receiver's auction.

Ruth Will Join Yanks Next Week

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(INS.)—The frightful prospect of a world series without Babe Ruth was at end today. The big hitter of the Yankees has entirely recovered from a threatened attack of appendicitis and probably will join the Yankees at Philadelphia next week.

It was said there was no doubt he would play in the world series.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

DETROIT, Sept. 15. — Folks often wonder how an old-timer like Uncle Nick trains for writing up a big world series. I then practice spelling difficult cities like Cincinnati and Philadelphia in case they are liable to figure in the world series. This year, of course, I got it pretty soft as I can spell all the possibilities like this: Chi, Pbg, Bklyn and N. Y.

Nick Altrock

I next turn attention to my typewriter and get it some fusel oil. Of course to get the best fusel oil you have to buy a quart or two of rye and draw the fusel off. Well, after I have fixed up my typewriter I proceed to lubricate myself and by the end of the second quart I feel that I could even expert a World War.

That's my system and I hope to stick to it.

Oakdale Coach First Football Casualty

John Dean, coach of the Oakdale High School football team, is the first casualty of the season. Dean, while scrimmaging with his team yesterday was kicked in the kidney and will be out of action for three weeks. He is confined in his home.

By HARRY KECK

Pittsburgh and McKeesport vie for fistic patronage tonight and the first conflict occurs between the outdoor and indoor seasons.

Greenlee Field presents its last show of the outdoor campaign, a bill of six bouts of six rounds each being offered. The indoor season gets under way in McKeesport, with a lineup of a 10-round main event and a six-round semi-final and three four-rounders.

Between Rounds

Friday night, September 30, has been definitely set as the date of the opening show of Eddie Kaphan's Arena on the North Side. Either Ted Yarosz or Battling Gizzy will meet a leading opponent in the main bout of the inaugural, it was revealed at a dinner given by Kaphan and Charley Nowe at the P. A. A. last night. Matchmaker Lew Raymond, Supervisor Bill Dummer and others spoke on their plans for the season. They hope to make the Arena one of the best fight clubs in the city's history.

William J. Tracey has been named chairman of the boxing show to be held under the auspices of the Teller Association of the Tri-Boroughs, Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin, in the Meyers Rowe next Wednesday night. William J. Caughey is secretary and Thomas C. Quinn, treasurer. Burgess James H. Rose, of Braddock; Burgess Thomas Tierney, of Rankin; Burgess G. Venton Mitchell, of North Braddock, and James K. Kates and C. W. Harding are vice chairman. John L. Hernon is the promoter.

Joey Severino and Elmer Wilson will box the windup of an amateur boxing show in the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. arena on the North Side tomorrow night.

The card for Hickey Park next Monday night was completed today with the signing of Young Rudy and Tom Maleo for the fourth eight-round bout. This will be the closing show of the season in the Millvale arena. In other bouts, Davy Grove boxes Jarquette Elverillo, Anson Green meets Larry Madge and Don Asto opposes Louis Disantis.

District Horses Win At Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—Three harness races and two running events are carded for the second day's program of the Waynesburg County Fair today.

Yesterday, two Pittsburgh district horses won both events in the harness trots. Billy I, owned by Frank Gourley, of North Appolo, won the 3-year-old prize and Easter Dean, of Montour Farms, annexed the ribbon in the trotting stakes.

Close Finishes Mark Mercer Fair Races

SOCCER LEAGUE CONVENES

An effort will be made this evening to whip into shape three sections of the Panhandle Soccer League, when that circuit convenes at the Bridgeville Owls Club at 8 p. m.

The league officials claim that 22 clubs want berths in the circuit, and that three sections will be formed at this gathering.

Tomorrow evening, the fans will be able to tell just how the Keystone League will operate this season. The big league gets together at the same club, and it is quite possible that Heidelberg will be back in the senior group when the roster is closed.

The Allegheny Valley Soccer League will inaugurate the season Sunday, when Harwick plays Springdale, Kinneth meets Tarentum and the Valley Athletics engage Curtisville. All games will start at 3:30 p. m.

Max Begins Final Week of Training

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Sept. 15.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling today entered his final week of training for his bout against Mickey Walker in New York on September 23. He will box today and rest tomorrow. He will resume boxing Saturday and Sunday, and after a day's rest will do his final boxing work on Tuesday and Wednesday. He will end his sparring sessions on Wednesday.

Royal York Course Gets Canadian Open

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—The Canadian open golf championship will be played over the Royal York Hotel course next year, according to B. L. Anderson, secretary of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, yesterday.

Confirmation of the report was made to A. Perkins, head of the Royal York Golf Club.

COHEN BEATS MACK

PETERSVILLE LOSES

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 15.—The Parkers went into the lead for the Butler County baseball championship yesterday, defeated the Petersville nine, 1 to 0. Souchock, pitching for the Parkers, yielded but one scratch hit.

TRADE MIRRORS LOWER BUYING POWER

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The outcome of the Maine election brings the Wall street conjecture about an election scare a little earlier on the calendar than some market operators had anticipated.

Since in the last analysis security prices are influenced by corporate earnings and not by sentiment, there is no clear reason why the stock market should be other than non-partisan. Certainly the statistics gathered some years ago by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, of the Cleveland Trust Company, purported to show that neither of the two major parties had any monopoly historically on prosperity or depression.

Mr. Rukeyser

The economic trouble at present springs from an inadequate gross volume of business. This, of course, reflects the diminished purchasing power of the public.

Though differing as to methods, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is certainly as anxious as President Hoover to see economic recovery. Furthermore, in being receptive to newer ideas for use of governmental regulatory power to help give the farmer a living wage, and in urging absorption of part of the idel in reforestation and in other forms of public works, Gov. Roosevelt stands for policies that are intended to expand the gross volume of business.

And yet the stock-minded person is inclined to fear that Gov. Roosevelt might be hostile to public utilities. Though in favor of safeguarding public rights to water power, the Governor will not injure the prosperity of legitimate utility operations. Top-heavy, overcapitalized structures, like the mid west situation, toppled over during the Hoover administration, reminding the non-political observers that politics is at best a minor factor in the ebbing and flowing of business affluence.

Mr. Roosevelt, of course, has had business experience and wide business contacts. While he was in charge of new business, the Fidelity Company with which he was associated doubled its volume of business.

Four years ago, political propagandists sought to stamp the Republican party as the party of prosperity. Events of the last three years have shown that it is also at times the party of adversity. The same record is shared by its chief competitor.

A bullish financier, the head of a great insurance company, said that it is significant that the stock market has been able to respond to political stimulus. He pointed out:

"Some people claim that the improved conditions now existing are due to political manipulation. All the political manipulation that can be imagined would totally fail if the national credit basis was still similar to what it was in January and February, last."

BUSINESS

Finance Is Recovering But Trade Lags, Ayres Says

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

RECOVERY FROM THE financial panic is well under way, but recovery from the business depression has made little progress.

This declaration was made today by Col. Leonard P. Ayers, vice pesident of the Cleveland Trust Company, in his monthly business bulletin.

Col. Ayes draws a definite distinction between recovery for finance and for business in general. He says:

"The two things are very different. The depression is a long period of subnormal business activity. This one was ushered in by a stock market panic in the autumn of 1929, but in 1930 while the depression was becoming serious both stock and bond prices recovered to the prosperity levels of early 1929. The financial panic began late in 1931 after England left the gold basis for her currency. It developed into wide-spread fear concerning the safety of banks, the integrity of the dollar, and even the validity of financial commitments in general.

"The recovery that is now under way is the recovery from the financial panic. It had to come before recovery from the business depression could be a possibility."

Business Activity Has Not Followed Stocks

COL. AYRES declares that business activity has not followed the speculative markets. There has been a sharp advance in the price of cotton but commodity prices in general have advanced only about 2 per cent.

Industrial production declined from July to August. Building construction is running at barely 20 per cent of normal, and the August figures were less than 1 per cent above those of July after allowing for seasonal changes. Activity in the basic iron and steel industry declined by about 5 per cent. Production of electric power fell nearly 3 per cent. Automobile output dropped nearly 40 per cent, but will be better in September. Railroad freight remained almost unchanged at about 50 per cent of normal. There was real improvement in the textile industries, in shoe manufacturing, and in coal production.

If the recent advances in security prices prove to have forecasted durable improvement in business activity, they will have been conforming to the precedents recorded in a long series of earlier depressions according to statistics compiled by Col. Ayres. He points out that an average of 13 previous depression periods shows that stock and bond prices usually turned upward two months before the business recoveries got under way.

STOCK MARKET FLUCTUATES NERVOUSLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The stock market again attempted to regain its balance today, and managed to recover moderately, although prices fluctuated rather nervously.

The severe jolt late in yesterday's session appeared to have taken the market by surprise, and many traders were obviously anxious to await further testing of the recent support levels before re-entering the market. The market sold off moderately in the first hour, recovered to show advances of 1 to 4 points in the second and third hours, but slid back somewhat in the fourth hour.

While signs of autumn improvement in business continued to appear in corporate and trade news, the fact that the best levels of autumn business should be reached within the next month or two has resulted in an inclination to wait and see how far the betterment goes. Freight car loadings for the week ended last Saturday, to be reported at the end of this week, on the basis of individual reports now available, will reflect the Labor Day holiday with a substantial reduction from the previous week, but may make fully as good a comparison with last year. New York Central loadings in the week ended September 10 were off 27.6 per cent from last year, which was a little better comparison than the reduction of 28.4 per cent from 1931 shown in the week ended September 3. Sears, Roebuck reported sales for the four-week period ended September 10 at a dollar volume 21.6 per cent under last year, while for the period of January 2 to September 10 the recession from 1931 was 21.9 per cent.

Some brokers mentioned the return of the soldier bonus controversy to the headlines as a factor making for fresh uncertainty. Also, the position of the Von Papen government in Germany has taken attention back to the situation in Central Europe. Drastic measures being taken by the German government to restore prosperity are being watched closely by the international banking quarters. A very slight improvement in the Reich's balance of trade was reported for August, but it resulted entirely from the curtailment of imports. August imports of 332,000,000 marks were 96,000,000 less than exports, while in July, imports of 366,000,000 marks were 66,000,000 under the exports of that month.

RUSSIAN IRON OUTPUT LAGS

MOSCOW, Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Difficulties experienced in pig iron and steel production in Soviet Russia are deplored by the newspaper Pravda, which declared today that unsatisfactory work in metallurgy was preventing other industries from carrying out their programs.

In an editorial entitled "Remove this spot of shame," the Communist party organ blamed "carelessness and weak discipline of workers" for the condition. It said despite opening of nine new blast furnaces so far this year and the beginning of operations in new large plants, the output of pig iron not only failed to show an expected increase, but actually declined.

The newspaper cited the eastern steel trust, which it said has not produced more than 70 per cent of its quota of rolled steel under the five-year plan in any month of this year. Conditions were almost as bad in the Ural Mountain region, the newspaper added.

It said a high labor turnover has been brought on by the constant movement of workers in large numbers, seeking better food supplies, improved living conditions and higher wages.

Rubber Consumption Reduced in August

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Consumption of crude rubber by manufacturers in the United States for August amounted to 22,372 long tons, compared with 28,272 in July, according to the Rubber Manufacturers' Association.

Domestic stocks of crude rubber on hand August 31, were estimated at 357,342 long tons, compared with 345,927 on July, 1931.

Bradford-Allegany Oil Production Cut

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 15.—Production in the Bradford oil district for week ending September 10 was 25,907 barrels daily, compared with 27,279 previous week and with August's daily average of 27,279. Allegany district production also declined, 6,863 barrels produced daily, against 7,118 for previous week and 7,419 daily average for August. Reduced production indicates effect of the 75 per cent ratable call now current in the two fields on lines of Bradford Transit Company and also requests of Kendell, United and Sinclair interests that producers restrict output.

Gulf Coast Crude Allowable Reduced

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—The Texas Railroad Commission has issued an order limiting oil production from each well in the Gulf Coast area to 240 barrels per day.

The commission earlier today had ordered a reduction of 10 per cent in production from wells in pools of the Gulf Coast district that were producing more than 3,000 barrels daily.

Many Sections Send Records Of Real Gains

By B. C. FORBES

BUSINESS—NOT merely sentiment, but actual business—is noticeably better in many parts of the country. This news comes direct from widely separated chambers of commerce.

B. C. Forbes

WE WERE long told that cotton could not be produced at a reasonable profit under 10 cents a pound, certainly not under 8 cents. M. H. Thompson, who conducts research for the Little Rock (Ark.) Chamber of Commerce, sends this extremely encouraging information:

"The 1932 crop has been produced at the lowest possible cost. In fact, most of the farmers would make expenses at 4 cents per pound.

"So, with cotton quoted very much higher, there is real reason for optimism. There has been improvement in business volume. Wholesale establishments especially have seen a definite pickup in sales."

We did see 5-cent cotton some little time ago, but later that quotation was doubled. The price is almost double the production cost here given.

THE FORT WORTH Chamber of Commerce (through Rossoe Ady) records:

"Business in Fort Worth has been picking up more rapidly than it did a year ago. Since there are located in Fort Worth more than 700 oil companies, individual operators, oil field supply dealers and other concerns directly connected with the oil industry, and since the oil industry has been among the foremost in rehabilitating itself, Fort worth has naturally felt the beneficial results.

"Rapidly-increasing prices of cotton, wheat, livestock and other agricultural commodities have also had their effect, as Fort Worth is the largest livestock market and the largest grain market in the entire South.

"We have located 24 new industries here this year, more than during the same period in 1931 or 1930."

SHREVEPORT, LA., reports:

"Business prospects for Shreveport and its tristate area have taken a sudden upward turn, registering the best gains recorded in a number of years."

ROLAND A. LAIRD, Houston Chamber of Commerce, reports:

"Wholesale and retail sales industrial activity in this vicinity has picked up considerably more in recent weeks than for several years past. The reasons include the increased buying power resulting from the better prices for cotton, for cottonseed meal and cake, cotton oil, as well as rice and rice products and coffee."

"The pickup in business volume has been very noticeable."

E. J. Novak, manager of Fort Smith (Ark.) Chamber of Commerce:

"There is a decided upward trend in our city. Our furniture factories are operating at full schedule and the general business situation is satisfactory."

Secretary Claude Simpson, of the Roswell (N. M.) Chamber of Commerce, after recording betterment in business, declares:

JUMPING TO SPOKANE, Wash., J. A. Ford, managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, states that the seasonal decline "has not been as great, by a good deal, as is customary and as it was last year." He reports such maximum price increases as these:

Peas	100%	Cattle	25%
Beans	50%	Butter	20%
Wool	50%	Eggs	50%
Lambs	25%	Lead	30%
Hogs	35%

MANY OTHER communications received are in similar optimistic key.

WHATEVER THE immediate future may or may not have in store, it is clear as crystal that conditions have enjoyed appreciable improvement in many parts of the continent.

McClintic-Marshall Keeps Bridge Order

Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District at San Francisco have voted to reinstate the contract for steel ordered from the McClintic-Marshall Construction Company, but to defer delivery for a period of six months. The contract, which amounts to $10,494,000, was awarded a year ago, but has been held up because of difficulties in financing. Other former contracts are in process of reconsideration because of changed labor and material costs.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXII.

Val hadn't intended to wear her ring. Since their engagement was a secret, it might be better not to wear it. But when you have a ring, it's funny not to wear it . . . ungracious.

She put it on, decided to wear it for a little while, at home. Take it off tomorrow, when she went to the office. It would be nice to sleep with Joe's ring on her finger, and her hand tucked under her cheek.

In the morning she couldn't bear to take it off. She wore it under her glove and in the office it seemed a shame to leave it in her purse.

But of course it was too good to keep.

"Valentine Macfarlane's engaged . . . to a fellow she used to know, ages ago, and he's given her the loveliest ring. Ask her to show it to you!"

It was just chance that Janice Fletcher's husband, who worked for Mrs. Clarkson's husband, who had a garage, happened to say that Miss Macfarlane, who lived next door to the Clarksons, was engaged, he heard. Mr. Clarkson, like any good husband, brought home the latest neighborhood gossip.

Mrs. Clarkson was surprised. Valentine never seemed to have any beaux, went everywhere with her aunt. Unless it was somebody she met that time she was down south visiting her mother.

SEES JOE'S MOTHER

Mrs. Clarkson didn't wait to clear the breakfast dishes, she smoothed her rumpled housedress, drew a comb through her hair, and went over to call on Miss Macfarlane. Miss Macfarlane, doing a little washing in the basement, tiptoed around to the side gate and waited until her early caller had given up ringing and gone down the steps.

"Humph—Mrs. Clarkson!"

Mrs. Clarkson, balked of her original intention, was returning home when she saw Mrs. Carey's blonde head in the front window.

"Yoo, hoo, ain't it hot?" called Mrs. Carey.

"Goin' to be a scorcher," said Mrs. Clarkson.

"I thought I'd do up the work and take the kids over to the beach. I don't swim myself, but it's wonderful how they take to it. I thought I'd put on my pajamas and kinda take a sunbath myself. Why don't you come, too?"

Mrs. Clarkson lumbered across the street, stood in the shade of the Carey's palm tree. "No, I'm goin' to meet my sister-in-law and we're goin' to a bridge-tea at the Hotel Oakland," she said. "Her lodge is having it. Say, have you heard about Valentine Macfarlane?"

MRS. CAREY SURPRISED

Mrs. Carey's eyes flashed. "What do you mean? I haven't heard anything. Is she going back to her mother?"

"No; she's engaged. Engaged to be married. What are you looking funny at, Mrs. Carey? She's a young, pretty girl—"

"Yes. But I haven't seen no signs of her gettin' engaged. I don't see no boys beating down the door over there. Just her and her old aunt, goin' to the movies, the same as usual. I don't believe it myself. Where did you hear it?"

"Oh, it's true. Herman told me. His helper, Ted Fletcher, told him. His sister works in Val's office. He says his sister says she has a beautiful ring."

"Probably her mother gave it to her. I hear she's married to some oil magnate, or a movin' picture director, in Hollywood. That's just like Val! She'd say it was an engagement ring. She's been itchin' to get married ever since Betty did.

"She always was a liar, that kid. When they was all little I hated to have mine play with her, that's a fact . . . George, you quit teasing your little sister! Do you hear me? Those young ones! I'm gettin' so I hate Saturdays, havin' 'em all home.

"Vivian, we'll go to the beach when mamma gets ready, and not a minute before. Now you run along, mamma wants to talk to Mrs. Clarkson! That child . . . What was I saying? Oh, all right! Take a nickel, but don't get more than one ice cream cone, do you hear, dear? Just one! Only a nickel!"

CALLS ON AUNT JULIA

"So you don't think there's anything in it?"

"No, not a thing. Absolutely nothing!"

Mrs. Clarkson went home disappointed.

As she was leaving to go to her bridge tea she met the three youngest Careys and one of the Vascoe boys on their way to Alameda to the beach.

"Why, where's your mother?" she asked.

"Mama, she has a sick headache," Vivian said.

About 2 o'clock Mrs. Carey, red-eyed and disheveled, came around to Julia Macfarlane's back door. Val wasn't home yet, and Miss Macfarlane was ironing in the kitchen.

"For goodness sakes, is anything wrong?"

Mrs. Carey came in, sank into Miss Macfarlane's rocking chair, fanning herself weakly with a newspaper she picked up from the table.

"Yes, something's wrong. One of my sick headaches. Miss Macfarlane, I heard some gossip this morning that just spoiled my whole day. Here I promised to take the kiddies to the beach and I had to disappoint them, which I never do. I always keep a promise to a child, even if it's no more than to give them a licking. That's me, Miss Macfarlane, and if you had seven like I had you'd have found out it's the only way——"

Miss Macfarlane folded her arms. "You know I'm not interested in any gossip they have around here. I'd just as soon not hear it."

"The good Lord knows I'm no gossip. Never a word from me. Others talk, but not me, Miss Macfarlane. But when your Valentine goes around boasting that she's engaged, and everybody knows that nobody but my Joe ever looked at her, why, a mother's heart is hurt, that's all."

VAL DEFENDED

"Valentine doesn't boast. If she wanted to boast, I guess she wouldn't pick on a poor boy like Joe to boast about, not when she's just been down to Santa Barbara, treated like a princess by all her mother's rich friends."

Mrs. Carey swallowed.

"Now Mrs. Carey, I didn't say any such thing, and I'm not going to say anything about it."

"All right, it's just like I said. She ain't engaged."

"She is!"

"But she ain't engaged to my boy and I'm not going to have no gossip that she is. Not when my heart is breaking, and after all I done for him, and the way that girl has been raised in idleness—no fit wife for anybody but a millionaire, and you can't tell me any millionaire is wanting to marry a girl like your Val, raised on Cornish street."

"Any millionaire would be proud to have her."

"They can have her, for all of me. I'm just going to say that Val can stop shooting off her mouth about being engaged to my Joe—"

"I'm not fishing. I know my boy. He said to me, he said, 'Mama, don't worry. I wouldn't marry that girl if she was the last one and the pattern was lost,' he said, and he said, 'I know too much about what a good girl can be, being your son, ma,' he said, and he said——"

Miss Macfarlane put down the iron.

"He never said any such thing, and don't you go try to tell my girl that he did. You keep your talk out of here. If Val and he want each other and I can stand it, I guess you can. Now you stop glaring at me and make the best of it, because that's that, and you may as well know it. Your Joe sent my Valentine a beautiful engagement ring, and if you don't like it you can lump it. I don't like it any better than you do, and if I can stand it ——"

Mrs. Carey's large, loose mouth dropped open. For a moment she stared in speechless amazement.

Then, her pop-eyes starting out of her head, she stood up and with both fat hands wrecked her already disheveled hair.

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a man-hating maiden aunt, Julia. Millie roams the world, returns to America, but Julia clings to the child. Valentine becomes engaged to Joe Carey. Joe leaves to take an architect's position in Minneapolis. Aunt Julia is opposed to the match and sends Val to Santa Barbara to visit her mother. Val is both shocked and intrigued by life in the "gay set." She returns to her aunt and her stenographic job. Joe sends her a diamond engagement ring as a birthday present.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Makes Amends for Impulsive Outburst

There were several things in Dicky's outrageous little speech that rasped me almost to the snapping point. His references to Hush Grantland as "Sydney Carton," and to Philip Veritzen as a "royal satyr," while palpably intended to be humorous, were nevertheless hard to accept without umbrage.

"I can tell you without any delay what he is 'hatching,' I said. "The last time he was here, he asked me to do something socially for the Arlens, and I explained to him how impossible it was for me to entertain while our house sheltered the wounded Chinese and was guarded against his vengeful countrymen. I put him off by telling him that as soon as the menace was lifted, I should be glad indeed to have them."

"Sapphira! Sapphira!" Dicky drew his face down dolorously.

"But I suppose there's no honorable way out. If our private hospital moves over to The Larches, you'll have to sling some kind of a party."

"I suppose so." I said tonelessly. "What kind do you think would be best?"

"What verve! What enthusiasm!" Dicky clasped his hands theatrically. "If you just keep that spirit you'll have the ball committee of the Beaux Arts sending for you."

"I know I'm ungenerous," I said contritely, "but — I can't help it — those women are just—"

"Poison to you," Dicky finished.

SUGGESTS BEACH PARTY

"But you'll have to go through with it, for I imagine old Phil has a yen on for that particular stunt, and the Lord knows you've put it over him enough with your ultimatums on what you would not do.

"I revel in your spunk, darling, and if you'd done anything else I'd have crowned you; but enough is sufficient, and there's no use in getting the old satyr in a bad humor just before you begin work with him on the production of your play."

"I wish you wouldn't call him that," I said pettishly. "I hate that word."

"All right," my husband returned cheerfully. "Always ready to oblige. I shall always refer to him as the 'old goat' hereafter. And now I'll endeavor to answer your question as to the style of party we shall sling. Don't you think a beach picnic with dancing on the sand in the moonlight in bathing suits after swims would be the cat's and kitten's?"

"For all the young people here, yes." I returned, "and if I were sure Mr. Veritzen wouldn't be offended, I'd like nothing better than to give one."

"I don't need three guesses to tell you why you'd especially like to pull a stunt like that," he said provocatively.

"Well, Mistah Bones, why?" I returned, flushing a bit guiltily.

"Because you have surmised, with me, that Avis Arlen in a bathing suit resembles nothing so much as a gaunt and bony horse, and that on the night of the party you'd find that your guest of honor had some sudden attack of pneumonia or appendicitis that would keep her away. And in some way she'd manage to lay the blame on you, where of course it would belong. Nay, nay, old dear. 'Tis a pleasant thought but we mustn't dally with it."

JEALOUS DESIRE

"Then I suppose a dinner dance is the only thing," I said.

"The safest anyway," Dicky agreed. "But don't burst your brain cells worrying about it. The patients haven't departed yet, and I'll put my massive brain to work in the meantime. Of course, you'll want it before the Brixton contingent returns to its native heath. Do you suppose that between the party and your going back to the city you and I could run away for a few days again?"

His tone was wistful, and though I knew that behind his request was the jealous desire to keep me away from Hugh Grantland's vicinity, I thrilled, to the prospect of a repetition of the wonderful three days' outing which Dicky and I had enjoyed, while his surprise of the studio bungalow was being prepared for me.

I hope we can," I said fervently.

"This means we will," he said as earnestly, bending down and kissing me. "And now I must beat it up to Dad's room, and leave you to plan your various activities for the next month. I don't envy you, darling. You'll be doubling for the one-armed paperhanger, and I don't mean maybe."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Saturday the meeting of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club held at the Belmar Theater, was under the direction of Henry La Pertche.

Grand Jester La Pertche introduced the orchestra which entertained with an overture composed of several popular tunes. A good round of applause was given the orchestra, ably directed by Leonard La Pertche, upon completion of this selection.

Grand Jester La Pertche then introduced the entertainers. First on the program was Alice Dunaven, who in an acrobatic dance gave a very neat performance. The accompaniment played by the orchestra, gave a professional air to the act.

CLUB SINGS CHORUS

Betty Gray sang a song entitled "We're Going Together Once More"—the club joined in on the second chorus.

Virginia May Davis then entertained with a verse and chorus of the song entitled "I Thank You, Mr. Moon," after which she did an acrobatic dance.

Mary Alice Hallgren sang "My Moon." The members gave Mary a big hand. Pauline Cercone did an acrobatic dance. The members applauded every difficult part of the dance, which Pauline so ably performed. Eleanor Tropf sang "Wabash Moon" and received a lot of applause for her rendition.

POPULAR DANCER

Grand Jester Henry La Pertche then introduced little Esther Moreland. Esther was one of the participants of the Schenley Theater's "Oakland on Parade" and received high praise for her work. She did an acrobatic tap dance with perfect rythm and timing. The loud and continuous applause at the end of her number brought her back for an encore.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

When you begin to lag you are not interested.

If the time goes slowly when you work and you cannot get up energy and enthusiasm, you are slipping.

Convinced of this, why not prod yourself a bit?

Push yourself hard, get up a little pep and ginger, if necessary get completely out of patience with yourself and dig in.

When you get some such purpose stirred up your movements become faster and the time slips away rapidly.

The days begin to pass quickly, your spirits will rise in spite of your anger at your past stupid indifference.

Interest brings concentration and greater and better accomplishment results.

But when every day is thought of as just so many hours of hard labor no wonder life becomes stale and the time drags.

The happiest people around you are the hustlers.

They shove things along, cheerfully, in well directed effort.

And these are the most appreciated employes—the hustlers who make themselves like whatever they have to do and you can do it, too.

GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR

"Everybody knows that if you build a better mouse trap than your neighbor, the world will beat a path to your door, even though you live in a snooty subdivision."

This message, so neatly put by Emerson, is just as true today as it was yesterday.

That's why we advise our readers to see us at the first opportunity about a little stock proposition we have up our sleeve.

We know a gent whose uncle has perfected a free wheeling umbrella that will practically revolutionize umbrella carrying. It is so designed that you do not need to walk in the rain with a shoe lace dragging. By an ingenious arrangement, both hands are left absolutely free for shoe lace tieing, wig wag signaling, card tricks, xylophone playing and Swedish massage.

Congress Can Promote Better Times by Revising System of Taxation

One of the stumbling blocks to business recovery in this country is our unscientific, discriminatory tax law, which falls with especial burden on productive job creating industry.

Listening to the demagogues, Congress in the last session unwittingly penalized the poor, especially the unemployed, through a mistaken effort to soak the rich.

The new internal revenue law has already proved highly disappointing as a revenue producer and has tended to deepen the depression through discouraging initiative and enterprise.

Instead of adopting a comparatively painless general manufacturers' sales tax spread thin, Congress levied special discriminatory sales taxes spread thick.

Writing in the forthcoming issue of "The Nation's Business" and protesting against the tendency to over-tax the oil industry, J. Howard Pew, president, the Sun Oil Company, said some true words about the tax chaos at Washington, namely:

"A general manufacturer's sales tax was manifestly the easiest way to balance the federal budget. It would have spread the burden over the widest possible array of businesses, shared it among the whole people in proportion to their spending. It would have been easy to collect, and, thus spread out so widely and so thin, it would not have borne grievously on any particular business. The consuming public, who at last pay all taxes, would hardly have realized it at all.

"But the demagogues branded it as a tax on the poor man; the politicians took fright; the great trade organizations—chambers of commerce, boards of trade, commercial clubs, and all the rest—among which honest sentiment overwhelmingly favored the sales tax, lost their nerve; selfish interests preferred heavy taxes for somebody else in order that they might escape entirely; and this mobilization of selfishness, cowardice, demagoguery and cheap politics was powerful enough to get its way."

In formulating the new tax law, Congress yielded to the emotionalism of the know nothing school and rejected the Garner sales tax plan; but such legislation in no way altered the mathematics behind taxation.

It will be the privilege of Congress at its next sitting in December to undo the harm which it has already done.

The logic of events points to the inevitability of broadening the tax base.

The general manufacturers' sales tax will produce huge revenues in good times and bad times and produce those revenues painlessly and with relative harmlessness to business.

The Blunder at Nadine

The County Commissioners Are Well Advised in Trying Another Plan to Overcome It.

The County Commissioners have done well in striving once more to overcome the blunder that was made in the construction of the Allegheny River Boulevard when arrangements were made to run it through land occupied by the plant of the Pennsylvania Water Company at Nadine without getting the company's permission.

In view of the price demanded by the water company, a price held by the Commissioners to be extortionate, it was proposed a few weeks ago to leave the river at this point and run the boulevard up the hills above Nadine.

This, as somebody remarked, would have been to "perpetuate the blunder." The boulevard would have been sadly marred with the steep grades and curves that would have been involved, and the Sun-Telegraph suggested that before the plan was adopted legal proceedings be instituted with a view to seeing if the strip of land required to carry out the original project could not be obtained by condemnation.

It is gratifying to find the Commissioners following the suggestion in the appointment of Commissioner C. C. McGovern as a committee to solicit the aid of the Public Service Commission.

The Strike at Monaca

The Parents of the Unruly Pupils Should Take Them in Hand.

Here the new school year is only about two weeks old, and already we have a pupils' strike—at Monaca, where a large part of the high school student body has absented itself from classes in protest against the suspension of football players, disciplined for hazing.

There have been many school children's strikes in Pittsburgh and the vicinity in recent years. When the parents of the present pupils went to school there were no such strikes.

The change in the children's manner of dealing with grievances has not been for the better. No good is accomplished by the strikes, and the parents of the unruly pupils should take them in hand.

Pennsylvania's Homes

The Number of Families Owning Property Is a Guarantee Against Communism.

The Census Bureau announced today some interesting facts about the homes and families of Pennsylvania.

It reported that 1,198,420, or 53.6 per cent of the 2,235,620 private families in the state, owned their homes in 1930. The percentage in 1920 was 44.4.

The median value of the homes in the state, except farm homes, was $5,206.

With more than half of the families owning homes with an average value in excess of $5,000 each, Communism stands no chance of gaining a foothold.

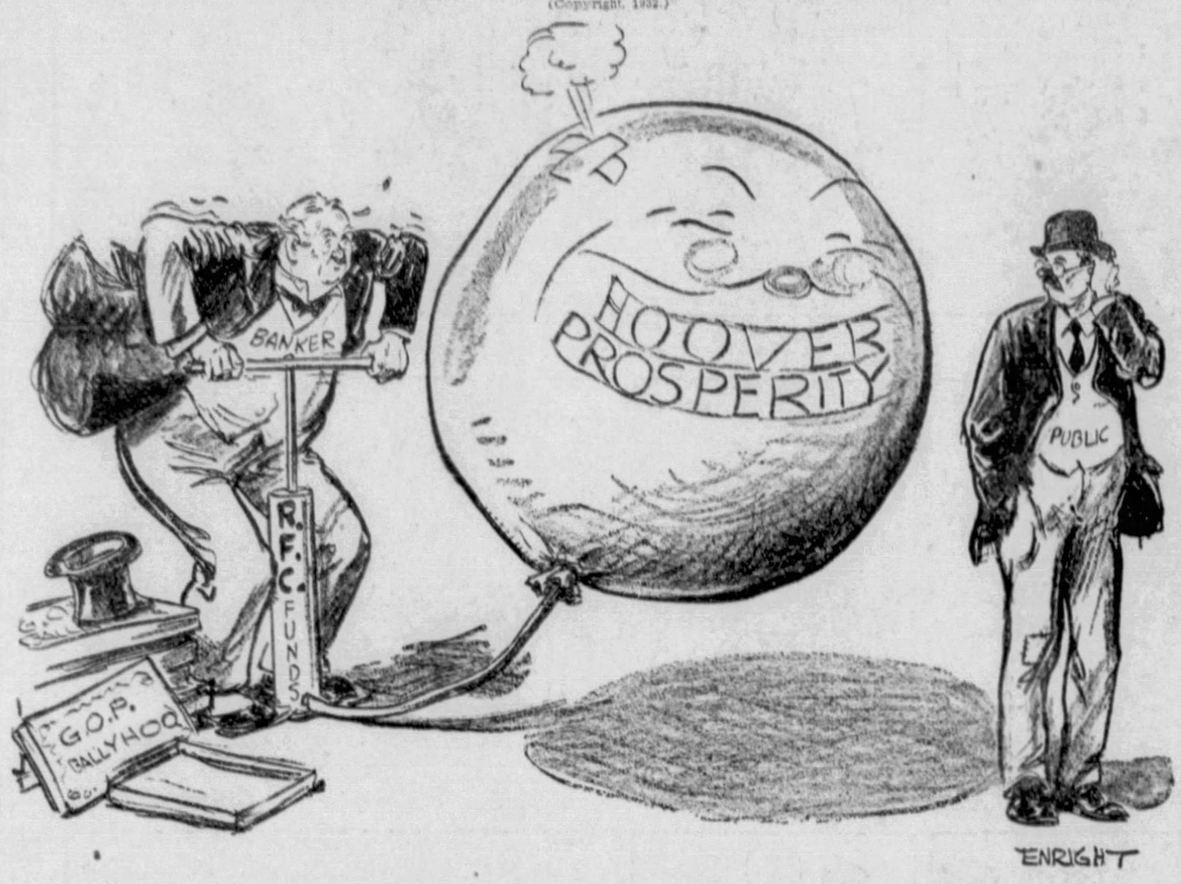
SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall seating at least 15,000.
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.
10—Fair public utility rates.

Blowing Up the Old Balloon

(Copyright, 1932.)



In a signed editorial appearing in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers on September 12 William Randolph Hearst said in part:

"What has become of the billions supplied by the Government through the Federal Reconstruction Corporation to the various banks? Why are not those billions being used to better effect in helping industry and stimulating business activity?

"The truth is the banks are not using this money for the extension of industry and the increase of employment.

"They are using it to buy securities and to BALLOON THE MARKET.

"Naturally, the big bankers are grateful to an Administration which supplies them with money with which to speculate so securely and so profitably.

GENUINE AMERICANISM CAN RESTORE PROSPERITY!

Ogden Mills: Voice of The Plutocracy

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era," and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Ogden Mills, who never personally or politically has given a thought to him, has finally discovered the "forgotten man"—and that is big news! He has never thought of him at any stage during the most devastating panic in our history, when the ranks of the jobless were swelling to the enormous figure of 11,000,000. He had no thought of him when he blackjacked the Republican Convention into the acceptance of the Hoover platform, which utterly ignores him. He cares nothing for him now; he never has; and men of his type never will.

But Roosevelt has introduced the "forgotten man" to Ogden Mills, and he actually mentions him in his Portland speech. The "forgotten man" never would have been mentioned in this campaign but for Roosevelt's speech.

There are 11,000,000 jobless men who have been stubbornly ignored by Mills and Hoover for three long years of human misery.

There are 30,000,000 more of forgotten men and women dependent on the jobless, for the prevention of whose starvation Mills and Hoover stubbornly insisted not one penny of federal money should be contributed.

There are 30,000,000 farmers who are bankrupt, or on the verge of bankruptcy, who have been forgotten by the administration.

And these have votes. Because Ogden Mills knows that ordinary intelligence and self-interest in these forgotten men and women would impel them to vote for a change in the governmental attitude toward them, he has discovered them. He remembers them 60 days before election; he will again forget them the day after.

Mills Impudent To Mention Prejudices

The most impudent suggestion in the Mills speech is that "we cannot afford to record our prejudices at the polls."

Had not the Hoover High Command, which included Ogden Mills, specialized in 1928 in mobilizing religious and racial prejudices in the interest of Mr. Hoover, everyone knows that Al Smith would have been elected.

Unless, by working the other side of the street now, this same Hoover High Command can again mobilize prejudices by a whispering campaign conducted by the same people who went the limit in 1928, everyone knows Mr. Roosevelt will be elected.

That is the reason Moses—notorious for his part in the campaign of prejudice four years ago—is sent out by Ogden Mills and his group to create prejudices to maintain Mr. Hoover, the beneficiary of the slander campaign of 1928, in power. Mr. Mills made an error in mentioning the word "prejudices." It is one hope on which he relies for a Hoover victory.

"General Staff" Changes Demanded

One must be driven to desperate straits when he argues that since a victory for Roosevelt would mean four months of inactivity between the election and the induction of the new administration into office, there should be no change. By that argument there never should be a change in the political complexion or the policies of the government. By that token elections would be meaningless.

But why no change? Mr. Mills answers:

"It is not simply a question of changing the commander-in-chief, but of supplanting the major and brigadier-generals, the colonels and the entire general staff."

That is the very thing that appeals most powerfully to the man who has been persistently forgotten. The commander-in-chief has led us to ruin. His incapacity for leadership, his procrastinations, his blunders have been generally conceded. And who are the members of the general staff the forgotten man must not supplant?

Just Read Names Of "General Staff"

There is Charles Curtis, the bone dry prohibitionist, who stands four-square openly for the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act.

There is Secretary Stimson, who deliberately or blunderingly has put us on the spot in the matter of the debts.

There is Ogden Mills, who thinks entirely in terms of stocks and bonds and big money, and who wants to transfer the debts to American taxpayers in the interest of the international bankers.

There is Secretary Hurley, who says the jobless must "shift for themselves," and who was commander-in-chief of the tanks and bayonets that drove veterans from the capital of the nation for which they had fought.

There is Secretary Wilbur, who says it is gratifying that the children of the jobless are hungry, because it will strengthen their characters.

There is Secretary Hyde, who smugly advises the jobless to "see the country" during their "enforced leisure" and to fish and hunt, and who has been of as much use to the farmer as a copy of Dante would be to a South Sea Islander.

There is Dr. Julius Klein, economist of the pollyannas, whose ludicrous misrepresentation of conditions continued until he literally was laughed into silence.

Assails Roosevelt For Aiding People

And Mr. Mills makes an attack on Roosevelt's position and on what grounds? He states them:

"The Governor would regulate the stock exchanges as to curb harmful speculation; he would control the issuance of securities and provide for greater publicity in connection with security issues; he would compel the separation of commercial and investment banking; and he promises better supervision of banks; and proposes to restrict our Federal Reserve banks in accordance with the original plans and earlier practices of the Federal Reserve system."

Now, gentle reader, that, in the mind of the "general staff" of the Hoover regime, is looked upon as an indictment! Have you any objection to having these policies for the protection of the people put in operation? Think that over, Mr. Mills has. He asks you to vote against them by supporting Mr. Hoover.

Hoover Favors Debt Cancellation

Again Mr. Mills lets the cat out of the bag when he denounces Roosevelt because he is "opposed to cancellation of the debts." That is interesting. No one can read that paragraph without knowing that the administration is committed now to the transfer of eleven billions in debts to the backs of American taxpayers.

That explains why nothing was said in the Republican platform, supervised by Mr. Mills, about "cancellation;" why the administration is silent now; and it may throw some light on the recent visit of "Prof. Clarence Skinner," alias Montagu Norman, to our shores in the midst of a campaign.

False Charges On Tariff Stand

And Mr. Mills touches on the Grundy act with a tender solicitude for the preservation of the act that was bought by the million dollars Grundy raised for Mr. Hoover's election, to the destruction of our foreign trade. But his discussion is dishonest. He implies that in the event of Roosevelt's election, there would be a sweeping downward revision of the tariff regardless of what other nations did. And that he knows is false. That was not the tariff bill passed by the Democratic House and the Republican Senate, which Mr. Hoover killed with a veto. That called upon the President to take the lead in negotiating international trade undertsandings that would reopen the lost markets to foreign trade. Every sound economist in the country favors that program.

Mr. Mills has never met the "forgotten man," he has merely heard of him through Roosevelt. He has no sympathy with him and never had. His is the voice of the Bourbon.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Houses of Life

Life is a hovel, sordid and poor,
Where men find varied ills to endure.
All those who enter blindly this place
Soon must know sorrow, pain's fierce embrace.

Doorways of dawning; portals of stars;
Turrets that tower into the sky;
Walls built of splendor; Heaven very nigh!

Hovel or palace; which will be yours?
Each of life's houses opens its doors.
Each bids you enter as you go by;
Ah, why not dwell with Heaven very nigh?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Rialto realizes it will never have another Ziegfeld. His passing accentuates his eccentricities, his moods and his astonishing genius. He was the victim of the "lucky break" that had dominated his life even in his exit.

For Ziegfeld, the master, would have soon been on his way down the other side of the hill. The theater which was his most passionate love was in the corona of eclipse. Perhaps his especial style of extravaganza, too, was being clouded by what he disdainfully called "sophisticated nothings."

He went out at his peak, the champion of his profession. Broadway was not allowed to forget him as it has so many of its idols. The street had not yet began looking groundward for his clay feet. But Ziegfeld was beginning to show the weight of Time.

I saw him last in a restaurant patronized by theater folk. A handsome figure of a man, he had begun to shrink. His eyes had lost some of the beady-luster. In photographs his eyes seem to be jet black because of their luminosity. They were a light blue, bright, ungrateful—like a pigeon's. No one lived more fully. Whatever he wanted, he managed to acquire. Querulous, ofttimes illogically unfair, he had a quality that eventually brought enemies around to be his friends. Everybody in the theater at some time or other hated Ziegfeld. He knew it—and smiled his glum smile.

There were those who said humor was Ziegfeld's blind spot. It is true he was not much interested in comedy. A nod from Gene Buck generally decided comedy acts for the Follies. Ziegfeld was more interested in melting girls into beautiful scenes and vice versa. Yet he had a quaint humor. Years ago I was his press agent at a time he was embarking for Europe in Ziegfeldian style—the royal suite, food from an avenue shop, a valet, private masseur and galaxy of secretaries. A catastrophe that day shunted ship news almost out of the paper. When the barren New York editions reached Paris and he had scanned them he cabled: "Sorry you sneaked me out of New York."

Like other Ziegfeld employes, he fired me and forgot about it. I would receive 500-word telegrams blowing me out of the water for some real or imagined publicity dereliction and an inglorious dismissal. At 7 the next morning from his bed in Hastings, his whining voice would assign me for multifarious duties of the day. He issued extravagant orders but expected only a modicum to be executed.

We once parted for good in mutual anger, each saying things we later regretted and for which we as mutually apologized. I was incensed at his annoying habit of phoning me at daybreak and it was largely why we parted relations. Yet only a few weeks before he died he offered a touch of humor in some trifling request for publicity which ended: "If you don't do this I'll be phoning you around 6 in the morning to see if you are well and happy."

* * *

No man knew Ziegfeld better than his English valet, Sidney, and contrary to the old saw, the producer was very much a hero to this "Jeeves" in real life. Sidney adored him and it was in his arms the master breathed his last. If he was happy, he twitted Sidney. If he was in a fury of temper, Sidney bore the brunt. But Ziegfeld went no place without Sidney or indulged no new venture without discussing it with his valet.

* * *

In his fusty offices in the New Amsterdam—where he spent the large part of his theatrical career—he sat at an enormous desk dotted with ivory elephants of which he was a collector. He smoked furiously $1 cigars imported from Havana and resting in a cunningly contrived humidor that shot one out, rolled in tin-foil, at a button push. Now and then he would leap from his desk and with a giant atomizer spray the room with exotic scents. He was a study in mass contradictions.

* * *

Next to the last time I saw him he was producing a show after a lull following a number of costly flops. Once, in his squeaky, nazal twang and with flushed array, he said: "Some of these producers think they are going to lay me out like a rug." Then he snapped: "But they won't." And they didn't. He died the master.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I was born in a ramshackle town that tumbled down from sleepy hills into a lazy bay; and always there was about me the glow of the sky, the glitter of the waters and the sound of the wind moving restlessly through the tangled gardens and the narrow, crooked streets.

A simple life, warm and bright and open to the sun.

But with night, a mystery would come. For always at night, or so it seemed, the tide would turn; and there was something about that turning which set me wondering, fearfully.

There before me would be the friendly and familiar waters, moving and murmuring softly within themselves, with the sunset splendor spilling and spreading in oily pools of gold and scarlet. Yet, even as I watched, the colors would fade and the waters would begin to recede.

A moment since, the bubbles had broken at my feet. Now they were a yard away—a rod—and between us had appeared a stretch of gleaming, dark sand that briefly cupped the last light in its hollows, then lay black and still.

So the waters moved out and out, taking with them their beauty and their music, and the dark space widened and widened.

And the sun set. And the night wind rose and fumbled stiffly through the rushes. And from the dark flats, on which no water could now be seen, there came the smell of death. Across the marshes a strange bird cried harshly, once, then was still. It was night.

So the tide would go out, and everything would seem to stop. Even back in the little houses scattered over the hills, everything seemed to stop. There would be no fishermen hurrying down to their nets; no laughing peddlers bartering, with shining baskets, at the kitchen doors. And in the gardens, where the sound of the sea had whispered and challenged, there was only hollow darkness. The adventure had ended. The waters had gone away.

But, after a long time, a change would come. Even if you sat there, watching through the night, you could not tell afterwards how it came. You only knew that something, somewhere, was waking, was moving in the darkness. Moving far off, very softly, very slowly, yet deliberately—drawing nearer and nearer.

And presently, as you strained your eyes to see, there would be a glimmering, and a quivering, and a gathering together—

And suddenly, out of the darkness, the waters would come rushing, racing, rising—with a sigh and a swish and a swoop and a swirl of foam—up and up, and up!—into the morning!

So the tide would turn, and life would begin again, and hope and laughter and the secret clamor of adventure would run like the wind through the tangled gardens and the narrow streets. For the waters had come back.

Always it was like that. Always, whenever the tide went out, life would seem to stop, and one would feel that it never could start again. But always, and always, the waters came back again—and life started anew.

As a child, to me that was a great mystery. And with the years that mystery has broadened. For I have come to see that the life of a man is much like that tide which filled and emptied that sunny bay. So, too, does the strength and desire in our human hearts ebb and flow, ebb and flow.

For a while we laugh and we work and we dream—and then something happens. A loss has come, or a shock, or some secret sickening we cannot define. But, suddenly, life is empty. Nothing moves. The waters have gone away. And we do not think that life will ever go on again. So we settle down to face the bitter mocking silence of the vacant years.

Then, suddenly, against all our believing, something moves within the silence; something quivers in the darkness.

AND THE TIDE IS IN!

You are brooding now,
Seeing only darkness
Where there once was brightness?
Feeling only silence
Where there once was song?
And you say "it's over?"
Don't!
LIFE IS NEVER OVER!
TIDES ARE ALWAYS TURNING!
